Welcome MAC TOOLS

RECORD HERALD

Vol. 115 — No. 163 | 34 Pages | Washington Court House, Ohio | 15 Cents | Friday, June 22, 1973

Best wishes to a new industry!

"Quality tools for the professional mechanic" is the motto for Mac Tools, Inc., now officially located in Washington C. H.

The firm, which manufactures about 4,000 hand tool items, officially opened the Washington C. H. facility today when president Paul W. Elrod presided at a ribbon-cutting ceremony in front of the offices on U.S. 35-S.

The move of the offices and many of the production lines from Sabina to the facilities formerly occupied by the National Cash Register Co. in Washington C. H. has taken nearly a year and is a major expansion for Mac Tools.

A special section welcoming Mac Tools to Washington C. H. is included in today's Record-Herald. The section includes pictures showing several of the tool-making processes and employes.

The buildings in Sabina are being retained by the company for the tool forging processes.

The company has been a neighbor of Washington C. H. for 35 years. The first production under the name of Mechanic's Tool and Forge Co., was in 1938 in a rented garage.

The firm has come a long way since its infancy and has great prospects for the future. Projections to 1977 show a doubling of both the capital expenditures for equipment to increase production, and the number of production employes.

There currently are about 400 employes in the Washington C. H. and Sabina plants.

An exhibit of many of the items manufactured by Mac Tools is currently on display in the lobby of the Washington Savings Bank.

2 more POWs charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two fighter pilots have been formally accused of misconduct for actions during their years in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps, Pentagon sources have disclosed.

They are the first officers to face such charges, which were brought by Rear Adm. James V. Stockdale, of Coronado, Calif. Stockdale, a captain as a POW, was promoted after he returned home.

Wilber was the executive officer of a squadron of Phantom F4 fighter planes when he was shot down over North Vietnam June 16, 1968.

Miller's Marine F4 Phantom went down over North Vietnam Oct. 13, 1967.

The sources said Thursday that Stockdale mailed the formal charges to Navy Secretary John Warner. Details of Stockdale's accusations were not available.

On May 29, eight enlisted men were formally charged by Air Force Col. Theodore Guy of misconduct during their years of imprisonment.

The eight men, all foot soldiers captured in South Vietnam, have denied any improper activities.

Under a policy set out by former Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, the Pentagon is making no formal charges against any of the 566 returned POWs. The accusations by Guy and Stockdale are made as individual servicemen charging other individual servicemen under the military code of justice.

Both Guy and Stockdale were provided with military lawyers who helped draw up the legal papers, sources said. Officially, Pentagon spokesmen say they have neither discouraged nor encouraged any serviceman to take action against any former POW.

Wilber has acknowledged making antiwar statements while in captivity. "I found out when I had time to think about myself, where I was, what we were doing, I found out that my conscience bothered me," he said in a recent interview.

A Navy man since 1948, Wilber is married and has three sons and a daughter. Miller, a Marine since 1949, is also married and has five sons.

Longest space journey

Skylab crew safely home

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Skylab's astronauts came safely home from man's longest space journey today, splashing down with pinpoint precision in the Pacific Ocean after 28 days and 11 million miles in orbit.

Just 39 minutes after touchdown, Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were hoisted onto the deck of this recovery carrier, still inside their Apollo ferry ship.

"We're all in good shape. Everything's OK," commander Conrad radioed as the spacecraft descended through the clouds and landed within view of USS Ticonderoga, just 6½ miles away. That indicated the astronauts had suffered no adverse physical reactions on returning to earth's gravity after a record four weeks' exposure to space weightlessness.

Ten minutes later they climbed through the hatch, smiled and waved as the ship's band played "Anchors Aweigh" for the all-Navy Skylab crew.

They walked unsteadily toward a mobile medical laboratory, showing some effects from the four weeks' exposure to weightlessness.

How well Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz fared in the weightless world will play a major role in determining if man can function efficiently in future long-duration flights. The first of the two 56-day Skylab missions is scheduled for launch July 27.

The astronauts almost were held over in orbit today to try to repair a refrigeration problem in their space station. But Mission Control decided there was nothing the astronauts could do and told them to come home.

Moscow summit slated for 1974

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev have reached agreement on a broadly-worded declaration vowing to avoid nuclear war and plan to sign the summit document later today, sources said.

The White House said that a midday signing ceremony would be held in the East Room. But spokesmen refused to disclose what would be signed.

Other sources reported, however, that the document was a declaration of intent to reduce the risk of nuclear devastation.

The agreement was reached as the two leaders looked ahead to a reunion summit in Moscow in 1974—the target date for formally limiting the awesome atomic arsenals of the two countries.

Although the surprise compact was cloaked in unusual secrecy, Nixon himself made a reference to the signing ceremony Thursday night.

"I'll see you at 12:30 tomorrow at the signing," Nixon reminded Brezhnev just before midnight as he left the Soviet Embassy after a banquet of caviar, borsch, Russian beef and fish, two kinds of vodka and Soviet champagne. The two leaders announced at the banquet plans for their third summit.

White House sources confirmed the document signing intentions but refused Thursday night to give details, saying only, "It's going to be an important one."

Prior to the White House ceremony, Brezhnev arranged to meet with about 40 business leaders at Blair House to discuss U.S.-Soviet trade—one of the items of "unfinished business" he cited Thursday night.

The two leaders popped a surprise in their banquet toasts, disclosing that Brezhnev had extended and Nixon had accepted an invitation to return to the Soviet Union next year for a third summit in as many years.

The reunion could provide a forum for the signing of a treaty placing permanent limits, and possibly calling for reductions, of the two nations' offensive nuclear weapons.

Nixon and Brezhnev, in a declaration of principles signed at the White House Thursday, the fourth day of their summit talks, set a 1974 target date for completing the lasting limitations on the number and quality of strategic nuclear weapons.

The seven-point accord is intended to accelerate stalemated Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Geneva. The U.S.-Soviet negotiators are trying to work out a permanent treaty to replace an interim arms limitation agreement signed at the Moscow summit a year ago.

Cash flow eyed by budget panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House-Senate conferees on Ohio's $9.9 billion budget bill are looking at estimates of the state's cash flow—money on hand—as grounds for a possible compromise.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's administration has estimated $188 million in the account for the next two years but Republicans figure it will be closer to $250 million.

The extra estimated funds, sources said, may be used to restore some of the cuts made by Senate Republicans in agency requests.

Rep. Vernal Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said no compromises had been made Thursday.

"We've had a break through, but we still have to get into the heavy stuff," said Riffe, one of the conferees.

Legislative attention centered on the six member committee Thursday as the legislature recessed for the week.

The committee chairman, Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, scheduled the next session for Monday at 8 p.m. "I think we can get together on this bill," he said.

Although the sessions have been public, the committee has also met informally, usually in Riffe's office.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, has said there is a general agreement by both Republicans and Democrats to avoid interim temporary budgets if at all possible.

The current appropriations bill expires at midnight June 30. Two years ago, the state operated on interim budgets for six months before the final measure was passed.

The House defeated by a single vote Thursday a bill that would have revised state wildlife management programs and gave full police powers to game protectors.

The bill received 49 favorable votes, and 39 negative. It needed 50 favorable votes for passage. The measure was kept alive by a motion to reconsider. It was left pending.

Two additional bills creating a state lottery were introduced into the House. They differed on how the proceeds would be spent.

Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton, offered a bill similar to one now pending in the Senate, which would establish a

New Grace Church pastor, family relocate in WCH

The Rev. T. Mark Dove, newly named pastor of Grace United Methodist Church, and his family moved into the parsonage at 135 W. Circle Ave. Thursday.

The Rev. Mr. Dove, his wife, Jenelle, and their three children, Timothy, 15, Rochelle (Shelley), 12, and Todd, 10, come here from Wyoming, a suburb of Cincinnati, where Mr. Dove had been the minister of Friendship United Methodist Church for the past eight years. He succeeds the Rev. John Armentrout who has been transferred to Forest Chapel, in Cincinnati.

The Rev. Allen Puffenbarger continues as associate pastor of Grace Church.

MR. DOVE, 40, was born in Columbus. His father, the late Walter Dove, was a district soil conservationist who was once stationed in this area.

A Bellefontaine High School graduate, Rev. Mr. Dove received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Ohio State University with a major in psychology. He was graduated from the Boston University School of Theology with a Bachelor of Sacred Theology (STB) degree in 1957.

He served three churches in the Maineville area, near Lebanon, for three years and remained at the Maineville church for an additional two years. Before accepting the pastorate at Wyoming, he served three years on the staff of the Westwood Church, in Cincinnati.

A Mason, Mr. Dove is a member of the 32nd Degree, Scottish Rite, and was affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity at Ohio State. His wife was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, also graduating from Ohio University, where she majored in speech and hearing therapy, in the College of Education. She taught for four years in Cincinnati.

Mr. Dove delivered his first sermon at Grace Church last Sunday. His hobbies include sailing and fishing.

Social Security boost slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted a 5.5 per cent cost-of-living increase for 28 million Social Security beneficiaries, effective next January. Indications were that both the Senate and House would accept it.

The panel decided on an 11 to 2 roll call Thursday to add the provision to a debt limit extension bill, even though Nixon administration officials had objected to it.

Committee Chairman Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said he was certain the Senate would approve the rider when it acts on the bill next week.

And it was learned that House Democratic leaders were prepared to get their branch to accept it when the debt limit measure goes to conference. The House already has passed the bill.

Long said the pace of inflation has been so great since the last Social Security boost in October 1972 that Congress has no alternative but to give some relief to "these poor people who are the biggest victims of inflation."

The debt limit bill was chosen as the vehicle for the rider since the President must act on it by June 30.

Weather

Partly cloudy through Saturday with a chance of showers or thundershowers, mainly in the afternoon or evening. Highs both days in the upper 70s to the mid 80s. Lows tonight in the 50s.

John Rankin to spend summer in Brazil

MTHS to host student from Natal, Africa

Miami Trace High School has announced the plans of two American Field Service scholarship winners.

John Rankin, a 1973 MTHS graduate, will spend 10 weeks this summer in Velohorizonte, Brazil and Sheila Gordon, of Natal, South Africa, will come to Washington C. H. in late July to attend school here next fall.

Miss Gordon, 18, will stay with the Will Braun family, Hess Rd. She will be a senior at Miami Trace as will her "American Sister," 16-year-old Marlene Braun, Loretta Braun, 15, will be a sophomore.

Miss Gordon will have little communication problem since English and Afrikaans are the official languages of South Africa, and her school work is in English. She is especially interested in speech and drama and enjoys swimming and tennis.

Rankin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rankin, of 729, near Milledgeville, will be staying with the Bolovdorp family in Brazil. His host, director of a chemical company there, has four children, including two sons, age 17 and 18. Rankin will return Aug. 31.

SHEILA GORDON

JOHN RANKIN

Keith Stimpert, who will be a senior at Washington High next fall, has left on schedule for Tucupita, Venezuela. He will spend the summer there with the Maduro family.

Deaths, Funerals

Virgil Howland

GREENFIELD — Virgil Howland, 57, of Greenfield, died at 9:15 a.m. Friday in Greenfield Hospital. A World War II veteran, he had been ill for more than a year.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel Bainter, whom he married in 1936; six sons, Charles, of Greenfield, Gary, of Frankfort, and Steve, Mike, Ricky and Mark, all at home; seven daughters, Mrs. Robert (Jean) Roberts, of Leesburg, Mrs. Phillip (Wanda) Hill, Mrs. Robert (Judy) Mottie, Mrs. William (Linda) Elder, Mrs. George (Patricia) Penwell, and Mrs. Larry (Nancy) Chain, all of Greenfield, and Carla, at home; 22 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. A son preceded him in death.

He also is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Violet Cottrel, of Chillicothe, Mrs. Edna Paul and Mrs. Dorothy Cottrel, of Greenfield, and four brothers, Dwight, Robert, Paul, and Vernon, also of Greenfield.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Murray Funeral Home, with the Rev. Noble Miller officiating. Burial will be in Greenfield Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Sunday.

MRS. LENA V. ALLEN — Services for Mrs. Lena V. Allen, 70, of Chillicothe, were held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Frank White, pastor of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church, officiating. Mrs. Allen, a former resident of Washington C.H. and retired National Cash Register Co. employe, died Sunday.

WILMER RHONEMUS — Services for Wilmer Rhonemus, 89, Rt. 3, Sabina, were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Littleton Funeral Home with the Rev. William Arthur, pastor of the Lees Creek Christian Church, officiating. Mr. Rhonemus, a retired farmer, died Monday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Lees Creek Cemetery were Jerry, Mike, Terry and Jeff Rhonemus, David Powers and Richard Bias.

Area Deaths

HILLSBORO — Services for Mrs. Hazel F. Walker, 76, formerly of Hillsboro, who died Wednesday at her home in Fredericktown, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Miller Funeral Home with burial in Hillsboro Cemetery.

NEW VIENNA — Services for Walter Clevenger, 66, Rt. 3, Hillsboro, who died Thursday in Clinton Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Smith Funeral Home, with burial in Auburn Cemetery, Highland County.

WILMINGTON — Services for Charles Pendergraft, 57, and his son, Paul E., 27, both of Rt. 5, Wilmington, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Sulcer Funeral Home with burial in the Memorial Gardens. The two died Tuesday as the result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Waynesville. Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. today.

commission to implement a lottery. Proceeds would go into the general fund.

Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor introduced a bill that would also create a five-member commission to implement a lottery but would send proceeds back to the counties for property tax relief.

The House approved 72-10 a bill to require slow moving vehicle insignias on animal-drawn vehicles. It is aimed at curbing the accident rate in the Amish area of northeastern Ohio.

The insignias are now required for tractors and other slow equipment. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House approved 81-2 and sent to the Senate a bill extending from five to ten years the maximum time to levy taxes for support of children's services by counties.

The Senate approved 30-0 a bill that would allow the state to build facilities for non-profit private mental retardation institutions. It now goes to the Senate.

The Senate, by an identical vote, passed a bill that requires a record of time spent in jail awaiting trial to accompany a felon admitted to a state penal institution.

Prisoner hangs self in county jail cell

A 21-year-old New Lebanon man being held in the Fayette County jail on breaking and entering charges, committed suicide Thursday night by hanging himself with a bedsheet, the Sheriff's Department reported.

Sheriff Don Thompson said Gary Lee Shock, 21, was found by Deputy Gary Sword during a routine jail check at 9:55 p.m. Sword attempted to revive Shock then called for an ambulance. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital by Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner.

Shock and three other Dayton area men had been arrested early Wednesday after they allegedly broke into a vending machine at Yeoman's Gulf station, U. S. 35 and I-71. He was being held in the jail under $1,000 bond after appearing in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon and entering a not guilty plea.

Sheriff Thompson said Shock had tied the bedsheet around a bar on the side of the cell. He was alone in the cell.

The Sheriff said Sword had made a jail check an hour before and a jail trusty had talked to Shock only minutes before he was found.

An autopsy was to be performed on the body today.

Government eases dividend curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move apparently aimed at the sagging stock market, the Nixon administration has eased its voluntary guidelines holding dividend increases to 4 per cent a year.

The Committee on Interest and Dividends Thursday gave corporations a choice of holding to the 4 per cent guideline or using a more complicated formula. The complex alternative permits dividends to rise by the average increase between 1968 to 1970.

The committee's chairman, Dr. Arthur F. Burns, head of the Federal Reserve Board, said the new guidelines "will make it possible for many corporations to increase their dividend payments significantly this year and to a still greater degree next year."

Burns said the move would be of particular benefit to the elderly and to widows dependent on dividend income.

But the decision also was directed at the stock market, which has failed to respond favorably to President Nixon's new 60-day freeze on prices.

When a report circulated a few weeks ago that the committee was considering changing the guidelines, the stock market moved up strongly. It dropped after the administration said the proposal to ease the guidelines had been put back on the shelf.

Sources said the latest move was aimed more at the stock market than anything else.

The committee, an adjunct of the Cost of Living Council, said it was guided by considerations of equity, saying that the previous guidelines had limited dividend increases by some companies to unusually low levels in comparison with earnings.

The move came as the Commerce Department reported that before-tax profits of corporations increased by $12.8 billion in the first three months of the year, putting corporate profits at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $114.3 billion.

The News In Brief

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting across South Vietnam fell to its lowest level in five months today, with the number of Communist violations reported by the Saigon command down by nearly 50 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal funds totaling nearly $1.9 million have been spent to bolster security and provide support at President Nixon's residences in San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., officials have announced.

The expenditures include $1,180,522 at the Key Biscayne compound and $730,367 at the San Clemente estate, said officials for the General Services Administration.

Spacemen home

The Apollo craft hit the calm blue waters at 9:50 a.m. EDT about 830 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif. It was just after dawn off the West Coast.

The 42,000-ton Ticonderoga quickly steamed alongside the three-ton Apollo and tossed a line to frogmen in the water. A crane then lifted the craft and the astronauts to an elevator for a ride to the hangar deck.

Hundreds of white-clad sailors on deck and millions watching television around the world again had a ringside seat to a U.S. man-in-space landing as the Apollo craft floated down through low-hanging clouds and dangling under three huge orange and white parachutes.

"Everyone's in super shape," Conrad said as the spacecraft bobbed on the water awaiting pickup. Frogmen immediately leaped from helicopters to secure the spacecraft with flotation collars.

The Ticonderoga reported the astronauts had landed 6½ miles from the ship and that the ship was 6½ miles from the target point, indicating a perfect touchdown.

The Ticonderoga steamed to pick up the Apollo capsule with the astronauts still inside, in contrast to most earlier U.S. flights when the spacemen were lifted to the carrier by helicopter.

Medical requirements dictated the pick up method today.

Medical experts were not certain how the astronauts would react after returning to earth's gravity following record exposure to space weightlessness so they decided the astronauts should be subjected to as little activity as possible until they can be examined in mobile medical laboratories aboard the Ticonderoga.

The landing completed an historic space mission that lasted 28 days and 50 minutes. During that time the spacemen circled the earth 395 times.

Misson Control was kept in suspense for most of the final 76 minutes of the flight — a period when the Apollo ship was out of radio contact with ground stations.

The Ticonderoga's radar picked up the streaking craft at a distance of 188 miles, 10 minutes before landing.

While out of radio contact, at 9:11 a.m., the astronauts conducted the critical retrorocket burn that slowed their 17,100 mile-an-hour speed by 130 miles, allowing earth's gravity to tug the spacecraft out of orbit and start the long glide through the atmosphere to the eastern Pacific.

The refrigeration trouble caused considerable concern. A maneuver intended to correct it caused a brief gyroscope problem that caused the 10-minute delay in the astronauts' departure from the orbiting laboratory.

"We're free," Conrad reported seconds after the control center flashed the go-ahead for undocking from the 118-footlong laboratory.

After the undocking, the astronauts made a 45-minute flyaround inspection of the station, televising pictures of the odd-looking space vehicle to mission control for evaluation by experts.

Then, in quick succession, they triggered the engine firings that gradually dropped them closer to earth from their original orbital altitude of 275 miles.

Claim Watergate witnesses 'stepped on'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican member of the Senate Watergate committee says the Nixon administration has "stepped on" anyone willing to search for the truth about Watergate.

Sen. Lowell O. Weicker Jr., who made the claim Thursday, also said that fired White House Counsel John W. Dean III should be listened to when he appears before the panel. Dean, who has said he discussed Watergate and a possible coverup with President Nixon, will be the lead-off witness when the hearings resume next week.

"I think there is a great deal of credibility to a story that he is going to go ahead and tell, and I think the committee owes it to him to enable him to tell that story in full view of the public," Weicker said on a Public Television show, "Evening Edition." He was interviewed by Martin Agronsky.

"Is his testimony credible? I think it is. "Nobody's attributing 100-per-cent credibility to him or any other witness, but he's got the guts to stand out there and that's no small thing when you were in his position and had all the pressures that obviously must have existed on this young man at the time to decide that you're going to step forward and tell the story to the American people."

Weicker was the sole opponent of the committee's decision to postpone Dean's appearance for one week last Tuesday because of the summit conferences this week between Nixon and Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

"It should be clear from various public statements that have been made that any institution, whether it's a witness, anybody that's willing to step out and try to find out the truth and try to tell the truth is gonna' get stepped on by the executive branch of government," the Connecticut senator said.

He cited Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's recent attack on the Watergate panel as one that "can hardly hope to find the truth and hardly fail to muddy the waters of justice," as an example of the executive branch's efforts.

Meanwhile, the committee said it was considering a halt to the practice of talking to prospective witnesses in secret because so much supposedly confidential information is leaked to the media.

"I nearly despair of doing anything about it," committee Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said Thursday. "It means that the committee probably will end its closeddoor sessions with witnesses, which until now have been held routinely in advance of public appearances.

Ohioans probably will be in for a generally pleasant weekend, the National Weather Service reported today.

The weather map Friday morning showed a trough of low pressure over Michigan and Indiana which is expected to move eatward across Ohio today.

A few light showers occurred in the trough line Thursday night and this activity will probably intensify somewhat Friday afternoon, but showers are expected to be rather widely scattered and mainly limited to the northern counties.

Skies were generally cloudy during the night with a few light showers spread over the northwestern counties. Temperatures early Friday ranged from 62 at Toledo to 68 at Ironton on the Ohio River.

Temperatures Friday afternoon are expected to rise into the upper 70s and lower 80s with the lows tonight mostly in the 60s. High pressure over the plains states will be drifting eastward during the next few days giving the prospect of a sunny dry weekend with gradually rising temperatures.

Fair Sunday and Monday with a chance of showers about Tuesday. Warmer with highs in the upper 80s and low 90s. Lows mostly in the 60s.

LONDON (AP — The U.S. dollar dropped to a record low against the West German mark in Frankfurt today and weakened in other European centers.

West European countries stepped in to bolster the faltering Italian lira with up to $2.9 billion worth of support.

American money sank in value to 2.55 marks for $1 as the Frankfurt exchange reopened after a holiday Thursday. Wednesday's price was 2.567 marks.

Frankfurt dealers said the dollar was under selling pressure from New York, and from traders hedging against weekend uncertainties.

For much of the past week, the dollar has closed lower in New York than in European money markets, indicating that American companies are selling dollars for stronger European currencies such as the German mark and Swiss franc.

Dealers in Europe attributed the dollar weakness largely to the effect of the Watergate scandal on the Nixon administration and to inflation in the United States.

In Paris, the dollar lost just over a centime, dipping to 4.22 commercial French francs.

Stock list on upside

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market zoomed upward in active trading today, reacting to the announcement that common shareholders may soon get higher dividend prices on their stocks. But later the market pulled back.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.35 points at 882.00. The Dow zoomed up 19 points when the market opened in a rash of buying. Advancing issues held a 883-377 lead over declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

"A little profit-taking came in but we're settling down now," said John Smith of Fahnestock & Co.

Armco Steel was the most-active issue on the Big Board, up ⅜ at 20½. A 206,500-share block was traded at 20¼, off ⅛.

The noon broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 stocks was up 0.36 points at 54.68.

On the American Stock Exchange, trading was also active and prices higher. The noonprice change index was up 0.01 points at 22.37. Trans World Airlines warrants was the most-active issue on the Amex, up ⅛ at 5.

Legal services for the poor voted by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to create an independent government corporation to provide strictly limited legal services for the poor.

In a session lasting until nearly midnight Thursday, the House adopted 24 amendments to the controversial bill, most of them restricting the scope of the program.

Legal Services lawyers would be barred from representing clients in school desegregation and abortion cases, or from lobbying on their behalf before legislative bodies.

Senate passes land-use bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill to bring an end to landscape blight caused by chaotic urban sprawl and to protect beaches and shorelines.

Eagerly sought by environmentalists, the Senate passed the land-use bill Thursday, 64 to 21. It requires the states to establish land-use plans within eight years.

The measure, which now goes before the House where similar legislation is under study, was substantially unchanged from the version approved by the Senate Interior Committee.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Interior Committee, argued for passage on grounds that nationwide planning is essential to protect America's natural resources.

The measure would authorize, over an eight-year period, $1 billion for land-use planning and $66 million for administration, research and training.

States would receive $920 million for developing state and regional plans and $80 million would go for Indian tribal plans.

The plans would follow federal guidelines aimed at preserving such areas of critical environmental concern as beaches, jetports, shorelines and highway interchanges. The guidelines would be under Interior Department supervision.

A House Interior subcommittee has completed hearings on land-use-planning bills and is expected to consider the proposals in mid-July.

Among the bills before the House subcommittee is an Administration proposal calling for sanctions against noncooperative states, and smaller grants than those in the Senate measure.

Humor marks momentous signing

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the East Room of the White House, where presidents entertain and seven have lain in state, where the family of John Adams hung out their wash to dry and the children of Teddy Roosevelt roller-skated on the parquet floor, Richard Nixon added four striking moments of history, humor and irony yesterday.

At 3:30 p.m., a deep voice announced:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States of America and his Excellency, Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

The audience of Russian and American officials rose and applauded, including the senior senator from North Carolina, Sam J. Ervin Jr.

The President and the Communist leader, a study in contrasting lives and personalities, mounted a small platform and there, with portraits of Dolley Madison and George Washington looking over their shoulders, sat down at a heavy walnut table.

Waiting for the ceremony to begin, the President's eyes swept the room and here and there he nodded to familiar faces. Less than 20 feet away, the senior senator from North Carolina nodded back respectfully, a perpetual smile curling a corner of his mouth.

If, for a microsecond, the eyes of the two men met in a courteous collision of antagonists, it was not perceptible. But if they had, if they had, one wondered what were they thinking—the President of the United States, climaxing a week at the summit, and Sam Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate committee that conceivably could bring him down?

But in this week of grace, with the Watergate hearings postponed so that Nixon might negotiate with Brezhnev, the President had the centerpiece of their work to complete. And he quickly got to it.

He and Brezhnev first signed an agreement to expand cooperation on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. They signed in unison and exchanged copies and signed again.

Then they signed an agreement of principles designed to limit nuclear weapons permanently by the end of 1974.

No slouch at being upstaged, Brezhnev rose, leaned over and feigned a skeptical look at what was going on at Nixon's end of the table. The audience laughed.

At 3:34 the ceremony ended, the audience rose in standing applause and Brezhnev delivered a champagne toast: "Tovarish, na vashe zdoroviye." "Comrade, to your health."

It was a special moment hearing a Communist call Richard Nixon comrade.

A short time later, the steps of the North Portico were quiet again, except for a few happy young Russians taking souvenir photographs of themselves outside the home of the President of the United States.

Seek to ban atom tests

THE HAGUE (AP) — The International Court of Justice called on France today to refrain from nuclear testing in the South Pacific pending a final decision on the legality of the test series.

By an 8-6 vote, the court ruled that Australia and France should not take any action in the meantime "which might extend the dispute or prejudice the final decision of the court."

The court's ruling followed applications last month by Australia and New Zealand seeking an injunction against the French test series.

The court said it would schedule further hearings in September and December. It did not say if France, which boycotted last month's hearings, would be represented at the forthcoming sessions.

Peron seeks to restore party unity

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — After 18 years of exile, former Argentine president Juan Peron is attempting to pull together his movement's feuding factions, realizing the military could once again sweep into power.

After meeting with President Hector J. Campora Thursday night, Peron chastised militants "who try to infiltrate the popular ranks" and cautioned, "We are not in condition to continue destroying ourselves."

"We face a destiny pregnant with pitfalls and danger," Peron said in a nationally televised address. He warned against "those who think that they can capture our movement...."

The 77-year-old former dictator spoke only a day after 20 persons were killed and more than 400 wounded when shooting broke out among 2 million persons who had gathered to see Peron return from Madrid.

Peron blamed leftist infiltrators for the violence and government sources said the split within the movement could result in a reorganization of the new Peronist government of President Hector J. Campora.

Both radical and moderate elements of the Peronist movement united last March and elected Campora president after he had been picked to run by Peron. Most observers concede that Peron most probably will be the power behind the new government.

Sonny, Cher will appear at State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sonny and Cher, the husband and wife singing and comedy team and stars of a weekly television show, highlight the list of rock, pop and country music celebrities who will perform at the Ohio State Fair Aug. 23-Sept. 3.

The Ohio Expositions Commission announced the schedule for the fair's grandstand entertainment on Thursday.

Singing stars Helen Reddy and Mac Davis open the 12-day show with performances on Aug. 23 and 24. They will be followed by the rock band, Rare Earth, on Aug. 25, Dionne Warwicke and "Doc" Severinsen Aug. 26, and the Osmonds, Aug. 27-28.

Sonny and Cher will perform Aug. 29 followed by the 5th Dimension Aug. 30, The Jackson 5 Aug. 31, Country western singer Charley Pride Sept. 1 and Al Green Sept. 2.

The Grand Ole Opry Show will conclude the entertainment on the final day of the fair, Labor Day, Sept. 3. The show will feature Tex Ritter, Ernest Tubb, Jan Howard, Jimmy Dickens and the Cloggers, Minnie Pearl, Skeeter Davis and Earl Scruggs.

New mounted police must watch greenery

SEATTLE, Wash (AP) — The city's new mounted police squad is to attend horticultural class before beginning patrols next week in the University of Washington Arboretum.

Citizens' groups have expressed concern that the horses' hooves might trample valuable greenery.

So the seven mounties are learning to identify what is underfoot.

Opinion And Comment

Both in the spotlight

Thus far there has been surprisingly little indication of partisan tensions among members of the Senate committee investigating the Watergate affair and related matters.

A few rather gentle sparks did fly after the chairman, Sen. Sam Ervin, bore down heavily on the Republicans' alleged practice of converting large campaign gifts to cash to "circumvent" the gift tax.

The committee's Republican vice chairman, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., promptly urged a sort of even-Stephen inquiry into the matter. "If we are going into this," he said, "I suggest the committee subpoena the records of the Democratic National Committee and all candidates of either major party for a reasonable period up to April 7 (the date in 1972 when the disclosure requirement changed) in order to study this."

Ervin as promptly agreed to this, observing that he would sign a subpoena to command the appearance of any witness requested by any member of the committee. That, to mix metaphors, diluted whatever racy partisan flavor might have developed at the hearings.

Baker is quite right in proposing that if one party is to be called into question for the deceptive practice of breaking down big contributions into a number of smaller ones, both parties should be held accountable.

It appears that this will be done, and Democratic National Chairman Robert L. Strauss has already said that he welcomes inspection of his party's financial records.

The prospect of an inquiry into this is heartening. Both parties have to some extent been guilty of obeying the letter of the law while ignoring its spirit.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Massachusetts may be redistricted

BOSTON — The forces of reform, led by the League of Women Voters, have just won a noble victory — or so they believe. After about five years of agitation and pressure plus a referendum, the Great and General Court — our legislature — has voted to decrease the size of the lower house from 240 members to 160.

This will go on the ballot in November for final approval, and one can predict that it will pass overwhelmingly. However, before you cheer too loudly for the enlightened Massachusetts electorate, it is worth noting the suspicion that a referendum entirely to abolish the Great and General Court would probably receive public endorsement.

The League of Women Voters has argued persuasively that a small house will be much more efficient. Possibly this is true, though I doubt it. The "inefficiency" of the legislature has not been a function of its size, but of the chaotic state of Massachusetts politics.

The New York State Legislature, for example, is roughly the same size as ours, but Gov. Nelson Rockefeller runs it like a Marine boot camp.

MASSACHUSETTS simply has no organized political parties. Every time an election looms up, the clans gather and coalitions form only to vanish the day after election. As the 1972 election amply demonstrated, there are no coattails and the notion that the Kennedys controlled the Democrats was nonsense (as they were aware) — their strength was and still is limited to a veto power. They can't elect anybody, but they can block an undesirable nominee.

At any rate the League is jubilant and in political terms it has a right to be. To get a legislature to purge itself is quite a trick. But there is a joker in the deck which the League simply refuses to recognize.

Assuming for purposes of discussion that the League is right in suggesting that the smaller body will be more efficient, it is equally true that it will be less representative. In concrete terms, the state will be carved into 160 house districts rather than 240. Does anyone want to put any money on who will bet the axe?

In our legislature we have some of the best map manipulators in the business. Just recently, for example, they put on a display that should have made national news. It began when the blacks, backed by the liberals, indicated their desire for a seat in the lily-white state Senate.

Among the strong supporters of this move — as of other egalitarian causes — were the Boston Jewish community and Jewish members of the General Court. So, chuckling with glee, the map-makers retired to their basement room and returned with a redistricting plan for the Senate which put the black sections in the same senatorial district as predominantly Jewish Brookline!

"Let the Jews and blacks fight it out!" observed one cheerful lawmaker. This, however, was a little too much and, as of this writing, the map-makers are back at their board.

THE POINT that the League stubbornly refused to acknowledge is that the map-makers will be a noble group of senior legislators who will devote themselves to preserving their ilk. The black caucus in the House, which has five members, blew the whistle immediately. They figure that the new map will dispose of at least three of their company and they don't eliminate the possibility that four could be mapped out.

Other groups, the Armenians in particular, feel the same way: a friend of mine from that community observed sourly that the new house would contain 80 Irish, 79 Italians, and one black, but that fortunately many Irish and Italians had Armenian wives.

Well, wondrous are the ways of reform. My guess is that the League of Women Voters will live to regret its abstract commitment to efficiency when it sees how the old pols carve up that new map.

Connally seeks graceful way to bow out

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Connally's first mission as a Republican isn't working out the way he had hoped and he apparently is finding it difficult to bow out gracefully.

Consequently, the political future of the most prominent Democrat-turned Republican may be not good.

On May 1, when President Nixon announced that the former chairman of Democrats for Nixon was becoming a parttime White House advisor, Connally appeared to have come up with the ideal situation.

He could both establish himself as a credible Republican by aiding his party in its hour of need, and on the other hand, by not taking a more formal job with a title, he didn't get close enough to be tainted by Watergate.

But while denying a string of published reports that the job has turned sour for him, Connally said he hoped his news conference Wednesday would get the message to Nixon "that I hope we get through by the middle of the summer."

"He obviously wants to disassociate himself from the administration," one associate said. "He wants to put as much water between him and the President as possible."

Among the reports that have been leaking out about Connally are that he is at odds with White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, who he reportedly thinks should quit, and has called the White House operation "a screwed-up mess."

Rumblings too frequent, too forceful and too authoritative to be ignored despite public disclaimers say Connally feels frustrated and stifled, ignored and under-utilized.

Connally also is reported to have given Nixon some unwelcome advice about Watergate, which has cooled the once warm relations between the two. Other reports say he seldom gets to see Nixon privately and does not have the punch he did formerly as Secretary of the Treasury, which he held as a Democrat during Nixon's first term.

Eyebrows have arched over the fact that Connally works out of a hotel suite instead of an assigned office in the Executive Office Building and has been given no staff.

The job also has not produced the limelight that an aspiring politician needs. As a private advisor rather than the administration spokesman he was as a Cabinet member, Connally has gotten little or no publicity.

But Connally cannot afford the appearance of abandoning ship at this point, of having failed or chickened out of his mission as savior to an embattled president and healer to the party.

And Nixon equally as much does not need the embarrassment of having John Connally, who he is reported to have predicted will be the 1976 GOP presidential nominee, quit in a huff.

So, Wednesday, with Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren at his elbow, Connally said all the right things, denying all the published rumors—and then demolished the whole effort with several of his witticisms.

He denied he was not being adequately utilized, and then volunteered as how he has had a lot of time "for catching up on my reading." At another point he said: "I believe I've given all the advice that I have to give."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

After last week's council meeting I stopped and spoke to Chief Rodman Scott and he was telling me about the remodeling that he and his men did on the Police headquarters.

He invited me and also extended an invitation to Don Wood. So we took him up on his invitation.

To say the least I was amazed to see how much improved it looked to the old building. The police force should be given a big hand of gratitude from the people of Washington C.H. The best part is they did it on their own time.

Men like that must really like their jobs, only to be superseded by the love of their community.

I think these men did a wonderful job on remodeling plus the money they saved the tax payers.

I feel these men should have bouquets given them for their effort. I think they deserve orchids.

Find baby elephant male, not a female

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Portland zoo officials have discovered that a 3-day-old, 225- pound elephant is a male, not a female as they thought earlier.

The 13th member of the zoo's herd was born Sunday, bring the count to five males and eight females.

At the official weigh-in Wednesday, the 35-inch tall baby was found to have a 20- inch tail, 9-inch trunk and 44- inch chest.

High gasoline prices predicted for future

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — "I don't think you'll see it for a long time where $1 a gallon is a normally accepted price of gasoline," says the president of Gulf Oil Corp. "It will come, but it will be a long time before it comes," Bob Dorsey predicted at a press conference Tuesday.

He said the price of gasoline and other fuels "are going to be going up steadily as time goes by. I don't think it's going to be dramatic."

Half our problems.

Plastic wrapping on soup crackers that is stronger than steel.

College diplomas that don't qualify a guy to earn as much as a plumber's helper.

Any more gore-filled movies or television shows that threaten to exhaust the nation's supply of ketchup.

That tired feeling everyone seems to get from 20th century living.

Suburban trains that have standing room only.

Girls who tell you they dreamed about you last night but won't tell what happened in the dream.

Girls who say they aren't that kind of girl but act like they are.

Leftover pizza pie for breakfast.

Leftover party food of any kind.

Overly amiable guys who, no matter what the weather is, say it's the very kind of weather they like best.

Strangers at a bar who insist on telling everybody in the house what great football players they were in high school.

Any new breakfast food that claims it can do more for you than the new breakfast food that came out yesterday can.

Drivers who get completely lost while trying to take a short cut home in order to save time.

Anybody who says "God bless you" when neither you nor God is really on his mind.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Confessing to affair would serve no purpose

DEAR ABBY: I am in the United States Air Force. I am a married man, but I have spent more time away from my wife than with her because I have been stationed overseas in places where dependents are not permitted.

I love my wife with all my heart and nothing could ever change that. We have had a good marriage in which we have always said that we would be absolutely truthful with each other. Well, that is my problem. I have failed in my part of the agreement.

I have told my wife that she was the only woman I have ever had an affair with. That's a lie. Before I was married, I had an affair with a married woman. While I was overseas I had two "one-night stands" with a different girl each time. They meant nothing to me. I can't even remember their names.

I have prayed for forgiveness and feel that Jesus has forgiven me, but I feel so guilty about lying to my wife. But if I told her the truth now she would never believe another world I said. believe another word I said.

Should I confess these lies to her or not? Abby, you are the only person to whom I've told this.

At the bottom of your column in the Stars and Stripes it says: "Write to Abby, you'll feel better if you get it off your chest."

I think I do. Now tell me, should I tell my wife?

OFF MY CHEST IN GUAM

DEAR OFF: No, no, no! Confessing to your wife would only make her unhappy. You've confessed to Jesus. That's enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is an unwritten code of ethics among hairdressers. One operator does not deliberately steal another operator's patron. If the customer herself decides to switch to her own accord, fine and dandy. But for an operator to try to lure away a co-workers best-paying or most interesting customers is unethical.

As a shop owner who is also a hairdresser I have seen some excellent operators fall victim to such piracy and consequently lose their self-confidence. By the time the owner of the shop becomes aware of what has happened, the offending operator have made themselves so valuable to the shop that the owner can't afford to fire them.

How are the victims to fight back?

NAMELESS OUT WEST

DEAR NAMELESS: It's conceivable that a salesperson might successfully lure away a co-worker's customer. But it's highly unlikely that a hairdresser could "steal" a satisfied patron from a co-worker. If the patron can be "lured away, she's not satisfied, in which case it's her privilege to switch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged woman with a problem I hope you won't think this is too silly to answer. Every summer I visit my sister in Omaha for a week. She has a lovely guest room, and I enjoy visiting her, but there is one annoyance.

In the hall just outside my bedroom door there is a grandfather clock which chimes on the half hour, and then again on the hour. These chimes keep me awake practically all night. I can't understand how my sister and her husband can sleep with that clock in the hall. When the chimes are silent, I am disturbed by the loud ticking.

I hate to complain to my sister, but I am dreading my next visit. Perhaps if you print this she'll get the hint.

"TICK, TOCK, AND BONG"

DEAR TICK: Here's your letter. And if that clock is still "ticktocking" and "bonging" when you arrive in Omaha, ask your sister to please stop the clock for the duration of your visit.

Fellowship Hall is Dedicated by Gregg Street Church of Christ

The Fellowship Hall of the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon, June 17. The hall is located on U.S. Rt. 35 at Jamison Rd. The spacious building is the hub of fellowship activities for the church.

Several of the leaders of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union were present, including Dr. W.L. Cozad, general superintendent of the churches of Christ in Christian Union, and the Rev. Joe Johnson, district superintendent.

The Rev. Charles Williams introduced the current church board and some members who were on the board when plans for the Fellowship hall was conceived. He stated that the vision for this building was born during the 1970 Revival which lasted four weeks. It began as a dream but now stands as a monument to those who worked so hard for its success. He said that his greatest satisfaction was that it was a place to honor our Senior Citizens. Each year the Gregg Street Church holds an appreciation day for the Senior Citizens of the church.

It has also become the custom to have a banquet each year for our graduating seniors. Wedding receptions for people from our church are held there, last winter we had 18 basket ball teams all formed from boys who are members of either our Sunday School or our church.

Class meetings of the various Sunday School Classes are also held in this building. There is seldom a day when it is not busy with some function or another. It has a large gymnasium type auditorium, a completely equipped kitchen, and a large living room-type lounge.

At the present time the Gregg Street Church is holding a tent revival on the grounds of the Fellowship Hall. The church owns 13 acres on this site, with the Rev. Mr. Williams, evangelist. The Kenny Parker Trio are the singers for the entire week and on Thursday, they will be joined by Dottie Rambo.

Services begin each evening at 7:30 p.m. In the event of high wind or seriously inclement weather the services will be held in the church on Gregg Street. Sunday School and Church will be held in the Gregg Street Church as usual but all evening services including Sunday will be held at the tent on the Fellowship Hall Grounds.

Churchmen become involved in strikes

By GEORLE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A bishop on a picket line...a priest beaten in a labor dispute . . . a sidewalk religious service for strikers.

These are among incidents marking an increasingly active role by American church leaders in behalf of various groups of striking workers.

The tactics are mostly new, often controversial.

Both Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders have sided with Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers union in its efforts to represent California grape workers, and a growing lineup of bishops are backing demands of strikers at an El Paso clothing plant for collective bargaining rights.

In both cases, the workers are mostly Mexican-Americans.

Although major religious bodies for years have voiced general support for principles of labor organizing rights, they usually haven't become directly involved in specific labor conflicts, as they now are doing.

But in "crisis situations," the confrontation method often is the "best way of delivering the message of Jesus,' says the Rev. Dennis J. Geaney, a Chicago priest-educator, after a stint on a picket line outside a supermarket, demanding it sell only UFW-picked grapes.

On the basis of a three-month inquiry by a special commission, the executive committee of the National Council of Churches also threw its support to Chavez' UFW, a stand taken previously by a U.S. Roman Catholic bishops' committee.

When its chairman, Bishop Joseph Donnelly, of Hartford, Conn., recently visited pickets at grape ranches in California's Coachella Valley, praying with them and blessing them, he was taunted by ranch guards.

"Go back to your churches!" some yelled. "Quit putting your nose in our business. Stick to religion! Stop supporting the Commie line!"

In El Paso, a drawn-out strike for union representation by workers at the big Farah Manufacturing Co., a maker of men's pants, has drawn backing of more than a dozen Catholic bishops in addition to El Paso's Bishop Sidney Metzger.

A boycott of the company's products, urged initially by Paso's Bishop Metzger and San Antonio's Bishop Patrick Flores, also drew support of four Arizona and New Mexico bishops.

The year-long strike against the company reportedly involves 2,000 of more than 8,000 employes.

In the California grape dispute, Chavez' UFW for three years had contracts with grape growers, but when contracts expired this spring, most growers — 30 of them — signed new contracts not with the UFW, but with the Teamsters Union.

Msgr. George Higgins, a veteran labor expert for the U.S. Catholic Conference, says surveys have shown field workers prefer by almost 10 to 1 to be presented by the UFW.

Meanwhile, in Coachella, Calif., the Rev. John Bank, a priest from Youngstown, Ohio, working with the UFW, was hospitalized after being beaten, allegedly by a guard from a ranch where Teamsters have a contract.

Taft with majority on land use measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, voted Thursday with the majority in approving a $1.06 billion bill to encourage proper planning for the use of land.

The vote in the Senate was 64-21. Ohio's other Republican senator, William Saxbe, did not vote.

the ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Samson Slays the Lion

Then went Samson down . . . and behold a young lion roared against him. And the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and (barehanded) he rent him as he would have rent a kid.

—Judges 14:5-6

Samson, son of Manoah, was the thirteenth Judge raised up to deliver the Israelites from the hands of the Philistines, under whom they had suffered for forty years. But it was the daughter of a Philistine whom he decided to marry—much against his parents' wishes. He persuaded them, nevertheless, to go with him to Timnath where she lived and arrange for the marriage. The Bible relates in its first of many tales of Samson's formidable strength, how along the road to Timnath, he encountered a lion and, without weapon of any kind, slew him with his bare hands.

Instead of ordering additional floral arrangements for the bride's table, the bride, her maid of honor and her bridesmaids can place their flowers in front of them as they take their places.

MRS. GUY RICHARD GARDNER

Miss Fout is June bride

Miss Janet Lee Fout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fout, 329 Peabody Ave., was united in marriage in First Christian Church June 15 to Guy Richard Gardner, son of Charles Frank Gardner, 518 Peddicord. The Rev. Don Baker read the double-ring service at 7:30 p.m., following a musical interlude by Miss Elaine Stookey, organist, and Mrs. Phyllis Matthews, vocalist.

The church altar had vase arrangements of white gladioli, blue and yellow Killian daisies and baby's breath, with flanking candelabra, tied with yellow and blue bows, and greenery. A candle, with greenery, was in each window and the family pews were decorated with leather leaf and tied with bows.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Fout was attired in a formal-length gown of white silk organza, over bridal taffeta, with a square, laced neckline and sheer bishop sleeves. An arched empire waistline was encircled with chantilly daisies. Lace motifs were on the chapel-length train and pearls were scattered over the entire outfit. She had an arched crown double silk veil and carried a cascade bouquet of white cattleya orchids nested in white stephanotis, with satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Karen Estep, the bride's cousin, who wore a pale yellow dotted swiss frock, empire-waisted, with V-neck and short puffed sleeves. Miss Monica Jaeckels, bridesmaid, was similarily attired in pastel blue. Both wore picture hats with wide matching bows down the back. They carried concord bouquets of yellow carnations, blue and yellow daisies and streamers.

Tom Jones was best man and Darrell Gardner, groomsman, for his brother. Jeff Estep and Chris Alspaugh, cousins, were ushers. All had white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Fout wore a rose polyester knit street-length frock for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother had a pink polyester knit, also street-length. Both had corsages of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Jeff Estep, Mrs. Debbie Snyder and Mrs. Sue Johnson, hostesses for the reception held in the church social room, had white carnation corsages, as did Mrs. Judy Hagler at the guest book. The punch bowl and wedding cake were encircled with blue and yellow daisies and carnations, entwined with greenery.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Washington High School and Mr. Gardner has been an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for 4 years as a foreman. They are living on Rt. 1, Bloomingburg.

Country Club bridge winners

Twenty-two members played bridge at the Washington Country Club Thursday afternoon, following a noon luncheon of the Ladies Bridge Club. The tables were centered with arrangements of spring flowers.

Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer was 'high' winner in bridge play, Mrs. N. M. Reiff, second and Mrs. Howard Wright, third.

Hostesses were Mrs. B. M. Slagle, Mrs. C. D. Young and Mrs. Hazel Smathers.

Caplingers attend a wedding, see the country

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caplinger, of Rt. 1, have returned home, following a trip west which ultimately reached San Jose, Calif., where they attended the wedding of their son, St. Sgt. John Caplinger to Miss Stephanie Eatherton, of San Jose. Sgt. Caplinger, who has been stationed at Wiesbaden, Germany, met Miss Eatherton there and they will return to his base, following a visit here with the Caplingers next week.

Enroute to California, accompanying their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond and son, Nathan, of Mount Sterling, the Caplingers visited many of the interesting and scenic locations, including Pike's Peak, the Gateway Arch, Grand Canyon, Hoover Dam, the Painted Dessert, Death Valley, the Air Force Academy, at Colorado Springs, Yosemite, Mesa Verde, San Francisco's Chinatown and many other attractions.

They came home by plane, the Drummonds to follow later by car.

Economics Club partakes of oriental culture

The Fayette County Professional Home Economics Club enjoyed an afternoon of Japanese culture Tuesday. They and their guests had lunch at the Betty Crocker Tree House, in Columbus, before going to Westerville, where the Kyoto Tea House is located.

George Hendren, owner of the tea house and a former resident of Japan, has assembled authentic replicas of a Shinto shrine, a Japanese home, including gardens, and a Japanese street of store fronts.

Many parts of the buildings and works of art have come directly from Japan and the descriptions the group heard, along with the atmosphere made it a truly 'oriental' experience.

Grandmothers have a picnic

Fayette Grandmothers Club found the patio a delightful place Thursday noon as they picnicked at the home of Mrs. Harold Holland, on Beaver Creek. Mrs. Arthur Fricke assisted Mrs. Holland.

Mrs. Fred Feldman, president, had the brief meeting, during which the group had prayer and pledges and Mrs. Lee Cleland gave devotions. A silent auction was fun and 'funds' simultaneously.

Attending were Mrs. Marvine Deskins, Mrs. Robert Harper, Mrs. Fricke, Mrs. Cleland, Mrs. Feldman, Mrs. Walter Taylor, Mrs. Charles Herman and the hostess.

School leaders feud in Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati School Supt. Donald Waldrip said he will ask the school board not to renew his assistant's contract Monday after Dr. Robert P. Curry refused to retire.

The announcement Thursday night followed an exchange of memos between Waldrip and Curry, 61, deputy superintendent. Waldrip told Curry to retire or be fired. Curry, with the system since 1935, refused.

Curry was acting superintendent from September, 1971, until Waldrip's appointment in August, 1972.

Neither would discuss the matter. Waldrip said he would make his recommendation to the school board Monday morning.

Myckki Callender weds Thomas R. Parsley

The Rev. Donald Baker read the double-ring service uniting Miss Myckki L. Callender and Thomas Ray Parsley, in the First Christian Church, at 2:30 p.m., May 12.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Callender, 1550 Dennis St. and he is the son of Mrs. Walter C. Parsley, 505 Van Deman St.

The church altar was decorated with vases of white gladioli and daisies. Family pews were indicated by bows and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Wayne Spengler, organist, played nuptial music, prior to the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white angel skin satin gown with hand-beaded lace. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place with a camelot cap, also beaded. The gown and headpiece were made by the bride. Her bouquet was of white and yellow daisies, with baby's breath and satin streamers.

Maid of honor for Miss Callender was Miss Cathy Ann Massie. Bridesmaids were Miss Jery Lynn Maust, Takoma Park, Md., Mrs. Terry Kelso, the groom's sister, from Canonsburg, Pa., Miss Rebecca Joy Callender, sister of the bride, and Miss Robin Page Brakeall, cousin. Samantha Jayne Bennett and Stacy Beth Kelso were flower girls.

The bride's attendants were similarly attired in frocks with empire bodices, sheer butterfly sleeves and gathered skirts. They wore garden hats with scarf banding matching their dresses. The maid of honor was was in mint green, two of the bridesmaids in lavendar and two in yellow. The flower girls had white dresses with ribbon cummerbunds of yellow, lavendar and green.

The attendants all wore hand-beaded chokers to match their dresses, the chokers made by the bride's mother, and carried baskets of colorful daisies and baby's breath. All outfits were designed by the bride and her mother.

The Rev. Walter Parsley, the groom's brother, served as best man. He is from Indianapolis. Ushers were Terry Kelso, of Canonsburg, Dennis Caplinger, of Columbus, and Douglas Allen White.

Mrs. Callender wore a red and white polyester knit for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother wore an A-line lavender knit.

A reception in the church social room after the service featured a three-tiered cake, decorated in spring-type flowers. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Maust, Mrs. Buckner Burbage, Mrs. Douglas Williams and Mrs. Walter Parsley. Assisting were Mrs. Tom Hixon, of Greenfield, Miss Joyce Armintrout and Miss Terri Wright. Miss Jane Callendar was at the guest book.

The bride, a 1971 Miami Trace graduate, attended Columbus Business Technical Institute and is employed at Agrico as a posting clerk. Mr. Parsley, who graduated from Washington High School in 1972, is a machine operator at Avoset.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL GOOKEN BARGER

King-Gookenbarger rites read Saturday

Miss Janet King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert King, of 1208 Paint St., and Paul W. Gookenbarger, son of Mr. and Mrs. P.W. Gookenbarger, of Rt. 3, were married Saturday in the South Side Church of Christ. The Rev. Charles J. Richmond read the service in the presence of only the family and close friends.

Miss Kathy Duncan was maid of honor for Miss King and Kenneth Pierson, of Jamestown, served as best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Paul's sister, Mrs. Wilma Lower, Jeffersonville.

June is Dairy Month - drink milk

June is the month when the dairy industry focuses attention on its many products through advertising. It's a good thing, too. Surveys conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture show that in the spring and summer months, there is an increase in the number of diets in our country which are deficient in calcium; and milk is an excellent source of this important nutrient.

Why do we have this summertime deficiency of calcium, expecially among children? Part of the reason is that they are not drinking the same amount of milk they drink during the school year as a part of the school lunch program. With the coming of warm weather, it is so easy to slip into the habit of drinking iced drinks and neglecting milk. This is also true for adults. Let's remember that we never grow too old to need milk.

Just how much milk do we need each day? Children under 9 need 2 - 3 cups, and children 9 to 12 need 3 or more. Teenagers need 4 cups or more, while adults need at least 2 cups.

Milk does not necessarily have to be served in a glass. Milk can be used in cream soups, sauces, puddings, in baked goods, and on cereal. Cheese and ice cream are also good sources of milk. If our families drink 2 per cent milk or skim milk, the calcium content is still the same — only the amount of fat has been changed.

Here is a recipe that is especially timely, since in addition to milk and ice cream, it also contains strawberries. Why not plan to prepare this for a meeting sometime soon? The recipe can be reduced down easily for a family size amount also.

STRAWBERRY MILK PUNCH

Mix: 6 cups mashed strawberries; 1 to 2 cups sugar, according to taste; dash salt

Method: Stir to mix well, and serve. Makes about 24 servings of average size. (Vanilla ice cream may be substituted for the mint if desired).

Disney World, near Orlando, Fla., is eight times as large as California's Disneyland.

Progress Club hears about AFS program

The Jeffersonville Progress Club, meeting at the Wardell Party Home for their June Social, enjoyed a noon luncheon and an afternoon of pleasure with American Field Service student Miss Claudia Becht and Mrs. Wayne Dowler, who gave the group an insight into the history of the AFS.

The luncheon tables were gay with floral arrangements of the season's roses, with miniature corsages marking place settings. Mrs. Robert Owens, club president, welcomed members and guests and Mrs. Charles Seibert gave the invocation.

Mrs. Dowler's presentation of the AFS project at Miami Trace High School interested the group in the method of choosing students and the homes in which they are placed. She reviewed the students who have attended Miami Trace and the ones from the school who have participated in the Americans Abroad Summer Program.

Miss Becht, who cames from Aachen, Germany, and has spent the school year in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Duff and family, showed pictures of her home, related interesting stories and data and told the group what her year in the United States had meant to her. She will be leaving here June 30.

Hostesses for the pleasant party were Mrs. G. Max Morrow, chairman, Miss Helen Fultz, Mrs. Russell Hall and Mrs. Seibert.

Guests of the group were Mrs. Ralph Davidson, Mrs. Dale Whittridge, Mrs. Eugene Avey, Mrs. Vonda Kessner, Mrs. Dowler, Miss Becht, Mrs Lee Marshall, Mrs. Robert Woodmansee, Mrs. Brian Barlett and Mrs. Reba Straley.

Other members present included Mrs. John Cummins, Mrs. Otho Fent, Mrs. Carl Janes, Mrs. Joe Lanum, Mrs. Justin Owens, Mrs. John Sheeley, Mrs. Kenneth Spahr, Mrs. Darlene Wagner and Mrs. Ruth Williams.

DAYP Club eats and swims

Do As You Please Club did their own thing as they met at the home of Mrs. Carl Wilt for their annual picnic and swim party. They picnicked at noon and spent the afternoon swimming and chatting and doing what they pleased.

Gilligan, Calabrese at odds again

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's temper is on the edge of flaring these days as he tries to move an immovable object, Senate Minority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland.

For the second time in two years, Gilligan and his Democratic leader in the Senate— who, incidentally, was not the governor's choice —have tangled over the budget.

After the latest showdown, Calabrese and two of his followers voted with Republicans to pass the GOP version of the budget for the next two years. Calabrese freed the Democrats to "vote your conscience."

It hasn't helped the relationship between the two, described by most legislative leaders as strained at its best.

Gilligan, the former college professor, is at home with theories. Calabrese, the Italian immigrant who came off the sidewalks of Cleveland, deals in practicalities.

Calabrese said the governor was "impractical" in trying to get more out of the Senate, controlled by Republicans 17-16.

"Let this go to conference committee," said Calabrese. "That's where you work to get a compromise on these things."

The governor, he said, was surrounded by "those kids" who, he indicated, didn't understand the practical aspects of the situation.

Calabrese was one of the first to notice that the GOP version of the House-passed budget actually appropriated more money.

The governor's chief objections, when meeting with Calabrese and his assistant, Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, was about cutbacks in pet spending projects, such as the Environmental Protection Agency.

Democrats have a 58-41 edge in the House, which Calabrese believes is the "muscle." The conference committee to work out differences is divided 3-3 among the parties.

Ohio Perspective

Gilligan's aides, however, admit the governor wanted to prove his services budget in the Senate. He would like to embarass Republicans.

"How can you embarass anybody for giving you more money than you asked, even if he didn't split it the way you liked?" asked a Democratic Senator who didn't back Calabrese on his budget vote but admittedly admired his stand.

NEW YORK (AP) — The ABC Television network tonight is giving us a one-hour advance taste of what satirists Jack Burns and Avery Schreiber will do in their new Saturday night summer series on ABC.

The series officially starts June 30.

Burns and Schreiber are two very funny guys who've been kicking around for years without much national recognition of their talents.

Their new comedy-variety show probably will rectify this matter. Tonight's offering is a good start, even though it may not always leave you rolling on the floor.

Several skits don't come off — particularly one about a pretentious suburban couple — but the entire hour generally is heads and shoulders above most comedy-variety shows on TV, both in pace and writing.

Things commence with Burns and Schreiber arriving on stage clad in tuxedoes. They obviously are uneasy about wearing such duds.

From there it's on to a plush night club, where Burns tries to give his pal lessons in suave and how to pick up girls. He's promptly rejected by one lady — Valerie Harper — who says: "Look at his hair — he's trying to prove the wet look isn't dead."

Their show promises to brighten a television summer that previously threatened to be as lively as a barbiturate souffle.

Turning to international affairs, the CBS, NBC and ABC networks all say they'll carry Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's address to the United States at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The videotaped speech, which lasts 30 minutes, will include a simultaneous English translation.

Will there by any "instant analysis" of Brezhnev's speech? No way, say ABC and CBS. NBC says there might be a little bit.

Oldsters: Take Care of Feet!

It is astonishing how careless many people are about the protection of their feet.

In the young, when the blood supply is active, the problems are not nearly so severe as they are in the elderly. When arteriosclerotic changes begin in the arteries of the legs and the feet, particular care is imperative.

When the blood vessels are normal and do not have calcium plaques within them, they are elastic and bring blood and oxygen to the tiniest blood vessels at the tips of the feet. Injury or infection is easily controlled.

In the elderly, however, the blood supply is diminished because of the narrowing of the arteries. A cut, a bruise, or an infection of the foot may become complicated because there is not sufficient blood and oxygen in the areas of these tissues.

For the elderly, therefore, the care of the feet is particularly important. People with diabetes and chronic circulatory problems must keep their feet in a constant state of cleanliness. Washing them with a mild soap and thoroughly drying them can keep the skin from becoming irritated and open to infection.

Gentle lotions help to keep the toes and feet soft and lubricated.

Tight garters must be avoided, for they tend to diminish the circulation of the blood.

Fungus infections and athlete's foot are common in the elderly, even though the victims are not necessarily active in sports. These infections must be controlled with special drugs and powders so that secondary infections will not occur.

Tobacco further constricts the blood vessels and should be scrupulously avoided.

Many ulcers of the toes and feet fail to heal because of the spasm caused by tobacco.

Toenails should always be cut straight across. Whenever possible this should be done by someone else, to be sure that there is no injury with the scissors. Cutting down in the corners is a dangerous procedure.

Corns and calluses on the toes, the heels and bottom of the feet should never, but never, be cut by anyone other than a trained podiatrist or chiropodist. This is an excellent investment in foot health.

Far too many limbs have been sacrificed because of the injuries people inflict on themselves by their own razor blade surgery.

A slight cut with the razor blade in people with poor circulation opens the avenue for infection and invites the possibility of gangrene.

Well-fitting shoes made of a soft light leather can prevent the blisters, the corns, the infections and complications.

Rubbing the feet occasionally with lanolin or cocoa butter keeps them soft and prevents cracking of the skin.

Your feet deserve the care they so often do not get.

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦
2 ♠	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥

North leads the three of spades. South takes the ace and returns the nine of diamonds. You win in dummy and lead a heart, South producing the three. How would you play the hand?

West	East
♠ Q	♠ 10 4 2
♥ A J 10 9 8 7	♥ 6 5 2
♦ K 7 4 3	♦ A Q J 5 3
♣ Q 2	♣ A 7

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the queen of hearts, South plays the king, and you duck. When South returns the eight of hearts, you win and cash the A-K of diamonds, learning that South started with three to the jack. How do you proceed:

West	East
♠ A J 10 9	♠ Q 6
♥ A 3	♥ 6 5 4 2
♦ 10 9 7 6	♦ A K Q 5 2
♣ A K 7	♣ 8 3

1. The diamond return is obviously a singleton; otherwise, South's play makes no sense. The question is whether to finesse the heart or go up with the ace to forestall the impending ruff.

Oddly enough, the finesse is the right play. The danger of a ruff is more imaginary than real. True, it may occur, but if it does, you make the contract.

Let's say you finesse and lose the trick to North, who returns a diamond that South ruffs. That is the third trick for the defense, but also their last. Whatever South returns, you score the rest of the tricks.

♠ AJ9865 ♥ KQ3 ♦ 9 ♣ 986

In that case, going up with the ace would cost you the contract because the defenders would score two trumps, a spade and a club.

2. It would be wrong to attempt a spade finesse because, if it lost, you could go down, losing four hearts and a spade. The only way to nail down the contract is to lead a heart and discard a diamond on it. This permits you to cash the remaining diamonds later on — which you can't do currently because the suit is blocked.

The first two tricks disclosed that North had, at most. five hearts. On the recommended method of play you can lose four heart tricks, but nothing else.

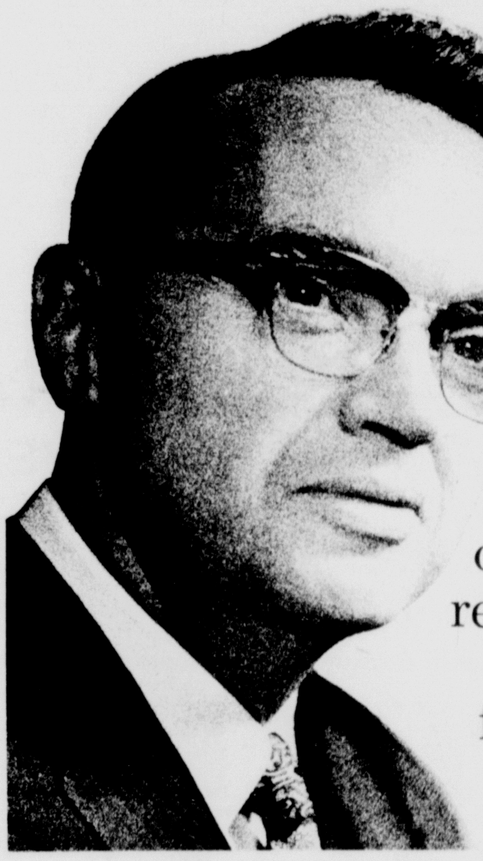
SOHIO STATIONS RETURNING TO NORMAL OPERATIONS



We are glad to tell you that Sohio stations are returning to normal hours of operation and can fill your gasoline needs without purchase restrictions.

Our Lima refinery resumed full operations on June 3, enabling us to rebuild gasoline inventories to acceptable operating levels. Effective June 20, we were able to lift the gasoline allocation to service stations that was announced on May 24. We can now provide all of our service stations with the equivalent of last year's volume plus some allowance for growth.

Most Sohio stations will again be operating on normal daily schedules, and will be open Sundays beginning June 24.

It is possible that a few dealer stations may be temporarily out of gasoline during late June because they did not control their sales to the previous allocation level.

However, in the great majority of cases Ohio motorists should find it as convenient as ever to purchase gasoline from Sohio stations.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation and expect to continue to merit your patronage.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, JUNE 23

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A good day! Go "behind the scenes" if you have important business to transact. This could be the factor that insures success.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Mercury, favorable, will help you to capitalize on your ideas instead of keeping them in the thought stage. An original approach will pay off.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

A special way of saying the right thing at the right time will be rewarding. Be cognizant of "tricky" situations and handle as required.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You may profit by working with another on an idea he has, but which he may be having difficulty in launching. Don't hesitate.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If you have gained a point or two, do not press for more too soon. Ease your way along so as not to upset the applecart.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your stars warn against undue exertion, scattering energies, unwisely attempting to handle the unfamiliar. In general, stick to routine.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Avoid extremes. There's a tendency now to make mountains of molehills, to lose control of temper, emotions generally. Forewarned is forearmed!

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Be careful in handling personal affairs; there may be some tricky areas, some kinks to iron out before taking action. Some conflict of interests indicated.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

A fine project begun recently will bog down unless you keep it in mind, mull over details, plan a tighter fitting of its "jigsaw" pieces.

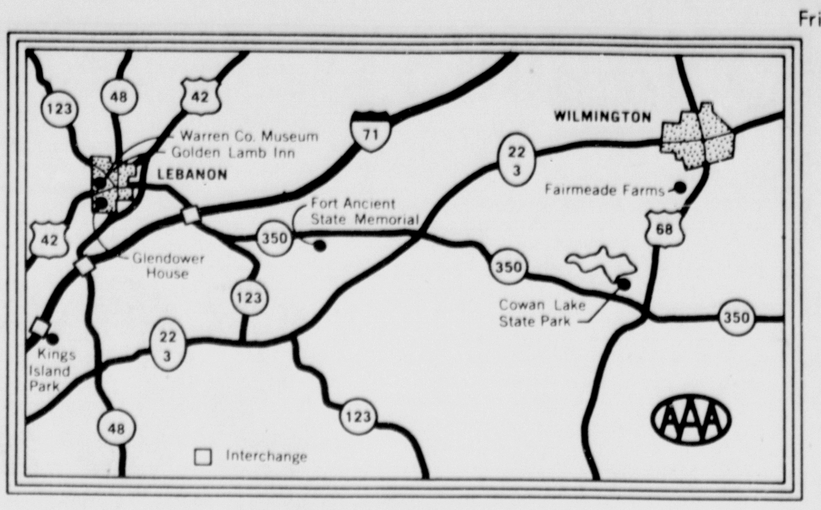
AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Do not let the unfamiliar keep you from accepting it on that basis alone. Where you carefully check for flaws and find none, invite the innovation.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your artistry and creativity stimulated. A time to "dress up" old ideas and methods and make them more practical.

YOU BORN TODAY are a combination of the tenacious and persuasive, the affectionate and the obstinate; are hard-working and practical, but also genial and sociable. You lack confidence in yourself at times, however, and are inclined to worry. Once you shed fears and doubts, you can forge ahead with unusual success. You are innately reserved and dignified but, on the other hand, are always ready to discard the ordinary bounds and limitations of prescribed codes and make your own — may be downright unconventional, in fact. Fields in which you could especially excel: medicine, teaching, writing, acting, business.



Let's tour Ohio

Kings Island Popular

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by the Fayette County Automobile Club for The Record-Herald.

Southwestern Ohio offers much in the way of entertainment and relaxation for the weekend or one day tourist and is the suggested AAA tour this week.

One of the big attractions is the new Kings Island amusement park, now in its second year and located off I-71 at the Kings Mills exit near Cincinnati. It will be open through Labor Day.

Recreation facilities include boating, swimming, golf, a playground area for the kiddies and an indoor game room in the main lodge.

This amusement center features five themed areas. Oktoberfest casts a German Flavor, while Rivertown takes you back to an Ohio River town of the mid 1800's.

LONG a famous gathering place in Lebanon is the Golden Lamb Inn. It's Ohio's oldest, dating back to 1803, the year Ohio was admitted to the Union and today is more popularly known for its fine restaurant.

Situated on the old stagecoach route between Cincinnati and Dayton, the Inn has served such distinguished guests as author Charles Dickens, statesman Henry Clay and 10 U.S. Presidents from William Henry Harrison to William Howard Taft.

Glendower Memorial, built in the first half of the 1800's, is an outstanding example of Greek Revival architecture. This Lebanon mansion reflects Ohio homelife of the 19th Century. It is furnished with personal and household items from more than 400 pioneer families in the community.

Other area attractions include the Warren County Museum, Cowan Lake State Park, and Fairmeads-Green Acres Farm, where standard bred horses are raised.

The AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Washington C.H. take I-71 south, continuing to the Lebanon exit (Rt. 123). Return to I-71 and go south to the Kings Mills exit for Kings Island. Return by I-71 north to Rt. 350 exit. Go east on this route to Cuba and north on Rt. U.S. 68 back to I-71. Continue north back to Washington C.H.

4-H Round-up

'I'm Ok, You're OK' is theme of program

By JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Last week's Ohio 4-H Club Congress was a worthwhile event, and one that the delegates should remember for some time. I was priviledged to serve on the staff at Congress and enjoyed every moment.

The Theme "I'm OK - You're OK" was carried in all activities and provided delegates many excellent experiences. Kirby Brumfield, KATO-TV personality and former 4-H'er from Portland, Ore., headlined the event with his multi-media presentation "Child of the Universe." He related through film, slides, liquid light and speech the problems and opportunities in life.

After an exciting day of recreation and job tours we visited the State House for a mock legislative session on the Equal Rights Amendment. In addition to learning about the legislative process and listening to Ohio Gov. John Gilligan, the delegates toured downtown Columbus on their own. Delegates took in the sights and attractions of Columbus including German Village, the Center of Science and Industry, the State House, the Art Gallery, the stores, and seeing the bustling city in action.

Fayette County's own Anne Craig Droste added music to the program as song leader. The delegates were awed at the Ohio State University Diving Show and listened carefully as Woody Hayes spoke to them on drugs, citizenship and the importance of strong family ties.

The final night was a sight to behold as the delegates in all their finery were feted at a banquet and concert by the Columbus Youth Symphony. Donald Jansen, director of the Community Contact Program for deliquent boys, provided the caption for the conference. His talk "I'm OK - You're OK" stirred the delegates as he related the effects of showing another that he's "OK".

An impressive candlelighting ceremony at Ohio State University's Mirror Lake provided the final activity of the event, giving the delegates a moment to ponder the events and new found friendship of the Congress.

The delegates from Fayette County were selected from the Junior Leadership Club on the basis of their National Report Form. They included Sandy McCoy, Bill Schaefer, Bret Taylor, Jomi Warner, Reggie Roush, Cindy Davis, Kim Fleming and John Pendleton.

4-H'ers need to keep in mind that the deadline for applications to Junior 4-H Camp is Friday, June 22. We still have room for several campers. It promises to be an exciting, fun filled week for 4-H'ers who have just finished the 5th, 6th, 7th or 8th grade.

Trading by institutions comes under study

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost nobody denies any more that the big institution have created serious problems for the stock markets. One of them is to scare the wits out of small stockholders and send them scurrying for cover.

Instinct tells the little investor that he risks serious injury participating in the sporting events of the elephant without first insisting that a spirit of civilized restraint and equality be agreed upon.

So he has been popping up now and then, but only to watch the behemoths—some with assets of a billion dollars or more—knocking prices about like a ball.

There is a lot more to the institutional problem, of course. One particular negative is the tendency of these funds and trusts and insurers to concentrate on certain companies, ignoring the shares of others and leaving them fearing their ability to raise capital.

But any solution must have a beginning, and Paul Kolton, American Stock Exchange president, has been telling congressmen and regulatory officials and institution managers that they must institute rules of civilized competition.

During the past month he has repeatedly urged steps in four areas, avoiding the specifics so as not to distract from the principles involved, but insisting that his ideas are not just suggestions but proposals for action.

TRADING: Institutions must develop guidelines for trading, because the demands they make on markets are often greater than the markets can supply.

For example, when an institution has spent months acquiring a large position, is it reasonable to expect the public, the specialists or other block traders to absorb the entire position in a few minutes or hours?

That's where the big price swings often occur. And so Kolton suggests that the institutions consider limiting themselves to disposal of only a certain amount of stock within a specified time period.

VALUING PORTFOLIOS: In sympathy with commissions in some other sports, Kolton is advising some of the players to take a haircut. By this he means that institutions should consider trimming the stated value of their holdings.

Very often the holder of 200,000 shares in a company prices them at market value, at the same price per share you see in the newspaper, even though it is unlikely they could dispose of such large holdings at these prices.

Kolton suggests, in the interests of reality, that institutions adopt measures similar to those used by exchange examiners when they study the financial condition of member firms.

"When our examiners look at our own firms," Kolton said, "they might decide that if the firm had to sell a big block held in its own name they would get less than market value.

"In that case, a $50 stock might be assigned a hypothetical value of $45 or $40. And if it is an over-the-counter stock, where the market is apt to be less liquid, the price could be even lower."

Wouldn't it make sense, he asks, for institutions also to take haircuts based on a criteria that includes the amount of stock in relation to shares outstanding, the amount of public trading, and holdings by other institutions?

DISCLOSURE: Some institutions, mainly mutual funds, currently make public their portfolios. If other institutions were to act similarly, this fact alone might make them more concerned about the way they use the markets.

USE OF INFORMATION: Institutional investors might consider establishing clear guidelines, publicly articulated, concerning their handling of corporate information for trading purposes.

Such guidelines, relating to the kind of nonpublic material information that might be used as a basis for trading, would go a long way toward convincing the individual investors that he can achieve a fair shake in the market.

Kolton hopes to obtain voluntary action. "When you can get voluntary agreement instead of government action it is more effective and efficient."

But if that isn't forthcoming he suggests that the Securities and Exchange Commission act, "and if it is not in their ambit, then Congress should act."

Second death linked to nasal spray abuse

The death of a 5-year-old Cleveland girl has been linked to a widely distributed medicated vapor spray which was also blamed for the death of Karen Peyton, 17, of 427 W. Elm St., in May.

According to Associated Press, the death of Marcia Overfield who died Apr. 18, was blamed on "cardiorespiratory arrest following inhalation of Pertussin Night-Time Medicated Vaporizer."

The death has prompted a full acale Food and Drug Administration on nasal sprays. The FDA said that "at least eight deaths show clear evidence of abuse such as spraying the drug into a bag from which it was deliberately inhaled."

The spray is the same compound which was linked directly to the death of Miss Peyton on May 24. Police Chief Rodman Scott said she had been inhaling the spray through a flashlight stuffed with tissue.

The manufacturer of the product, Cheseborough Ponds Inc., of Greenwich, Conn., said that in 12 years of marketing Pertussin Medicated Vaporizer, the Cleveland girl "appears to be the first death through accidental misuse."

They suggested that the girl died after abuse of the product.

Girls Staters discuss women, state's courts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Panel discussions on Ohio courts and the status of women were scheduled today at Girls State at Capital University.

Judges Alba L. Whiteside of the Franklin County District Court of Appeals and Bruce Jenkins of Franklin County Municipal Court were to discuss operation of courts in the state.

State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey, State Rep. Ethel Swanbeck of Huron and Supt. Martha Wheeler of the Marysville Reformatory for Women planned to focus on the status of women in state government.

Girls State is a week-long program conducted by the American Legion Auxiliary to give Ohio high school students experience in operating a mock government. The program for 1,500 girls will end Saturday night.

Cherryl A. Krieger, 186 Eastview Dr., has been appointed to the legislative commission of the House of Representatives at the 27th annual session of Buckeye Girls' State being held at Capital University, Columbus.

Other Fayette County girls attending the event are: Cynthia Lu Fields, 332 N. Hinde St.; Kim Gail Fleming, Rt. 5, Washington C. H.; Marianne Arnold, 832 Knollwood Circle, and Mary Jo Thornton, Rt. 4, Washington C. H.

Physician speaks to TOPS group

Dr. Robert Woodmansee was guest speaker at the Tuesday meeting of OH669 TOPS Club in Eastside School.

His subject was "Obesity and Related Problems", as he stressed that exercising is essential to good health, combined with a balanced diet, and variety in foods served, along with calorie restrictions.

He urged his listeners not to overfeed their children and explained the dangers and side effects of fad dieting, urging a doctor's supervision for safe dieting. His closing admonition was "No matter how old you are, obesity is not befitting."

Mrs. Beryl Smith conducted the meeting, with Mrs. Robert Alkire in charge of weigh-ins. Miss Betty McNeil was the week's best loser and queen. Mrs. Smith said eight members plan to attend the International Recognition Day Convention in Milwaukee, Wis. next week.

Mrs. Robert Satchell introduced the speaker.

Masons to attend services Sunday

Members of Fayette Lodge No. 107, F&AM, will attend morning worship services at the First Presbyterian Church in a body Sunday as an observance of St. John's Day.

All Masons are asked to meet at the church at 10 a.m., according to Lester L. Bower, master of the lodge. The service will begin at 10:15.

St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist are patron saints of Masonry.

Soviet police grab 12 Jewish activists

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet police have rounded up 12 more Jewish activists, Jewish sources reported.

They were held several hours Wednesday and then released.

It was the fifth time in recent days that some of the Jews had been picked up, apparently because Soviet authorities fear embarrassing demonstrations during Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's summit talks in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill to authorize appropriation of $8,680,00 for converion of Union Station in Washington into a National Visitor Center.

High water closes Deer Creek beach

High waters at Deer Creek Reservoir have forced the closing of the park beach and made boating very dangerous.

The Ohio Department of Natural resources has warned that persons with boats docked on Deer Creek to protect their craft from the flooding that is imminent. The departments said owners should either remove their craft from the reservoir or make sure boats are properly tied.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has begun to close the floodgates on the reservoir to prevent flooding downstream. The reservoir was reported to be 6½ feet over the normal level Friday morning and is still rising.

A spokesman for the Corps said it will not be known exactly how long the flood gates will be closed until word is received from Huntington Corps of Engineers headquarters.

The beach will be closed through the weekend.

Watergate coverage set

NEW YORK — The CBS, ABC and NBC television networks all will carry live coverage Monday of former White House counsel John Dean's appearance before the Senate Watergate committee, the networks said today.

Good Hope Lions Club installs new officers

The new officers are: Jack Alkire, president; Howard Barney, first vice president; John Noble, second vice president; Joe Barton, third vice president; Dean Yahn, secretary-treasurer; Nelson Whaley, assistant secretary-treasurer; Orville Weidinger, Lion tamer; Earl Rea, tail twister, and Ora Fitzpatrick, assistant tail twister.

Directors are John Ely and Harold Gorman, two years, and John Grice, one year. Raymond Bishop will again serve as zone chairman. The officers and directors were installed by John Reese, past district governor.

Noble reported that the chicken barbecue held at the fairgrounds appears to be successful. A complete report will not be made until the board meeting on Monday.

President R. B. McCoy reviewed the events which occurred during his term of office and reported that the club will be represented at the national convention to be held at Miami Beach, Fla., June 27 through 30.

Mark King, program chairman, gave a report on an article which appeared in the Lions Magazine. Guests at the meeting were Reese and Albert Watson of Jamestown.

The dinner was prepared and served by the youth group of the Good Hope United Methodist Church.

Fayette County's tax collection record among best in Ohio

Fayette County ranks 77th in the state in tax delinquencies for 1972, according to figures compiled by the Ohio Public Expenditures Council.

Delinquencies total $122,563 in Fayette County, up $18,226 or 17.5 per cent from 1971. The amount of delinquency per capita in the county is $4.81.

Only 11 counties have a better record of tax payments.

Real estate and public utility taxes, $55,562 for 1972, and $31,236 for former years; tangible personal property taxes, $6,391 for 1972, and $21,065 for former years; intangible personal property taxes, $570; special assessments, $7,740.

The Council points out that delinquent taxes and special assessments on real and public utility property become prior liens on the property taxes. Such taxes, except where they have been permitted to accumulate to the place where the delinquency exceeds the sale value of the property, may be collected.

Delinquent taxes on tangible and intangible personal property are more difficult to collect, according to the Council. They do not become a prior lien on the property taxed.

The Council also points out that a portion of the delinquencies may have been collected since final tax settlements in 1972.

"Once tax levies or assessments have been imposed, failure to collect them can result in financial difficulties within the various taxing units," said Charles A. Calhoun, executive director of the Council.

"Subsequently this can lead to deficit financing or the imposition of higher levies in the future to offset the tax delinquencies and continue the necessary services of schools and local governments in Ohio," Calhoun said.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

By SYD KRONISH

American poet Robinson Jeffers will be honored on a new 8-cent stamp in the American Arts Series on Aug. 13. First day ceremonies will be in his home town, Carmel, Calif., where he wrote many of his poems and where he died in 1962.

The American Arts Series this year consists of four stamps. Previously issued were adhesives in tribute to composer George Gershwin and novelist Willa Cather. After the Jeffers stamp there will be one for artist Henry Ossawa Tanner.

This new U.S. item will feature a large profile portrait of Jeffers at the right. The left side shows three inhabitants of the Carmel area and a burro. His name, in large letters, appears beneath the main design. Across the top is "U.S. 8 cents American Poet."

Jeffers was born in Pittsburgh in 1887, the son of a theology teacher. A profound influence on his poetry was the California coast, near Carmel, where he built a house and a tower.

Collectors desiring first day cancellation may address requests to "Jeffers Stamp, Postmaster, Carmel, Calif. 93921." Enclose the proper remittance (in money order or certified check) and send prior to Aug. 13.

THE U.S. Postal Service says that its 1973 Mini-Album will contain the same number of commemorative and special issue stamps as last year plus two memorial stamps. It will be available late this year for the same price of $3.

The Mini-Album souvenir mint set will include all of the year's special stamps and commemoratives, including the complete Postal People issue.

The album will contain 33 stamps plus a colorful folder which provides acetate mounting strips and brief background information on each stamp.

The 1973 album will be available in most post offices. We will notify you as soon as the release date is provided.

Collectors can still get the 1971 and 1972 mini-albums at $3 each, plus 50c per order for handling charge, directly from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C. 20036.

CACHET COLLECTORS can purchase the few remaining covers from Stamp Expo '73. Each of the three standard size covers in the set carry the gold and silver foil United Nations Officials First Day of Issue cachet with embossed rendition of the U.N. headquarters.

The covers also have a different U.S. Postal Service Stamp Expo pictorial cancellation on appropriate U.S. stamps commemorating different U.S. anniversaires — the 50th anniversary of the first non-stop coast-to-coast flight, 100th anniversary of the first U.S. post card, and the 200th anniversary of the Boston Tea Party.

The complete set of three covers costs $4.95 and can be obtained from World Wide Cachet Covers, P.O. Box 46695, Los Angeles, Calif. 90046.

THE Republic of Indonesia will issue three new stamps in its annual "Salute to Tourism." The subjects on the stamps are ceremonial masks from Java, Kalimanta and Bali. These adhesives will be available at your local stamp dealer.

Fair, mild weather seen over nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and mild weather held sway over most of the nation early today, marred only by thundershowers on the Gulf and East coasts and a heat wave in Southern California.

The heaviest storm activity Thursday occurred in the Atlantic states. Thunderstorms dampened the Gulf Coast and a few thundershowers sprinkled the Pacific Northwest and Midwest.

A tornado was sighted in east-central Georgia, but there were no reports of injuries.

Locally heavy rains caused flash flooding in New England and rock slides and washed out roads in Maine and Vermont.

The mercury hit a high of 105 in Los Angeles Thursday, topping the previous record of 98 for June 21 set in 1929.

For the first time in four years, the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District issued a first-stage smog alert when the ozone count reached .50 parts per million downtown. The ozone reading peaked at .57 p.p.m.

Some other reports: Anchorage 63 cloudy, Atlanta 69 partly cloudy, Boston 70 cloudy, Buffalo 62 clear, Chicago 64 clear, Cincinnati 64 partly cloudy, Cleveland 67 cloudy, Dallas 75 partly cloudy, Denver 56 clear, Detroit 62 partly cloudy, Honolulu 78 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 65 partly cloudy, Kansas City 63 clear, Los Angeles 66 clear, Louisville 66 clear, Miami 77 cloudy, MinneapolisSt. Paul 52 clear, Nashville 68 partly cloudy, New York 70 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 73 partly cloudy, Phoenix 83 clear, Pittsburgh 65 partly cloudy, St. Louis 64 clear, San Francisco 53 clear, Seattle 69 clear, Washington 73 partly cloudy.

Dogs disdain morning nip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dogs sometimes get drunk in laboratory studies of alcoholism, but they disdain the "hair of the dog" hangover remedy of humans, a doctor reported Wednesday.

Dr. Donald W. Goodwin of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, said so in declaring that there appears to be no known surefire "animal model for alcoholism as it occurs in man."

He told a government-sponsored conference on alcoholism:

"It is rare...for rodents to drink spontaneously to intoxication, whereas in dogs studied in our laboratory this occurs at least occasionally.

"After several days of 'heavy' drinking, however, dogs spontaneously stop drinking and, despite what appear to be mild withdrawal symptoms or 'hangover,' the dogs do not continue drinking to relieve their presumed distress.

"They avoid, in short, the 'hair of the dog' remedy for hangover..."

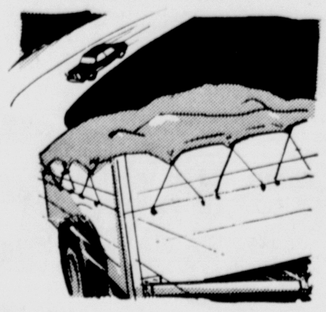
THE FAMILY LAWYER

Runaway Trailer

To move some household goods to the country, Watson hitched up his trailer and set out along the highway. But as he was climbing a hill the trailer broke loose, veered across the center line, and slammed into a car coming the other way.

The other driver was seriously injured, an in due course brought suit for damages. At the trial, Watson insisted that he was not to blame because "it all happened so suddenly."

But the evidence showed that the trailer hitch had a faulty weld, and that the defect had been plainly visible before the accident. Result: Watson was held liable.



Anyone who undertakes to haul a trailer on the public roads must also undertake reasonable precautions. He must exercise a degree of care commensurate with the size and speed of this extra vehicle.

Furthermore, he must conform to the special requirements—such as a "fail safe" set of chains—that may be called for by the local traffic code.

EVEN IF a trailer does not actually break loose, it may still be dangerous because of swaying. Another driver incurred liability because his trailer, swinging from side to side, knocked down a woman walking on the shoulder of the highway.

On the other hand, not every injury inflicted by a trailer is the driver's fault. Consider another case in which a runaway trailer caused a collision. This time, the trailer came loose as a result of the shearing off of a pin in the hitching mechanism.

But there was nothing to put the driver on guard for such an eventuality—no visible defect, no prior experience to warn him of danger.

Accordingly, a court refused to make him pay damages.

"The collision," said the judge, "was the result of an unavoidable accident."

Extension sought on sulfur oxide rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's environmental chief spent Thursday trying to get federal officials to extend the state's deadline for meeting regulations on sulfur oxide emissions.

Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, asked that the deadline be changed from July 1, 1975, to July 1, 1977.

He said, "Some plants in Ohio can meet the original 1975 deadline, but we are concerned with the ones that may not be able to meet the regulations by that time."

There was no immediate word on what action the federal environmental officials would take on the request.

First Holiday Inn sold-aged 21 years

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Holiday Inn that was the granddaddy of them all has been sold, according to an announcement from the giant Memphis corporation.

The inn, which opened on the city's east side in 1952, was the first in the Holiday Inn chain, now the world's largest.

A spokesman said it was sold for $750,000 to another motel operator under a Holiday Inn policy of selling property more than 20 years old.

Falls are the greatest cause of injury both afloat and ashore, says the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. All boaters should eliminate "trip" hazards, construct adequate grab rails and require that proper footwear be worn

Even boaters on Lake Erie may find gasoline is short

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Marina owners along Lake Erie say weather and high water are bigger problems than lack of fuel.

But many of them expect fuel supply problems and price increases later.

Shell Oil Co. is allotting 100 per cent of last year's gasoline sales, but Van Snider, manager of Boat Harbor Marina in Sandusky, says "last year was a bad year since it was so wet."

"If good weather breaks this year, we may run out," Snider says.

Many dealers are anticipating fuel problems if the weather improves. Gary Ontko, store manager at Cedar Point Marina, said that Gulf Oil Co. is allotting fuel according to last year's purchases plus a small increase.

Ontko says that "we have no gas problems because many people just aren't boating yet and may not boat all year."

Andy Dietrich, owner of Vacationland Marina in Sandusky, says he hasn't been affected "as yet." He is also being rationed but says the extreme high water has kept the marina from exceeding its supply limit.

Many pumps have been ruined in floods or knocked out by storms, and several marinas have closed in the Port Clinton and Sandusky areas.

All found dead in Mexican crash

They all lay in a tropical rain forest among the smoldering wreckage of an Aeromexico DC9 that smashed into a mountainside only about two minutes before it was to land at this Pacific coast resort Wednesday night. All 27 persons aboard died, including 11 believed to be Americans.

The pilot apparently pulled the nose of the plane up when he was about to crash, causing the tail section to hit first. The plane then appeared to have been carried a short distance up the mountain by the momentum. Most of the bodies were on the uphill end of the wreckage.

Capt. Augusto Ramirez Altamirano, a regional inspection chief for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, said the plane was too far south and not within the approach pattern for an instrument landing. Its 2,000 to 2,200-foot altitude was correct for where it should have been, he added.

At the time of the crash there was a heavy cloud cover at about 1,000 feet.

Rescuers also found the aircraft's flight recorder, which will reveal to investigators the plane's last moves and position when the crash occurred. But Ramirez Altamirano said it will have to be analyzed before any conclusion can be drawn about possible causes of the disaster.

The plane left Houston, Tex., earlier in the day and stopped in Monterrey, where foreign passengers went through Mexican immigration and customs. It was scheduled to fly from Puerto Vallarta to Acapulco and Mexico City.

Rescuers started their trek to the crash scene with a boat trip to Chimo. No roads connect the village with the outside world and it has no electricity, telephones or streets. From Chimo to the wreckage, about 2,200 feet above sea level and about two miles inland, they wound their way, many on hands and knees, up and around mountains and through steamy jungles for 2½ hours.

Firestone settlement announced

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Tentative agreement was reached early today on a new contract between the strikebound Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers.

The new, three-year agreement, which covers nearly 18,000 Firestone workers in 13 plants around the country, was announced jointly by URW International President Peter Bommarito and Joseph V. Cairns, vice president of labor relations for Firestone.

Wage terms of the new settlement were not disclosed, although the two sides did reveal terms of a pension program, which reportedly was a major issue in negotiations.

The new agreement would allow Firestone workers retiring at age 55 with 30 years or more of service to receive an unreduced early pension. The pension changes are retroactive to April 20, when the old contract expired.

Police investigate death at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police today were investigating the death of Robert Ducker, 43, whose body was found behind the Crane and Breed Casket Co. plant.

Homicide Detective Thomas Gardner said Ducker had been involved in a scuffle on the second floor of the building, where he was employed.

Reiber hurls four-hitter

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

A dramatic three-run homer from Paul England cinched a hard-fought 6-3 win for Washington C H.'s Post 25 American Legion baseball team in an extra-inning struggle with always-tough Miamisburg Thursday night at Beachler Field.

England, the sweet-hitting catcher who has now hit safely in all five of Post 25's games, poked the three-run blow deep to leftfield in the top of the ninth inning to erase a 3-3 extra-inning deadlock.

England's homer, which came after two were out in the ninth inning, lifted Washington C. H. to its second consecutive win of the season.

HARD-THROWING Randy Reiber benefited from England's late blast after turning in an outstanding pitching performance.

Reiber picked up the second straight complete game for Post 25's pitching staff as he hurled nine innings, scattering a meager four hits. Miamisburg touched Reiber for three runs after four innings, but the big righthander stiffened and did not allow a hit following the fifth inning. A second inning two-run homer by Tom Critzer got Reiber off to a rocky start while the other Miamisburg run was unearned.

The Post 25 twirler, who fanned a total of 11 Miamisburg hitters, retired 13 of the last 14 men he faced.

England keyed Post 25's eight-hit attack with three hits in five trips and four runs-batted-in. The husky catcher from Circleville cracked the winning home run, a double and a single to raise his season average to a sizzling .526 level. Hard-hitting Randy Rodgers contributed a pair of doubles and first-sacker Alan Coppock clubbed a triple, extending his hitting streak to four consecutive games.

Randy Ney, a curve-balling southpaw, worked four and one-third inning before Washington C. H. got to him for three runs in the fifth inning to knot the score and eventually send the game into extra innings.

Ney fanned eight hitters before being relieved by righthander Dan Ballard, who absorbed the pitching setback for Miamisburg, now 8-2 on the season. Haggard stymied the Post 25 batters as he whiffed seven of the first nine men he faced and wound up with a total of 11 strikeouts.

Ballard hurled three and two-thirds innings of hitless baseball, allowing only two runners to reach the basepaths, one via a walk and the other after being struck by a pitched ball, before Post 25's late comeback.

BACK-TO-BACK singles by Steve Haines and Scott Riddle in the ninth inning set the stage for England's game-winning hit after two outs.

The single by Riddle gave the former Westfall star at least one hit in all five of Washington C. H.'s games.

Post 25, now 2-3 on the season, will entertain Columbus Whitehall in a non-league contest tonight at the Washington Senior High School diamond. Manager Dennis Morris is expected to send Mark Johnson (0-1) or Jeff Green (0-0) to the mound for Post 25. Washington C. H. will travel to Cincinnati Bentley Saturday and to Chillicothe Post 757 Sunday.

Giants stagger Cincy, 7-1

Bradley snaps Frisco skid

"We have a lot of good arms—we just need consistency," said Bradley following a four-hit, eight-strikeout performance against the Reds Thursday, his 7-1 victory ending a four-game Giants' losing streak.

"Our pitching has been bad the last couple of weeks except for Ron Bryant," Bradley added. "But we know we're going to get runs, so all we have to do is hold the other club to three or four and we'll win a lot of games."

That's the chore awaiting Jim Barr tonight when he takes on Don Wilson in the opener of a four-game series with the Houston Astros. Following a single game Saturday, the series concludes with a Sunday doubleheader.

"I think we'll be in good shape—I hope a game like this picks me up," offered Bradley, who registered the Giants' first complete game since June 4, when he went the distance in stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-2.

"Bradley can be a super pitcher if he keeps the ball low—that's all there is to it," Manager Charlie Fox said. "His curve breaks so well, he can afford to make mistakes with it. But when that fast ball gets up, he's in trouble."

Thursday Bradley was the master. After Dave Concepcion belted his eighth homer, leading off the third, the Reds didn't collect their second hit until Tony Perez singled with one out in the seventh.

The Giants, meanwhile, jumped an old 'nemesis Jack Billingham, 9-4, for the tying run in the fourth, before erupting for six runs in the fifth. Billingham entered the game with a 7-2 career record against San Francisco.

Garry Maddox, snapping an 0-to-16 slump, singled with one out in the fourth and scored on Ed Goodson's double, following an intentional walk to Willie McCovey.

Bradley, now 6-5, triggered the winning rally with a one-out double in the fifth. Maddox contributed a two-run double to the inning, Goodson and Chris Speier, each cracked run-scoring doubles, and Gary Matthews added a two-run single.

"Our hitting has never worried me," said Fox. "That's why Bradley's complete game is the big game. In this league, if you get seven good innings from a pitcher, you're in good shape. Tom was super."

A's manage 12 hits, but lose to Chisox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

See the Oakland A's run.
See Bert Campaneris run.
See Bill North run.
See umpire Merle Anthony call Bert and Bill out.

See Oakland lose to the Chicago White Sox 2-0 despite 12 hits off Stan Bahnsen, two shy of the most hits ever allowed in a nine-inning shutout.

The A's base-running misadventures began right off the bat. Campaneris opened the game with a double but was trapped and run down at third on North's bunt back to the mound. North reached second on the play but he couldn't stand prosperity, either, and was thrown out by catcher Ed Herrmann trying to steal third.

Meanwhile, the White Sox, who had never beaten Ken Holtzman, broke through the Oakland southpaw for both their runs in the fifth inning on doubles by Herrmann and Jeter and Carlos May's single.

The victory enabled the White Sox to retain their halfgame lead over Minnesota in the AL West.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Minnesota Twins edge the California Angels 1-0, the New York Yankees trimmed the Detroit Tigers 5-1 in a rain-shortened six-inning contest, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Boston Red Sox 6-3 and the Cleveland Indians whacked the Milwaukee Brewers 9-1. Kansas City and Texas were not scheduled.

Pinch hitter Joe Lis bounced a run-scoring single up the middle with two out in the ninth to back Bert Blyleven's eight-hit pitching and give the Twins their win over California. Bobby Darwin, who singled off Clyde Wright with one out and stole second, scored the winning run.

Thurman Munson and Felipe Alou tagged Detroit ace Mickey Lolich for two-run homers, helping the Yankees defeat the Tigers. It was the fourth straight victory for the Yankees, leaders in the East.

Pat Dobson spaced five hits to earn the victory, his second in three decisions since being acquired from Atlanta. The only Detroit run came on Norm Cash's second-inning homer, the first by a Tiger player in Yankee Stadium since Sept. 4, 1971.

Paul Blair drove in three runs with a homer and single, leading the Orioles over the Red Sox. Blair drilled a two-run homer in the first inning off Luis Tiant and added an RBI-single in the third.

George Hendrick crashed a two-run homer, his 10th in 14 games and fifth in 10 times at bat, and Buddy Bell and John Ellis added solo shots to lead the Indians over the Brewers.

Willis, Girtons post hard-fought BR wins

Coach Jeff Blake's Willis Insurance team managed only three hits in scoring a 4-1 win over Bloomingburg on the losers diamond, while Girtons nipped Sabina 5-4 in a nine-inning struggle at Roszmann Field.

THE WIN was Willis Insurance's fifth in six outings and kept them atop the Babe Ruth League standings while Girtons are only one game off the pace as they notched their fourth win in five starts.

David Van Dyke picked up his third straight pitching victory for Willis Insurance as he gave up one run on four hits and fanned nine batters. Van Dyke locked horns with Darling in a fierce pitching duel. Darling was touched for four runs and three hits and also fanned nine hitters.

Rex Coe, Mark Heiny and David Stackhouse all singled in Willis' three-hit attack and Coe handled five chances at shortstop without an error.

Van Dyke loaded the bases in the sixth inning with one out, but pitched his way out of the jam without giving up a run. Willis took advantage of four walks and five stolen bases to put runners in scoring position in the first third and fifth innings.

Bloomingburg, which got doubles from Alan Fleming and Alan Conner, scored its only run in the first inning.

The minor league game between Willis and Bloomingburg was postponed so the diamond could be readied for the major league game.

Sabina came up with three runs in the top of the seventh inning to erase a 4-1 Girton advantage and send that contest into extra innings.

GIRTONS squeezed past the Clinton Countians in the ninth inning when with two outs, Jeff Elliott walked, advanced to third on a single by Jack James and scored on a single by Ted Mercer.

Howard Boggs, who suffered the pitching setback after fanning a total of 17 batters, slammed a solo home run in the fourth inning for Sabina and also had a double and a single.

James worked eight innings, whiffing 15 Sabina batters before he was relieved by Elliott who picked up the win. Mercer had a single and double for the Girtons and James contributed a pair of hits.

West authors no-hit gem for Lumberjacks

Wilson's Lumberjacks, behind the no-hit pitching performance of West, blanked the Washington Savings Bank Charge-A-Checks 4-0 in Little League Majors action Thursday night at Wilson Field.

West, in tossing the no-hit masterpiece, whiffed a total of 15 Charge-A-Check batters as the Lumberjacks raised their season record to a nifty 7-1 level and stay atop the LL Major heap.

In other action at Wilson Field, the Coca Cola Jets rode the one-hit pitching job of Cobb and Lee to a 3-0 victory over the Record-Herald Flashes.

IN MINOR league play at Armbrust Field, the Elks nudged the Eagles in a 13-10 struggle while Bumgarners routed Roller Haven by a 15-1 count.

The Lumberjacks garnered only four hits in their contest with the Savings Bank, but those proved to be enough for four runs. Bath belted a double, while Dunn, Shields and Wilson all contributed singles. Brickles was the losing pitcher, giving up only four hits and fanning six batters.

While Cobb and Lee combined to hurl a nifty one-hitter, Huffman sparked a five-hit attack for the Jets with a double and a single. Mickle provided plenty of support in the winners' attack with a pair of singles. Johnson managed the only hit off the two Jet pitchers, while Ingram and Porterfield shared the mound duties for the Flashes.

Miller still torrid, captures Akron lead

The lanky blond had just put together a three-under-par 67— including a hole in one—for his first competitive round since he won the United States Open Golf championship with a record 63 last Sunday.

Miller's 67 on the long, tough Firestone Country Club course Thursday gave him a share of the first round lead in the prestige-laden American Golf Classic.

"It was an easy 67," Miller said. "I've been getting the absolute most possible out of my rounds. This one wasn't like that. I feel like it could have been a lot better."

He was tied with 23-year-old Forrest Fezler, an on-rushing tour sophomore, who also clipped three strokes off par on the lush 7,180 yards of the Firestone layout.

Jack Nicklaus, who has collected a leading $190,000 and four titles already this season, topped a big group at 69. He reeled off one string of three consecutive birdies but dropped back with a bogey from a bunker on the final hole.

"That's not a bad opening round for me here," said Nicklaus. "I usually start off with 74 or 75. I played pretty well, but I'd feel better about it if I hadn't made that bogey on 18."

Bruce Crampton of Australia, winner of three titles this year, matched par 70 but streaking Tom Weiskopf took a far 74 and was well back in the field. Lee Trevino is not playing.

Secretariat will race at Arlington

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat, "the horse of the people" as jockey Ron Turcotte called him after the Belmont Stakes, will race at Arlington Park June 30 because trainer Lucien Laurin and owner Helen Tweedy agree with Turcotte.

"We want the public to see him," Laurin said Thursday of the decision to send the first Triple Crown champion in 25 years to Chicago for a threehorse match race.

The opposition for the 1⅛ race will be Our Native, third to Secretariat in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and probably Blue Chip Dan, and the purse will be $125,000, with $75,000 to the winner, $30,000 for second and $20,000 for third.

But Laurin emphasized the chance for more people, and people from a another section of the nation, to see Secretariat before he goes to stud later this year was the overriding reason for going to Arlington Park.

Secretariat is scheduled to leave for Chicago next Thursday.

Irish coach Frank Leahy dies at 65

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Leahy never wanted to be compared to his predecessor Knute Rockne. "They'll never be another Rockne," said Leahy who died in Portland Thursday at the age of 65.

But in memory, that's where he ended up, just a short step down from the Notre Dame football immortal of the late 1920s and 1930s.

"No question about it, he was quite a guy," said Red Blaik, former Army coach whose Army team battled Leahy's Irish to a scoreless tie in 1946. "He was one of the great coaches of the last 25-30 years. He was a fundamentalist in the finest order.

"He had a rapport with the men that is hardly describeable. They looked on him both as a great coach and as a character."

Leahy's 17-hour-a-day dedication to football gave him a record which fell only slightly short of Rockne's. He had a career mark of 107-13-9 as head coach at Boston College, and then at Notre Dame from 1941 through 1953. That's an .883 percentage, barely below Rockne's .897.

"Everyone here at Notre Dame and thousands of Frank Leahy's friends, teammates and players mourn his passing. We have all suffered a personal loss," said longtime Notre Dame athletic director Edward "Moose" Krause. "We all cherish his dedication, friendship and his love for Notre Dame."

NFL players eye problems

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of the National Football League Players Association begin today to tackle a myriad of problems including the possibility of an owner-endorsed urine analysis as a deterrent against drug abuse.

Twenty-six player representatives plus the association's executive committee open a three-day meeting to discuss, among other things, the installation of artificial turf, the NFL player contract which expires next year and the drug program pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle is to present to the owners Monday.

Rozelle is scheduled to appear at the meeting Saturday morning to explain the owners position on collective bargain demands of players and answer questions about the drug program he is to recommend.

A congressional committee recommended a month ago that the NFL institute a program to have the players undergo urine analyses to determine if they having been using drugs illegally.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, has called absolutely outrageous the suggestion that the players undergo a urine test.

Stumbling Mets reflect old days

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when the New York Mets used to be lovable, laughable losers?

They brought back the "good, old days" to Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Thursday night.

The Mets, who found a number of bizarre ways to lose baseball games in the early years of their existence, found another way while losing to the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

With the score tied 1-1, the Pirates had the bases loaded with nobody out when Bob Robertson hit a ground ball to second baseman Felix Millan. Are you ready, now?

Millan threw home to force Gene Clines and then New York catcher Duffy Dyer tried to complete a double play to first. But—wait a minute—the throw went into right field. It gets more complicated, so pay attention.

Right fielder Rusty Staub, playing in close, saved a wild throw and fired the ball to second base to nip Al Oliver, who was trying to duck back to second after over-running the bag.

By this time, Dave Cash, who started the inning on second base, had rounded third and came home with the winning run. Got that? In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Montreal Expos 4-3; the San Francisco Giants downed the Cincinnati Reds 71; the Houston Astros routed the San Diego Padres 12-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Atlanta Braves 5-0.

Bob Gibson scattered eight hits and slugged his 23rd career home run to lead St.Louis over Montreal. Gibson's homer gave the Cardinals a 4-0 lead and their eventual winning run.

Tom Bradley pitched a fourhitter and ignited a six-run rally in the fifth inning with a double to pace San Francisco over Cincinnati. The triumph snapped a four-game losing streak for the Giants, who had lost nine of their last 11 games to fall behind Los Angeles in the National League West.

Lee May slugged three home runs and drove in five runs to power Houston over San Diego.

Dave Winfield, the Padres' rookie sensation fresh out of college, collected three hits, including a bases-empty homer in the fifth. Winfield, a student at the University of Minnesota just a couple of weeks ago, was San Diego's No. 1 pick in the recent free agent draft.

Slo-pitch tourney attracts 18 teams

An open slo-pitch tournament, sponsored by the Fayette County Softball Association, has attracted 18 top teams for a two-day stand at Washington C. H.'s Eyman Park.

Don Fowler, president of the Fayette County Softball Association and tournament director, said the tourney will be the first played in Washington C. H. using the new restricted flight softball.

The ASA-sanctioned tournament will open at 10 a.m. Saturday with a hefty 10-game schedule and continue until Sunday night.

THE 18-TEAM field includes Dubois Chemical Co., of Columbus, the defending Class A state slo-pitch champions. Teams from Xenia, Springfield, Newark, Circleville, Chillicothe, Hillsboro and Russell, Ky. are also entered in the tourney.

Three teams from the Fayette County Softball Association's Class A league are entered. They are Colonial Stair, Jeffersonville Merchants and Bell-Dor-Lite.

Arcole, of Columbus, and Krazy Kat Bar, of Newark, will open the tourney at 10 a.m. Saturday followed by Twin Kay Cafe, Russell, Ky. vs. Spurlock Construction Co., of Circleville,11; La Dolce Vita, of Columbus, vs. Tre-Mac, of Xenia, 12; Wilson Freight Co., of Springfield, vs. Colonial Stair, 1; the Outlaws, of Hillsboro, vs. winner Arcole-Krazy Kat Bar game, 2; Dubois Chemical Co., of Columbus, vs. the Associates, of Chillicothe, 3; Shawnee Trophies, of Chillicothe, vs. Straubs, of Chillicothe, 4; Wasserstroms, of Columbus, vs. winner of Twin Kay Cafe-Spurlock Construction game, 5; Bell-Dor-Lite, of Washington C. H. vs. Jeff Merchants, 6; and Hillsboro Merchants vs. Knapp's Carry Out, of Columbus, 7.

Fayette Heating, Oldies cop outdoor cage league wins

Fayette Heating and Cooling and the Oldies but Goodies emerged with victories in the city recreation program's outdoor basketball league Thursday at the Eyman Park courts.

The Fayette Heating and Cooling team nudged Ridge Homes by a 50-49 count, while the Oldies but Goodies, with a roster dotted with Miami Trace basketball coaches, posted a 50-46 win over the Bush Road Bandits.

Scoring in the outdoor basketball league is determined by the number of baskets only since no free throws are taken.

An 18-bucket performance by Mike Henry paced the Oldies but Goodies win over the Bush Road Bandits. Vic Pontius had eight baskets and Jan Stauffer and Bob Lanman had six each. Kemmy Goodson popped in 18 buckets for the Bush Road Bandits.

In next Tuesday's action, the Sports Center will meet the Bush Road Bandits and the Whites will clash with Fayette Heating and Cooling.

Artist colonies set for Greece

By PAUL ANAST

ATHENS (AP) — Where the raw, untouched beauties of Greek nature — rocky mountains, pine trees, and the blue sea below — are still to be found in many parts of the country, small, graphic, coastal towns are slowly growing up and being occupied by artists, intellectuals and recluses.

Following the widespread trend toward the sale of the numerous, small uninhabited Greek islands to both Greek and foreign millionaires, increased activity in the sale of Greek untamed nature has surfaced again.

And the areas sold are scheduled to gradually develope into what can only be described as "well-to-do artists' colonies."

One such enterprising concern catering to the interests of the nature lover is the Artists International Residence Co. It began with the sale of a coastal expanse of 250 acres at Marmarion, Euboea, Eastern Greece, in 1970, at the very low price of $550 per quarter of an acre.

By February 1973 the wild, untouched, but exotically beautiful expanse was included in a town plan by the Ministry of Public Works, with each acre now valued at $6,666 — and still rising.

THE SECOND expanse only recently put on sale is 250 acres of 422 acres owned by the company near the world-renowned Theater of Epidaurus, the cradle of Ancient Greek tragedy. The area is pine-clad — one of the greenest in the Greek Peloponese — mountainous, and includes an untouched part of the Saronic coast.

"Most people who take a look and expect to find a ready-to-build laid out plot are wasting their time," said Christos Katsiyannis, director of the Artists International Residence and a former actor himself.

"But the mentality and expectations of the man in the street does not concern us," he added. "We mostly cater and depend on the tastes, indeed perhaps the eccentricities, of the artistic and intellectual world."

The director said he estimated it would cost buyers another $233-$266 per quarter of an acre in Epidaurus, to cover electrification, light, water, telephone and road tarring.

THE MOST important stage then follows — the go-ahead from the competent Greek Ministry for its inclusion with a town plan. For this to be achieved the owners of the land must guarantee room for roads, parks, sports grounds, a church, a cemetery, and so on.

The final stage is the construction of houses by the company, which will again be handed over to land-owners at cheap, instalment rates. The interesting condition, however, is that the houses will be built — externally at least, in the graphic, colorful style of nearby village residences, so as not to destroy the landscape with "architectural monstrosities."

Despite the company's title, the sale of the land on an international scale is still only a plan. Buyers so far are largely Greek actors — such as internationally reputed Irene Pappas—poets, critics, journalists, lawyers, retired officers, and even former politicians. The low prices have also attracted many ordinary buyers.

Reasons stated for purchase range from romanticism, to nature-love, to escapism, to sheer investment — to put their money on some real estate before it is swallowed up by galloping inflation.

Tourists like to sing

LEASBURG, Mo. (AP) — The stereo system at Onondaga Cave on U. S. 66 here, has the latest songs on it from the new film musical, "Tom Sawyer." The reason is that the musical shot several scenes at the cave.

Tourists are given the words from the song so they can sing as they tour the cave.

Pornography ruling brings fears of state witch hunts

By BERNARD COHEN
Associated Press Writer

Prosecutors and police officials are delighted by the Supreme Court's new ruling on obscenity and many say it is just what they needed to lower the boom on dirty books and movies.

"If I operated one of those stores, I'd close like two minutes ago," Florida Asst. Atty. Gen. Ray Marky said Thursday after hearing of the ruling. "I think they are out of business."

Similar optimism was voiced by law enforcement officials across the nation after the high court widened the definition of obscenity and said community standards should prevail.

The new guidelines will permit states to ban books, magazines, plays and motion pictures that offend local standards, even if they might be approved elsewhere.

Many officials felt the court had finally clarified the language of the law and they cited the difficulty and expense in the past of applying national standards of decency to local cases.

"I expect that in the immediate future local communities can determine for themselves what will and what will not be tolerated in the nature of explicit sexual material," said Larry Salmon, Floyd County district attorney and chairman of the criminal law section of the state bar of Georgia.

Arkansas Atty. Gen. Jim Guy Tucker concurred.

"What correlation is there between a block in the center of New York City and Bald Knob, Ark.?" he asked.

However, the 5-4 decision met with sharp criticism from civil libertarians, book and magazine publishers, movie theater and book store owners and patrons of the pornographic arts.

"That's no victory for civil liberties," said Melvin Wulf, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "That's a serious setback for freedom of speech and of the press."

Jack Frantz, executive chairman of the National Book Committee, said his group has always argued that community standards meant the American community at large.

"It's absurd on its face that a book is deemed obscene, say, in Binghamton, N.Y., and not in Carmel, Calif. It's patently unfair to the reader." Frantz said.

Tom Ferrell, managing editor of Esquire magazine, responded, "I think for a national publication, it's kind of scary. If it means that there are going to be 50 laws governing obscenity, rather than one, it's going to be very troublesome for everyone."

In Chicago, a spokesman for Charles Levy Circulating Co., which distributes Playboy, Penthouse and similar magazines, said the company does not consider them "pornographic in any way, shape or form" and he foresaw no problems with the new law.

Ralph G. Haddun, 76, owner of an adult movie theater in Charlotte, N.C., criticized the decision.

"We don't make 'em come in here. We don't go out with a shotgun. It's supposed to be a free country," he said.

After the ruling was announced Thursday, Stanley Marks, operator of three adult book stores in Cincinnati, closed his shops and hung out signs.

The signs said the shops will remain closed until "we learn how to interpret the decision." They added, "Thanks for your loyalty."

Johnson added, "The average juror drawn from registered voters has a good understanding of what this community would tolerate and the limits placed on this standard.

"Columbus is in the Midwest and has a middle-of-the road viewpoint in regard to obscenity. We're not ultra-liberal, but we're not bedrock conservative either."

He said the past practice of applying national standards to the local community has been cumbersome and expensive because it involves bringing in witnesses who have lived and studied nationally

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. said, "the problem with the former rules were that the people sitting in judgment (the courts) were judging by national standards. They couldn't understand that there were local standards."

He said he was very pleased with the high court's ruling.

Cincinnati attorney Allen Brown, who has defended adult book stores in court, called the decision "repression—meaning the American people cannot read what they want.

"This means if you are going to distribute a book or movie in the United State, you have better do it for the little old lady in Dubuque."

Benson Wolman, executive director of the Ohio chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said the ruling will permit local government prosecutors to have a field day taking accused pornographers to court.

But Wolman said the ACLU in Columbus will "seek to assure new local standards are better than those of the Supreme Court."

Marion girl killed

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Mary L. Hunt, 16, of Marion was killed Thursday when she was struck by a car as she and two companions were walking on Ohio 23 near here, the state highway patrol says.

Four suspects deny guilt in vendor break

Four Dayton area men, charged with breaking and entering a vending machine, entered not guilty pleas in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon and were ordered held under $1000 bond each by Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

The four, James T. Horm, 19, Gary L. Shock, 21, Michael I. Blanchard, 20, and David K. Burdett, 19, were arrested by sheriff's deputies Wednesday morning after they allegedly pried open a soft drink machine at Yeoman's Gulf, U.S. 35 and I-71, and made off with $2 in change. Shock later handed himself (see story page 2).

All four cases were continued to Monday morning for arraignment.

Robert L. Pope, 23, Rt. 3, was found guilty of giving false information to a police officer concerning a June 8 robbery at a U.S. 35 and I-71 service station, and was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Pope had reported to sheriff's deputies that he was robbed of $269 the night of June 8 by a man with a gun. He later admitted the story was untrue after officers began questioning him about discrepancies in his story.

Judge Winegardner suspended $100 of the fine and the jail term provided Pope repay the station owner the $269 and that he violate no laws for a period of one year.

Sheriff's deputies said they had not yet determined what happened to the missing money, or how it was taken.

Body of Hamilton man identified by charts

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A body found last Friday in the Great Miami River near Harrison, Ohio, has been identified as Adam Hasemeier, 75, of Hamilton, Ohio.

Police said identification was made through dental charts. Officials said the victim, dead about three weeks, had been in ill health.

Cyclist, 10, injured

A 10-year-old bicyclist was treated at Memorial Hospital after the bicycle he was riding collided with the side of a car on a Court Street sidewalk, just east of Circle Avenue, Thursday evening.

Police said William R. Immell, 10, of 1119 Leesburg Ave., rode his west-bound bicycle into the side of a car driven by Kathy L. Sexton, 17, of 543 Warren Ave. The Sexton car was pulling away from Bob's Sunoco Station at the time.

The boy was treated in the emergency room for lacerations and later released.

Investigating officers said the brakes on young Immell's bicycle were inoperative.

Cars driven by Don W. Baescher, 40, of New Vienna and Brenda K. Schleich, 22, Williamsport, collided on the Washington Square lot at 7:51 p.m. Damage was minor.

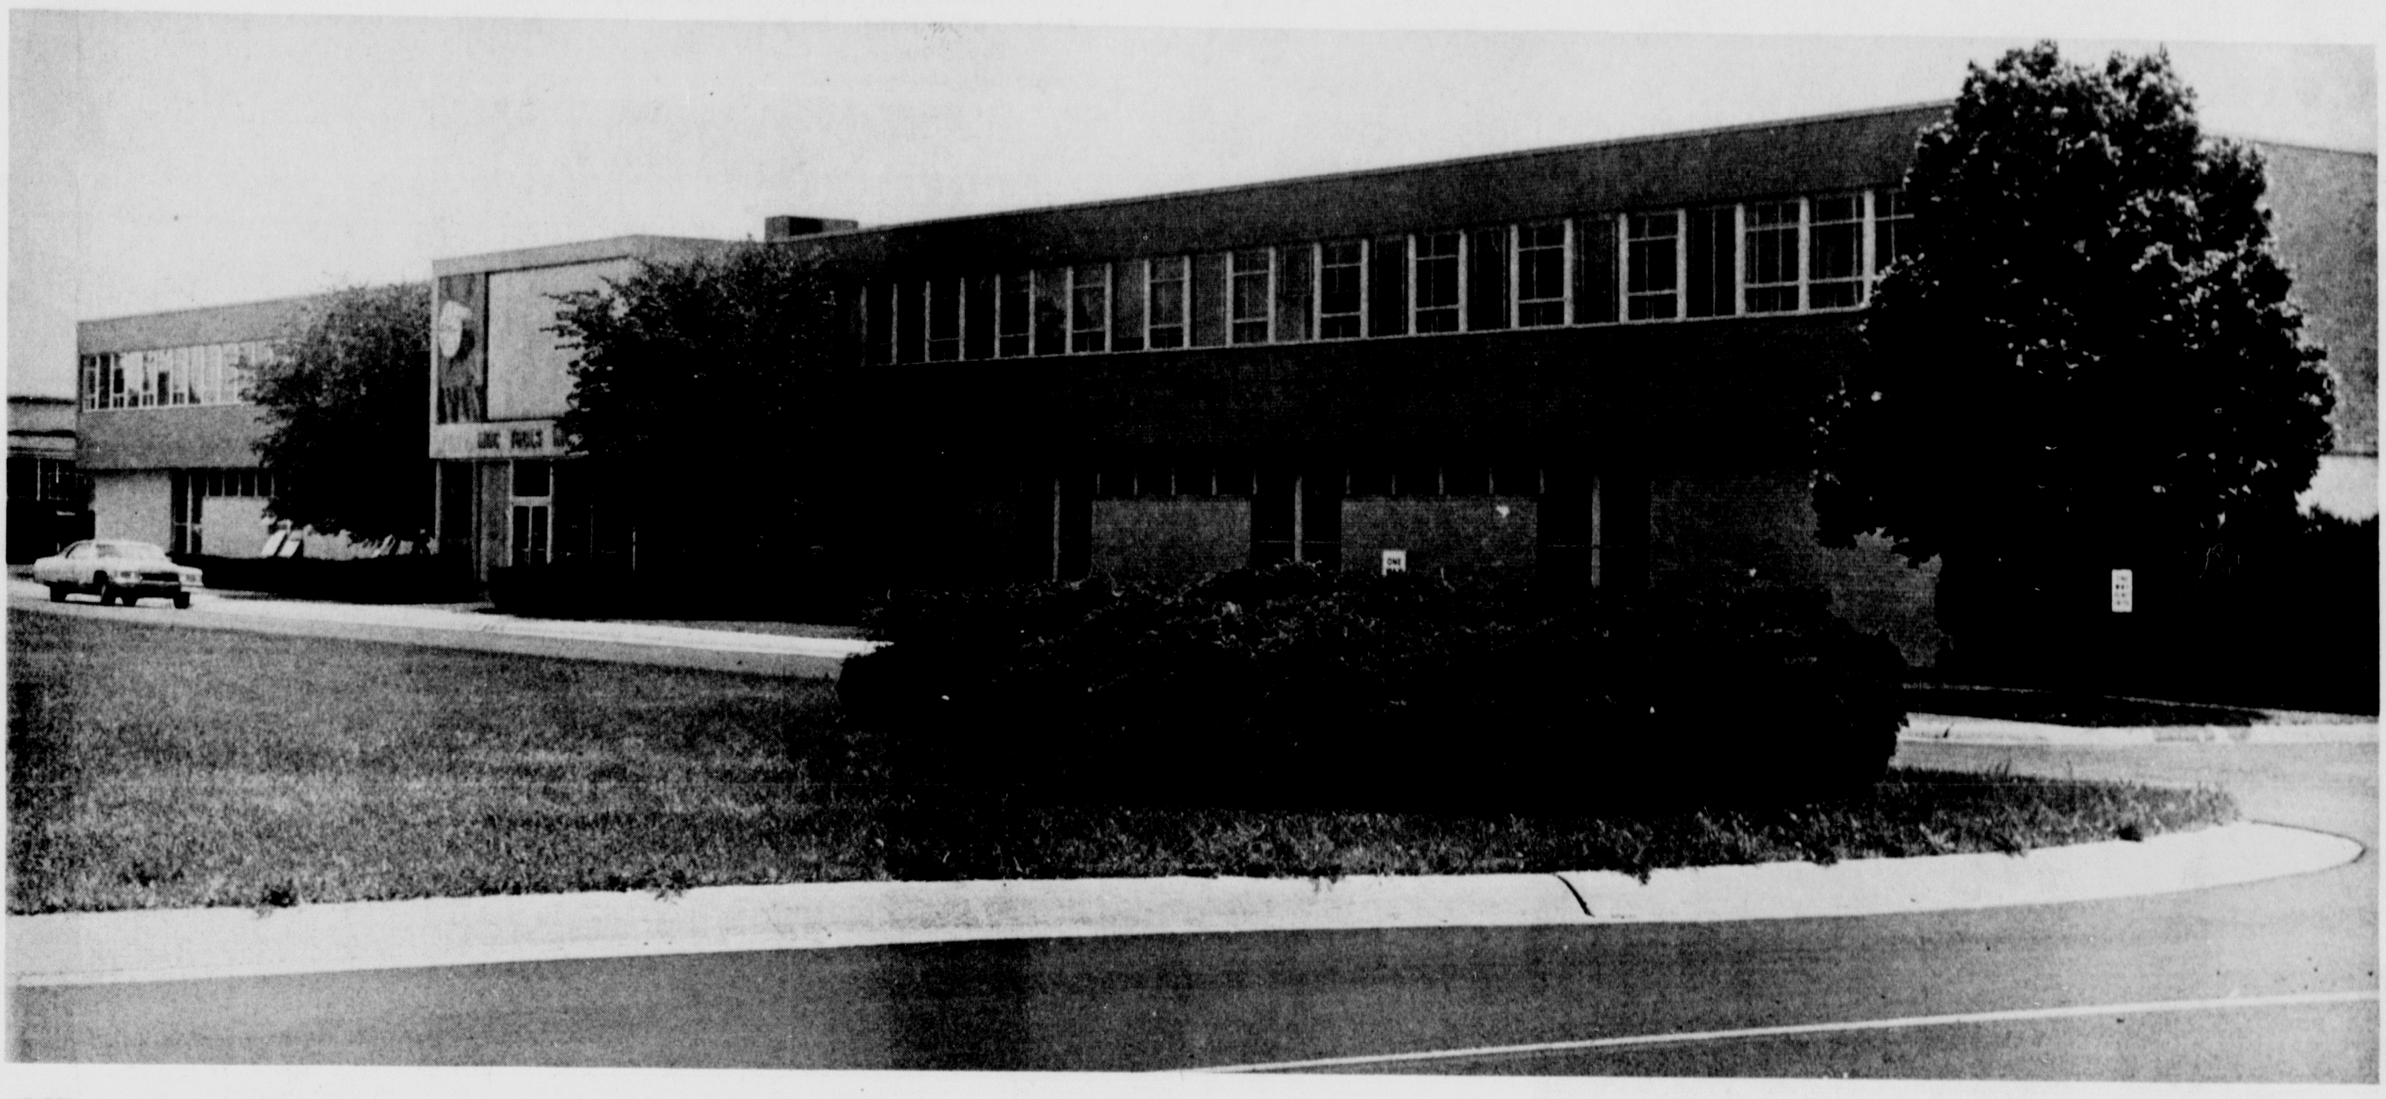
Mac Tools, Inc.

Welcome to Washington C.H.



Office and manufacturing facility of Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C. H.

35 years of progress

The operation of Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C.H. is now in full swing. The offices have been moved here as well as many phases of the manufacturing process.

The corporation, with distributors in all 50 states and Canada, is by no means a small company. It has a history of 35 years and is rapidly growing. Growth projections to 1977 show an almost doubling of the work force. Currently, there are about 400 employes at the Washington C.H. and Sabina facilities.

Mac Tools Inc., specializes in hand tools for mechanics. The 4,000 products manufactured here and in Sabina include wrenches, sockets, punches, chisels and screw drivers. The products are marketed by about 850 distributors who call on mechanics, service stations and automobile body shops.

The buildings in Washington C.H. were purchased by Mac Tools, Inc., about one year ago from the National Cash Register Co. Work started immediately to prepare the plant to Mac Tools' needs. Manufacturing started here last summer, and the offices and shipping department were moved to Washington C.H. within the past month.

The photographs and stories in this section show some of processes of tool making, and the personnel involved.

We welcome Mac Tools to Washington C.H. and believe the company will be an asset to the community.

HI NEIGHBOR . . .

Being your neighbor for the past 35 years has been a rewarding and enjoyable experience. Mac Tools. . .now is no longer your neighbor but a part of your growing community.

Growth in any business or industry takes more than people and promises. . .it takes performance. There must be an ambition propelled by dedication and determination to exceed the "standards" of the industry. The happy consequence has been a sound, steady growth for our company and the necessity of our new building facilities in Washington Court House.

To the people of Fayette County. . .Thanks for your generous confidence.

Success attributed to marketing system

Much of the success of Mac Tools, Inc., has been attributed to its method of marketing: from manufacturer, to distributor, to actual consumer. This sytem has been used by the company throughout its 35-year history.

About 85 per cent of the company's production is devoted to hand tools for the automotive "after market" meaning the repair and servicing of automobiles and trucks.

Over 850 distributors are on the road calling on the consumers; service stations, mechanics and body shops. The distributors can be seen throughout the 50 states and Canada with their yellow vans with the red and white Mac Tools emblem.

Mac Tools' president, Paul W. Elrod, began his tool business career as a distributor, using the trunk of his automobile as a display area.

Today, the distributor virtually has a store on wheels. Many of the company's 8,000 products are neatly displayed in bins, on racks and on carpeted shelves in the van.

The sales department is headed by Thomas R. Sizer, of Wilmington, who serves as vice president of sales and assistant general manager. F. J. Kibbey, who joined Mac Tools about three years ago, is the assistant sales manager.

Sizer and Kibbey coordinate sales policies and assist the 50 district sales manager. They both travel extensively to meet with the district manager.

Each of the district managers supervise about 20 distributors. The district representatives coordinate the efforts of the distributors and conduct clinics and give assistance to the distributors.

New sales policies, including the leasing of the vans and point-of-purchase merchandising were established in 1969. Since that time sales have increased about 75 per cent.

About four new distributors are processed at the Washington C.H. facility each week. Most of these are in new territories since there is a very small turnover in distributors, according to Sizer.

A prospective distributor who has been assigned a territory can be processed in about two days after arriving at the factory here. The van is picked up in Wilmington, complete with display areas, the tools are added, paperwork is processed and the distributor is in business.

The district manager spends a week with the new businessman then he is on his own. From that point on the district manager serves as problem solver and provides additional training if it is needed.

The distributors order their merchandise from two sources — Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C.H., and Mac Allied Tools Corp. in Tallmadge. The 4,000 products manufactured by Mac Tools are shipped from Washington C.H.

Help the children stay safe this summer

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What to do about roaming children come summer?

In addition to all the dangers lurking about when children are footloose, their freedom is likely to be a happening for neighbors.

One woman insisted she isn't antichildren even though she is not a mother, but she considers children as big a problem in packs as dogs are. And why should she keep her big, obedient companion, Fido, penned in the house all day because he might knock down and hurt some uninvited little guest in HIS backyard?

Good question that only the mother of the little toddler might answer, maybe. But the ladies gave it a try as they listened to her complaints.

IN ADDITION to making the dog bark incessantly, children trample herbs and other plantings, she continued. And anything on the property not nailed down is picked up just because it is there.

She saw one child pick up a fireplace tool she had used at the outdoor barbecue, and nonchalantly toss it into her neighbor's yard as he walked up the road.

Why? He was probably equating the tool with a stick, she remarked.

She had complained to three mothers about their children and passed on their answers to the coffee group.

One had asked, "How can you tell a 6-year-old not to go on someone's property?" Another said, "You have my permission to chase him any time."

And a third replied, "You don't understand children because you don't have any . . ."

The ladies agreed that this is passing the buck, irresponsible-mother style.

IN FACT they decided that if dog wardens caution and fine people for letting dogs roam, similar measures should be applied to parents of children who are perennial nuisances.

More important, innocent people are often hurt when a child is hurt. Owners are punished if a dog nips a child. Drivers are often blamed if a child strays into the path of a car.

Everyone agreed you can't control a small child all the time. He might forget instructions. He might chase a ball or fly a kite or an airplane and wind up on another's property.

"But some women turn their children out of the house every morning as they do their dogs and cats," said one mother of four.

"They have no idea where they are going and they don't seem to care — as long as they are out of their hair. And when these kids grow up, they are still problems . . ."

THE WOMEN recalled a family who had always insisted they had "moved to the country to enjoy" and why shouldn't their children move about as they pleased? They are now teenagers and still challenging homeowners.

Two have been arrested for defacing property — one put graffiti over a garage and the other chopped down a valuable tree. They felt they'd be backed by their parents, but the law took over.

Summer is fraught with inherent dangers to unwary young people, a good enough reason to keep tabs on them, the group observed. In addition to the child molester there are the backyard swimming pool . . . automobiles . . . . lawn mowers.

One woman was appalled when she saw a barefooted youngster in her backyard fiddling with a lawn mower that she had left with motor running while she dashed into the house to treat a bee sting. Goodbye toes and fingers, she thought as she raced back in panic.

The group didn't limit their conversation to criticism — they had some constructive suggestions mainly based on methods used to control their own youngsters.

Inflation doesn't respect geography, survey indicates

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — It may be small comfort to Americans, but their inflation problems could be worse. They are in much of Western Europe.

Wage and price controls are not working well on this side of the Atlantic, an Associated Press survey shows. Often the controls have been less successful in Europe than in the United States.

The rate of inflation is still worse in Britain, France, Spain, Italy, Denmark and Finland than in America.

In Britain, for example, Prime Minister Edward Heath's government followed the Nixon lead last November and introduced the nation's toughest wage and price controls in its peacetime history. Inflation then was running at 9 per cent a year. It is still running now at 9.2 per cent a year.

Worse still, food prices have been rising faster in Britain under the controls than they were before. Last year food prices were rising at a rate of 3.4 per cent annually. This year they are rising at about 15 per cent a year.

Britain may be a special case. Much of the food price boost was caused by the nation's entry into the European Common Market on Jan. 1. Also, in this trading nation, imported food and raw materials are exempt from the price controls. And Britain must import 51 per cent of its food and raw materials.

But the pattern is not much different in other countries which don't have Britain's special problems.

In France, the controls are voluntary. The government has recommended a limit of 7 per cent a year on wage raises. But even Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing admits wages are now rising at a rate of 12 per cent annually.

Some countries have rejected wage and price controls as unworkable or as politically unacceptable. Spain and Italy are examples. In both nations inflation is now a worse problem.

In Italy the annual rate of inflation is nearly 14 per cent, up from 8 per cent last year. In Spain it is about 12 per cent, up from 8.7 per cent.

Belgium has compulsory price controls, yet inflation there is the country's worst since the Korean War, rising at about 8 per cent a year.

U.S. industry plans big outlay

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. industry will spend $3.16 billion to improve on-the-job health and safety in 1973, 26 per cent more than in 1972, McGraw-Hill Publications Co. reports.

According to its first health and safety spending survey, the company also noted that preliminary plans for 1976 call for $3.56 billion to be spent in this area.

Business investment for employe health and safety in 1972 totaled $2.5 billion, or 2.5 per cent of all capital investment. This will rise to 3 per cent of total capital spending in 1973 and continue at that level through 1976.

"The heavy gain in health and safety spending is obviously a direct reflection of how the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act is affecting business," says Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill chief economist. Greenwald called the act "perhaps the most spectacular issue to be faced by American industry since the pollution problem hit the front page."

New chemical turbine seen threat to present engines

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A Dallas man has invented a chemical turbine which he believes could replace the internal combustion engine and at the same time solve the problem of auto pollution. Some engineers, however, are skeptical.

The turbine uses oxygen and hydrogen—two of the most abundant chemicals in the world—to produce a superheated steam that the inventor, W. W. Gray, believes could run turbines or send cars speeding down the highway.

Gray and his chief engineer, Dr. Gerald Wyatt, however, admit that most of the information on the system's potential is theoretical. A prototype, they said, has been run briefly on only one occasion, and even then it was not attached to a device to produce any measureable horsepower.

The Dallas men showed a film and slides on their engine Monday at an engineering seminar here, and experts attending expressed skepticism about the potential for the engine.

"It's very early in the development for them to be talking about it," said Dr. R. L. Savage of Ohio University. "We'd need more information with some performance data. They've got a hell of a lot of work to do yet. They should come back in six months and tell us what they've done."

This, he said, is the reason "most of us were rather skeptical," about the new engine.

Tool firm started business in 1938

It has been 35 years of progress for Mac Tools, Inc., one of the newest industries in Washington C.H., and more progress is planned for the future as plans are under way to double the capital outlay for additional production capacity.

The firm, with headquarters here and another plant in Sabina plus associate firms in Medina and Tallmadge, began operation in 1938 in a rented garage in Sabina.

First known as Mechanics' Tool and Forge Co., the corporation was formed July 11, 1938, by R. W. McPherson, H. E. Pendry and O. N. Tucker. Other shareholders in the original firm were R. E. Cantrill, H. W. Harcum, G. W. Martin and L. R. Lyons. The first officers of the firm were McPherson, president; Tucker, secretary, and Martin, treasurer. Manufacturing began in October, 1938, with two employes, the president and secretary as the labor force.

The first production, capitalized on $5,100 for purchase of machinery and equipment, was marketed through Mac-Huff Tool Co., also of Sabina, which added the line of three box wrenches to their own line of punches, chisels and screw drivers.

The Mac-Huff firm was damaged by fire in 1940, and Mechanics' Tool and Forge Co. purchased the salvageable Mac-Huff tools and added Mac-Huff's sales force, including G.E. Waddell who later became president of Mac Tools, to its organization. The Mac-Huff firm was acquired by Mac Tools about four years ago.

It was Waddell who set the stage for the growth of Mac Tools. He was one of the pioneers in sales organization. Paul W. Elrod, current president and general manager of Mac Tools, referred to Mr. Waddell as "Mr. Marketing and Mr. Sales." "It was Mr. Waddell who really built the sales force," Elrod said.

The firm received a boost in 1942 when it received a military contract to produce 72,000 special wrenches for the U.S. Air Force. The proceeds from the military order allowed the company to purchase the garage in which its equipment was located, and later that year begin construction of a new building to house the company. The company's first catalog was also issued in 1942.

A second corporation, Clinton Tool Co., was formed in 1944 to manufacture sockets. Both firms occupied the same buildings and had the same stockholders. Mac Tools and the Clinton Tool Co. merged into one corporation in 1963.

A third firm, Mac Allied Tools Corp., was formed in 1946 to manufacture or acquire and distribute the items in the Mac Tools' line which were not manufactured by the parent firm. Mac Allied is located in Tallmadge.

Although the products were marketed as Mac Tools, the firm carried the Mechanics' name until 1961 when the name of Mechanics' Tool & Forge Co. was officially changed to Mac Tools, Inc.

New offices and a stockroom were constructed in 1963 in Sabina.

In May, 1972, the firm acquired the buildings in Washington C.H. formerly occupied by National Cash Register Co. Work began immediately to adapt the Washington C.H. buildings to Mac Tools' operation. Manufacturing began here in August, 1972, and the offices, finished goods and shipping department were moved from Sabina last month.

SECRETARY — Sandi Charles is secretary to Phillip Brewer, director of industrial relations and general superintendent of Mac Tools, Inc.

SECRETARY TO PRESIDENT — Karen Danes is secretary to Paul W. Elrod, president of Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C. H.

Not on porpoise, warns U.S. agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — You should know that it's illegal now to place radio transmitters on the backs of porpoises.

Who would want to do a thing like that? Tuna fishermen, that's who. They do it because porpoises chase tuna and if you can locate the porpoises easily, you can zero in easily on the tuna.

Since the Marine Animals Protection Act is intended to guard such beasts as porpoises, the National Marine Fisheries Service has slapped on the regulation, hoping that fewer porpoises will be entangled in fishnets.

British visitors gain in numbers

LONDON (AP) — Britain had 5,375,000 foreign visitors in 1972, excluding citizens of the British Commonwealth and visitors from the Irish Republic.

A report from the Department of Trade and Industry and the British Tourist Authority said this was an increase of about 8 per cent over 1971. The number of visitors from the United States, at 1.6 million, showed an increase of 4 per cent over 1971.

Driving in rain? use extra caution

NEW YORK (AP) — Driving too fast in rain can put your car out of commission in other ways in addition to the obvious danger of skidding, the Clark Equipment Trailer Division says professional truck drivers report.

First, the deluge from large puddles of water can soak wiring and other vital parts, causing your car to stall. Second, wet brake linings will cause uneven braking and maybe complete loss of stopping power. Third, mist droplets thrown off by vehicle wheels can become hazardous at 35 mph and positively blinding at 55 mph to following and passing vehicles.

Approximately 65 persons make up the office staff and provide the leadership for Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C. H. and Sabina.

The seven-member board of directors includes three men who are actively engaged in the day-to-day operation of the corporation. These are: Paul W. Elrod of Rt. 5, president of Mac Tools; John Petty of Wilmington, vice president-manufacturing of Mac Tools, and T. R. Sizer of Wilmington, vice president-marketing and assistant general manager of Mac Tools.

Other board members are: Edward A. Huwaldt of Columbus, executive vice president of Huntington Bank Shares, Inc.; Lawrence R. Lyons of Wilmington, attorney; James G. Townsley of Middletown, general superintendent of Armco Steel Corp. at Middletown, and George G. Wilcox of New Britain, Conn., retired vice president and general manager of the Tool Division of the New Britain Machine Tool Co.

The fourth officer of the corporation is Charles O. Moore, secretary-treasurer, who serves as the financial controler and is in charge of the accounting department.

Elrod joined Mac Tools in 1948 as a distributor, and later was district sales manager and special sales representative. He joined the office staff in 1961 as assistant sales manager. He was appointed sales manager in 1962 and was named executive vice president in 1965. He has been president of the firm since 1968.

Sizer joined the firm in 1962 and was named vice president in 1969. He is in charge of coordinating all departments with special emphasis on marketing.

Petty, manager of the former McPherson-Huff Tool Co. in Sabina, joined Mac Tools about four years ago. He is in charge of all production areas.

Karen Danes is secretary to Elrod, and Jeam Palmer, who has been with the firm about 25 years, is secretary to Sizer.

In the accounting department, headed by Moore, Phyllis J. Brackney is the senior accounts clerk. Jane Fitzwater is the accounts clerk, and Christine Snyder is the payroll clerk and prepares the payroll for the 400 employes in Washington C. H. and Sabina.

The billing department consists of Phyllis Luck, key punch leader; Bonnie Smith, key punch clerk, and Diane Woolridge, key punch operator. An IBM 360 computer in Cincinnati is used to process the billing records.

Phillip Brewer is the director of industrial relations and general superintendent. He is in charge of all hiring, and motivational programs for production employes. As general superintendent he works directly under Petty in the reorganization of the manufacturing area. Sandi Charles is secretary to Brewer.

Fred Feldman is the production control supervisor. He secures sales and inventory data from the computer and schedules production. Gary Armbrust is the cost administrator and reviews and records the cost information on all tools manufactured. Armbrust also is in charge of inventory audits. Gale Braden is the production order clerk, and Brenda Hoppess, cost clerk, is assistant to Armbrust.

The engineering department is headed by N. Les Hannon, director of manager services. He is in charge of all areas of engineering including new product development, and material flow problems in the manufacturing departments. Others in the engineering department are: Bob Siple, draftsman; Thomas Reese, industrial engineer, and Helen Thomas, clerk typist.

Ed Hartman is the purchasing supervisor and is in charge of buying the 200 to 250 supply items needed in Mac Tools' operation. Patty Kelley is the purchasing clerk stenographer.

Kathy Marvin is the receptionist.

In the manufacturing area, Chester Beverly is the assistant general superintendent. He has been in the tool making business for over 25 years.

The department superintendents are Louis H. Poole, socket forging; Robert Hodge, wrenches; William Howard, tool and die; Roy Haines, socket machining; James Reese, punch, chisel and screw driver superintendent. Tom Dowler is the maintenance superintendent, and Robert VanPelt is the shipping department foreman. Wally Hockett is chief of security and safety.

Louis Poole has been with Mac Tools about 25 years. Hodge also has over 25 years' experience in the manfacturing of wrenches.

Haines has over 25 years' experience in the tool making business and is in charge of machining sockets.

Dowler, a newcomer with Mac Tools, previously worked as maintenance superintendent for the National Cash Register Co. in Washington C. H.

HEADS SOCKET DEPARTMENT — Roy Haines is superintendent of the socket machining department for Mac Tools, Inc. The department is located in the Washington C. H. plant.

RECORD HERALD

Vol. 115 — No. 163 | 34 Pages | Washington Court House, Ohio | 15 Cents | Friday, June 22, 1973

Best wishes to a new industry!

"Quality tools for the professional mechanic" is the motto for Mac Tools, Inc., now officially located in Washington C. H.

The firm, which manufactures about 4,000 hand tool items, officially opened the Washington C. H. facility today when president Paul W. Elrod presided at a ribbon-cutting ceremony in front of the offices on U.S. 35-S.

The move of the offices and many of the production lines from Sabina to the facilities formerly occupied by the National Cash Register Co. in Washington C. H. has taken nearly a year and is a major expansion for Mac Tools.

A special section welcoming Mac Tools to Washington C. H. is included in today's Record-Herald. The section includes pictures showing several of the tool-making processes and employes.

The buildings in Sabina are being retained by the company for the tool forging processes.

The company has been a neighbor of Washington C. H. for 35 years. The first production under the name of Mechanic's Tool and Forge Co., was in 1938 in a rented garage.

The firm has come a long way since its infancy and has great prospects for the future. Projections to 1977 show a doubling of both the capital expenditures for equipment to increase production, and the number of production employes.

There currently are about 400 employes in the Washington C. H. and Sabina plants.

An exhibit of many of the items manufactured by Mac Tools is currently on display in the lobby of the Washington Savings Bank.

2 more POWs charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two fighter pilots have been formally accused of misconduct for actions during their years in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps, Pentagon sources have disclosed.

They are the first officers to face such charges, which were brought by Rear Adm. James V. Stockdale, of Coronado, Calif. Stockdale, a captain as a POW, was promoted after he returned home.

Wilber was the executive officer of a squadron of Phantom F4 fighter planes when he was shot down over North Vietnam June 16, 1968.

Miller's Marine F4 Phantom went down over North Vietnam Oct. 13, 1967.

The sources said Thursday that Stockdale mailed the formal charges to Navy Secretary John Warner. Details of Stockdale's accusations were not available.

On May 29, eight enlisted men were formally charged by Air Force Col. Theodore Guy of misconduct during their years of imprisonment.

The eight men, all foot soldiers captured in South Vietnam, have denied any improper activities.

Under a policy set out by former Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, the Pentagon is making no formal charges against any of the 566 returned POWs. The accusations by Guy and Stockdale are made as individual servicemen charging other individual servicemen under the military code of justice.

Both Guy and Stockdale were provided with military lawyers who helped draw up the legal papers, sources said. Officially, Pentagon spokesmen say they have neither discouraged nor encouraged any serviceman to take action against any former POW.

Wilber has acknowledged making antiwar statements while in captivity. "I found out when I had time to think about myself, where I was, what we were doing, I found out that my conscience bothered me," he said in a recent interview.

A Navy man since 1948, Wilber is married and has three sons and a daughter. Miller, a Marine since 1949, is also married and has five sons.

Longest space journey

Skylab crew safely home

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Skylab's astronauts came safely home from man's longest space journey today, splashing down with pinpoint precision in the Pacific Ocean after 28 days and 11 million miles in orbit.

Just 39 minutes after touchdown, Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were hoisted onto the deck of this recovery carrier, still inside their Apollo ferry ship.

"We're all in good shape. Everything's OK," commander Conrad radioed as the spacecraft descended through the clouds and landed within view of USS Ticonderoga, just 6½ miles away. That indicated the astronauts had suffered no adverse physical reactions on returning to earth's gravity after a record four weeks' exposure to space weightlessness.

Ten minutes later they climbed through the hatch, smiled and waved as the ship's band played "Anchors Aweigh" for the all-Navy Skylab crew.

They walked unsteadily toward a mobile medical laboratory, showing some effects from the four weeks' exposure to weightlessness.

How well Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz fared in the weightless world will play a major role in determining if man can function efficiently in future long-duration flights. The first of the two 56-day Skylab missions is scheduled for launch July 27.

The astronauts almost were held over in orbit today to try to repair a refrigeration problem in their space station. But Mission Control decided there was nothing the astronauts could do and told them to come home.

Moscow summit slated for 1974

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev have reached agreement on a broadly-worded declaration vowing to avoid nuclear war and plan to sign the summit document later today, sources said.

The White House said that a midday signing ceremony would be held in the East Room. But spokesmen refused to disclose what would be signed.

Other sources reported, however, that the document was a declaration of intent to reduce the risk of nuclear devastation.

The agreement was reached as the two leaders looked ahead to a reunion summit in Moscow in 1974—the target date for formally limiting the awesome atomic arsenals of the two countries.

Although the surprise compact was cloaked in unusual secrecy, Nixon himself made a reference to the signing ceremony Thursday night.

"I'll see you at 12:30 tomorrow at the signing," Nixon reminded Brezhnev just before midnight as he left the Soviet Embassy after a banquet of caviar, borsch, Russian beef and fish, two kinds of vodka and Soviet champagne. The two leaders announced at the banquet plans for their third summit.

White House sources confirmed the document signing intentions but refused Thursday night to give details, saying only, "It's going to be an important one."

Prior to the White House ceremony, Brezhnev arranged to meet with about 40 business leaders at Blair House to discuss U.S.-Soviet trade—one of the items of "unfinished business" he cited Thursday night.

The two leaders popped a surprise in their banquet toasts, disclosing that Brezhnev had extended and Nixon had accepted an invitation to return to the Soviet Union next year for a third summit in as many years.

The reunion could provide a forum for the signing of a treaty placing permanent limits, and possibly calling for reductions, of the two nations' offensive nuclear weapons.

Nixon and Brezhnev, in a declaration of principles signed at the White House Thursday, the fourth day of their summit talks, set a 1974 target date for completing the lasting limitations on the number and quality of strategic nuclear weapons.

The seven-point accord is intended to accelerate stalemated Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Geneva. The U.S.-Soviet negotiators are trying to work out a permanent treaty to replace an interim arms limitation agreement signed at the Moscow summit a year ago.

Cash flow eyed by budget panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House-Senate conferees on Ohio's $9.9 billion budget bill are looking at estimates of the state's cash flow—money on hand—as grounds for a possible compromise.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's administration has estimated $188 million in the account for the next two years but Republicans figure it will be closer to $250 million.

The extra estimated funds, sources said, may be used to restore some of the cuts made by Senate Republicans in agency requests.

Rep. Vernal Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said no compromises had been made Thursday.

"We've had a break through, but we still have to get into the heavy stuff," said Riffe, one of the conferees.

Legislative attention centered on the six member committee Thursday as the legislature recessed for the week.

The committee chairman, Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, scheduled the next session for Monday at 8 p.m. "I think we can get together on this bill," he said.

Although the sessions have been public, the committee has also met informally, usually in Riffe's office.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, has said there is a general agreement by both Republicans and Democrats to avoid interim temporary budgets if at all possible.

The current appropriations bill expires at midnight June 30. Two years ago, the state operated on interim budgets for six months before the final measure was passed.

The House defeated by a single vote Thursday a bill that would have revised state wildlife management programs and gave full police powers to game protectors.

The bill received 49 favorable votes, and 39 negative. It needed 50 favorable votes for passage. The measure was kept alive by a motion to reconsider. It was left pending.

Two additional bills creating a state lottery were introduced into the House. They differed on how the proceeds would be spent.

Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton, offered a bill similar to one now pending in the Senate, which would establish a

New Grace Church pastor, family relocate in WCH

The Rev. T. Mark Dove, newly named pastor of Grace United Methodist Church, and his family moved into the parsonage at 135 W. Circle Ave. Thursday.

The Rev. Mr. Dove, his wife, Jenelle, and their three children, Timothy, 15, Rochelle (Shelley), 12, and Todd, 10, come here from Wyoming, a suburb of Cincinnati, where Mr. Dove had been the minister of Friendship United Methodist Church for the past eight years. He succeeds the Rev. John Armentrout who has been transferred to Forest Chapel, in Cincinnati.

The Rev. Allen Puffenbarger continues as associate pastor of Grace Church.

MR. DOVE, 40, was born in Columbus. His father, the late Walter Dove, was a district soil conservationist who was once stationed in this area.

A Bellefontaine High School graduate, Rev. Mr. Dove received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Ohio State University with a major in psychology. He was graduated from the Boston University School of Theology with a Bachelor of Sacred Theology (STB) degree in 1957.

He served three churches in the Maineville area, near Lebanon, for three years and remained at the Maineville church for an additional two years. Before accepting the pastorate at Wyoming, he served three years on the staff of the Westwood Church, in Cincinnati.

A Mason, Mr. Dove is a member of the 32nd Degree, Scottish Rite, and was affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity at Ohio State. His wife was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, also graduating from Ohio University, where she majored in speech and hearing therapy, in the College of Education. She taught for four years in Cincinnati.

Mr. Dove delivered his first sermon at Grace Church last Sunday. His hobbies include sailing and fishing.

Social Security boost slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted a 5.5 per cent cost-of-living increase for 28 million Social Security beneficiaries, effective next January. Indications were that both the Senate and House would accept it.

The panel decided on an 11 to 2 roll call Thursday to add the provision to a debt limit extension bill, even though Nixon administration officials had objected to it.

Committee Chairman Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said he was certain the Senate would approve the rider when it acts on the bill next week.

And it was learned that House Democratic leaders were prepared to get their branch to accept it when the debt limit measure goes to conference. The House already has passed the bill.

Long said the pace of inflation has been so great since the last Social Security boost in October 1972 that Congress has no alternative but to give some relief to "these poor people who are the biggest victims of inflation."

The debt limit bill was chosen as the vehicle for the rider since the President must act on it by June 30.

John Rankin to spend summer in Brazil

MTHS to host student from Natal, Africa

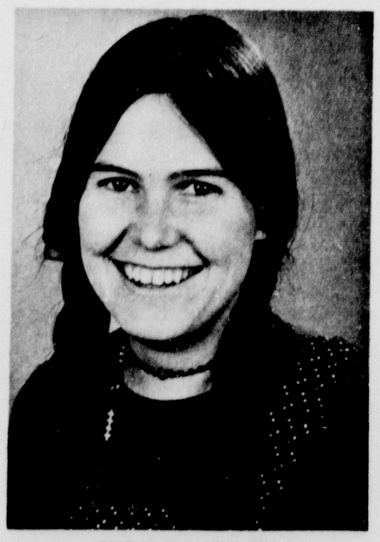
Miami Trace High School has announced the plans of two American Field Service scholarship winners.

John Rankin, a 1973 MTHS graduate, will spend 10 weeks this summer in Velohorizonte, Brazil and Sheila Gordon, of Natal, South Africa, will come to Washington C. H. in late July to attend school here next fall.

Miss Gordon, 18, will stay with the Will Braun family, Hess Rd. She will be a senior at Miami Trace as will her "American Sister," 16-year-old Marlene Braun, Loretta Braun, 15, will be a sophomore.

Miss Gordon will have little communication problem since English and Afrikaans are the official languages of South Africa, and her school work is in English. She is especially interested in speech and drama and enjoys swimming and tennis.

Rankin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rankin, of 729, near Milledgeville, will be staying with the Bolovdorp family in Brazil. His host, director of a chemical company there, has four children, including two sons, age 17 and 18. Rankin will return Aug. 31.



SHEILA GORDON

JOHN RANKIN

commission to implement a lottery. Proceeds would go into the general fund.

Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor introduced a bill that would also create a five-member commission to implement a lottery but would send proceeds back to the counties for property tax relief.

The House approved 72-10 a bill to require slow moving vehicle insignias on animal-drawn vehicles. It is aimed at curbing the accident rate in the Amish area of northeastern Ohio.

The insignias are now required for tractors and other slow equipment. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House approved 81-2 and sent to the Senate a bill extending from five to ten years the maximum time to levy taxes for support of children's services by counties.

The Senate approved 30-0 a bill that would allow the state to build facilities for non-profit private mental retardation institutions. It now goes to the Senate.

The Senate, by an identical vote, passed a bill that requires a record of time spent in jail awaiting trial to accompany a felon admitted to a state penal institution.

Prisoner hangs self in county jail cell

A 21-year-old New Lebanon man being held in the Fayette County jail on breaking and entering charges, committed suicide Thursday night by hanging himself with a bedsheet, the Sheriff's Department reported.

Sheriff Don Thompson said Gary Lee Shock, 21, was found by Deputy Gary Sword during a routine jail check at 9:55 p.m. Sword attempted to revive Shock then called for an ambulance. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital by Dr. Ralph Gebhart, county coroner.

Shock and three other Dayton area men had been arrested early Wednesday after they allegedly broke into a vending machine at Yeoman's Gulf station, U. S. 35 and I-71. He was being held in the jail under $1,000 bond after appearing in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon and entering a not guilty plea.

Sheriff Thompson said Shock had tied the bedsheet around a bar on the side of the cell. He was alone in the cell.

The Sheriff said Sword had made a jail check an hour before and a jail trusty had talked to Shock only minutes before he was found.

An autopsy was to be performed on the body today.

Government eases dividend curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move apparently aimed at the sagging stock market, the Nixon administration has eased its voluntary guidelines holding dividend increases to 4 per cent a year.

The Committee on Interest and Dividends Thursday gave corporations a choice of holding to the 4 per cent guideline or using a more complicated formula. The complex alternative permits dividends to rise by the average increase between 1968 to 1970.

The committee's chairman, Dr. Arthur F. Burns, head of the Federal Reserve Board, said the new guidelines "will make it possible for many corporations to increase their dividend payments significantly this year and to a still greater degree next year."

Burns said the move would be of particular benefit to the elderly and to widows dependent on dividend income.

But the decision also was directed at the stock market, which has failed to respond favorably to President Nixon's new 60-day freeze on prices.

When a report circulated a few weeks ago that the committee was considering changing the guidelines, the stock market moved up strongly. It dropped after the administration said the proposal to ease the guidelines had been put back on the shelf.

Sources said the latest move was aimed more at the stock market than anything else.

The committee, an adjunct of the Cost of Living Council, said it was guided by considerations of equity, saying that the previous guidelines had limited dividend increases by some companies to unusually low levels in comparison with earnings.

The move came as the Commerce Department reported that before-tax profits of corporations increased by $12.8 billion in the first three months of the year, putting corporate profits at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $114.3 billion.

Spacemen home

The Apollo craft hit the calm blue waters at 9:50 a.m. EDT about 830 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif. It was just after dawn off the West Coast.

The 42,000-ton Ticonderoga quickly steamed alongside the three-ton Apollo and tossed a line to frogmen in the water. A crane then lifted the craft and the astronauts to an elevator for a ride to the hangar deck.

Hundreds of white-clad sailors on deck and millions watching television around the world again had a ringside seat to a U.S. man-in-space landing as the Apollo craft floated down through low-hanging clouds and dangling under three huge orange and white parachutes.

"Everyone's in super shape," Conrad said as the spacecraft bobbed on the water awaiting pickup. Frogmen immediately leaped from helicopters to secure the spacecraft with flotation collars.

The Ticonderoga reported the astronauts had landed 6½ miles from the ship and that the ship was 6½ miles from the target point, indicating a perfect touchdown.

The Ticonderoga steamed to pick up the Apollo capsule with the astronauts still inside, in contrast to most earlier U.S. flights when the spacemen were lifted to the carrier by helicopter.

Medical requirements dictated the pick up method today.

Medical experts were not certain how the astronauts would react after returning to earth's gravity following record exposure to space weightlessness so they decided the astronauts should be subjected to as little activity as possible until they can be examined in mobile medical laboratories aboard the Ticonderoga.

The landing completed an historic space mission that lasted 28 days and 50 minutes. During that time the spacemen circled the earth 395 times.

Misson Control was kept in suspense for most of the final 76 minutes of the flight — a period when the Apollo ship was out of radio contact with ground stations.

The Ticonderoga's radar picked up the streaking craft at a distance of 188 miles, 10 minutes before landing.

While out of radio contact, at 9:11 a.m., the astronauts conducted the critical retrorocket burn that slowed their 17,100 mile-an-hour speed by 130 miles, allowing earth's gravity to tug the spacecraft out of orbit and start the long glide through the atmosphere to the eastern Pacific.

The refrigeration trouble caused considerable concern. A maneuver intended to correct it caused a brief gyroscope problem that caused the 10-minute delay in the astronauts' departure from the orbiting laboratory.

"We're free," Conrad reported seconds after the control center flashed the go-ahead for undocking from the 118-footlong laboratory.

After the undocking, the astronauts made a 45-minute flyaround inspection of the station, televising pictures of the odd-looking space vehicle to mission control for evaluation by experts.

Then, in quick succession, they triggered the engine firings that gradually dropped them closer to earth from their original orbital altitude of 275 miles.

Claim Watergate witnesses 'stepped on'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican member of the Senate Watergate committee says the Nixon administration has "stepped on" anyone willing to search for the truth about Watergate.

Sen. Lowell O. Weicker Jr., who made the claim Thursday, also said that fired White House Counsel John W. Dean III should be listened to when he appears before the panel. Dean, who has said he discussed Watergate and a possible coverup with President Nixon, will be the lead-off witness when the hearings resume next week.

"I think there is a great deal of credibility to a story that he is going to go ahead and tell, and I think the committee owes it to him to enable him to tell that story in full view of the public," Weicker said on a Public Television show, "Evening Edition." He was interviewed by Martin Agronsky.

"Is his testimony credible? I think it is. "Nobody's attributing 100-per-cent credibility to him or any other witness, but he's got the guts to stand out there and that's no small thing when you were in his position and had all the pressures that obviously must have existed on this young man at the time to decide that you're going to step forward and tell the story to the American people."

Weicker was the sole opponent of the committee's decision to postpone Dean's appearance for one week last Tuesday because of the summit conferences this week between Nixon and Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

"It should be clear from various public statements that have been made that any institution, whether it's a witness, anybody that's willing to step out and try to find out the truth and try to tell the truth is gonna' get stepped on by the executive branch of government," the Connecticut senator said.

He cited Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's recent attack on the Watergate panel as one that "can hardly hope to find the truth and hardly fail to muddy the waters of justice," as an example of the executive branch's efforts.

Meanwhile, the committee said it was considering a halt to the practice of talking to prospective witnesses in secret because so much supposedly confidential information is leaked to the media.

"I nearly despair of doing anything about it," committee Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said Thursday. "It means that the committee probably will end its closeddoor sessions with witnesses, which until now have been held routinely in advance of public appearances.

Ohioans probably will be in for a generally pleasant weekend, the National Weather Service reported today.

The weather map Friday morning showed a trough of low pressure over Michigan and Indiana which is expected to move eatward across Ohio today.

A few light showers occurred in the trough line Thursday night and this activity will probably intensify somewhat Friday afternoon, but showers are expected to be rather widely scattered and mainly limited to the northern counties.

Skies were generally cloudy during the night with a few light showers spread over the northwestern counties. Temperatures early Friday ranged from 62 at Toledo to 68 at Ironton on the Ohio River.

Temperatures Friday afternoon are expected to rise into the upper 70s and lower 80s with the lows tonight mostly in the 60s. High pressure over the plains states will be drifting eastward during the next few days giving the prospect of a sunny dry weekend with gradually rising temperatures.

Fair Sunday and Monday with a chance of showers about Tuesday. Warmer with highs in the upper 80s and low 90s. Lows mostly in the 60s.

Dollar hits record low in Europe

LONDON (AP — The U.S. dollar dropped to a record low against the West German mark in Frankfurt today and weakened in other European centers.

West European countries stepped in to bolster the faltering Italian lira with up to $2.9 billion worth of support.

American money sank in value to 2.55 marks for $1 as the Frankfurt exchange reopened after a holiday Thursday. Wednesday's price was 2.567 marks.

Frankfurt dealers said the dollar was under selling pressure from New York, and from traders hedging against weekend uncertainties.

For much of the past week, the dollar has closed lower in New York than in European money markets, indicating that American companies are selling dollars for stronger European currencies such as the German mark and Swiss franc.

Dealers in Europe attributed the dollar weakness largely to the effect of the Watergate scandal on the Nixon administration and to inflation in the United States.

In Paris, the dollar lost just over a centime, dipping to 4.22 commercial French francs.

Stock list on upside

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market zoomed upward in active trading today, reacting to the announcement that common shareholders may soon get higher dividend prices on their stocks. But later the market pulled back.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.35 points at 882.00. The Dow zoomed up 19 points when the market opened in a rash of buying. Advancing issues held a 883-377 lead over declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

"A little profit-taking came in but we're settling down now," said John Smith of Fahnestock & Co.

Armco Steel was the most-active issue on the Big Board, up ⅜ at 20½. A 206,500-share block was traded at 20¼, off ⅛.

On the American Stock Exchange, trading was also active and prices higher. The noonprice change index was up 0.01 points at 22.37. Trans World Airlines warrants was the most-active issue on the Amex, up ⅛ at 5.

Legal services for the poor voted by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to create an independent government corporation to provide strictly limited legal services for the poor.

In a session lasting until nearly midnight Thursday, the House adopted 24 amendments to the controversial bill, most of them restricting the scope of the program.

Legal Services lawyers would be barred from representing clients in school desegregation and abortion cases, or from lobbying on their behalf before legislative bodies.

Senate passes land-use bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill to bring an end to landscape blight caused by chaotic urban sprawl and to protect beaches and shorelines.

Eagerly sought by environmentalists, the Senate passed the land-use bill Thursday, 64 to 21. It requires the states to establish land-use plans within eight years.

The measure, which now goes before the House where similar legislation is under study, was substantially unchanged from the version approved by the Senate Interior Committee.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Interior Committee, argued for passage on grounds that nationwide planning is essential to protect America's natural resources.

The measure would authorize, over an eight-year period, $1 billion for land-use planning and $66 million for administration, research and training.

States would receive $920 million for developing state and regional plans and $80 million would go for Indian tribal plans.

The plans would follow federal guidelines aimed at preserving such areas of critical environmental concern as beaches, jetports, shorelines and highway interchanges. The guidelines would be under Interior Department supervision.

A House Interior subcommittee has completed hearings on land-use-planning bills and is expected to consider the proposals in mid-July.

Among the bills before the House subcommittee is an Administration proposal calling for sanctions against noncooperative states, and smaller grants than those in the Senate measure.

Humor marks momentous signing

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the East Room of the White House, where presidents entertain and seven have lain in state, where the family of John Adams hung out their wash to dry and the children of Teddy Roosevelt roller-skated on the parquet floor, Richard Nixon added four striking moments of history, humor and irony yesterday.

At 3:30 p.m., a deep voice announced:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States of America and his Excellency, Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

The audience of Russian and American officials rose and applauded, including the senior senator from North Carolina, Sam J. Ervin Jr.

The President and the Communist leader, a study in contrasting lives and personalities, mounted a small platform and there, with portraits of Dolley Madison and George Washington looking over their shoulders, sat down at a heavy walnut table.

Waiting for the ceremony to begin, the President's eyes swept the room and here and there he nodded to familiar faces. Less than 20 feet away, the senior senator from North Carolina nodded back respectfully, a perpetual smile curling a corner of his mouth.

If, for a microsecond, the eyes of the two men met in a courteous collision of antagonists, it was not perceptible. But if they had, if they had, one wondered what were they thinking—the President of the United States, climaxing a week at the summit, and Sam Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate committee that conceivably could bring him down?

But in this week of grace, with the Watergate hearings postponed so that Nixon might negotiate with Brezhnev, the President had the centerpiece of their work to complete. And he quickly got to it.

He and Brezhnev first signed an agreement to expand cooperation on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. They signed in unison and exchanged copies and signed again.

Then they signed an agreement of principles designed to limit nuclear weapons permanently by the end of 1974.

No slouch at being upstaged, Brezhnev rose, leaned over and feigned a skeptical look at what was going on at Nixon's end of the table. The audience laughed.

"Comrade, to your health."

It was a special moment hearing a Communist call Richard Nixon comrade.

The President and the Soviet leader left, and the audience filed slowly out of the East Room.

A short time later, the steps of the North Portico were quiet again, except for a few happy young Russians taking souvenir photographs of themselves outside the home of the President of the United States.

Seek to ban atom tests

THE HAGUE (AP) — The International Court of Justice called on France today to refrain from nuclear testing in the South Pacific pending a final decision on the legality of the test series.

By an 8-6 vote, the court ruled that Australia and France should not take any action in the meantime "which might extend the dispute or prejudice the final decision of the court."

The court's ruling followed applications last month by Australia and New Zealand seeking an injunction against the French test series.

The court said it would schedule further hearings in September and December. It did not say if France, which boycotted last month's hearings, would be represented at the forthcoming sessions.

Peron seeks to restore party unity

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — After 18 years of exile, former Argentine president Juan Peron is attempting to pull together his movement's feuding factions, realizing the military could once again sweep into power.

After meeting with President Hector J. Campora Thursday night, Peron chastised militants "who try to infiltrate the popular ranks" and cautioned, "We are not in condition to continue destroying ourselves."

"We face a destiny pregnant with pitfalls and danger," Peron said in a nationally televised address. He warned against "those who think that they can capture our movement...."

The 77-year-old former dictator spoke only a day after 20 persons were killed and more than 400 wounded when shooting broke out among 2 million persons who had gathered to see Peron return from Madrid.

Peron blamed leftist infiltrators for the violence and government sources said the split within the movement could result in a reorganization of the new Peronist government of President Hector J. Campora.

Both radical and moderate elements of the Peronist movement united last March and elected Campora president after he had been picked to run by Peron. Most observers concede that Peron most probably will be the power behind the new government.

Sonny, Cher will appear at State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sonny and Cher, the husband and wife singing and comedy team and stars of a weekly television show, highlight the list of rock, pop and country music celebrities who will perform at the Ohio State Fair Aug. 23-Sept. 3.

The Ohio Expositions Commission announced the schedule for the fair's grandstand entertainment on Thursday.

Singing stars Helen Reddy and Mac Davis open the 12-day show with performances on Aug. 23 and 24. They will be followed by the rock band, Rare Earth, on Aug. 25, Dionne Warwicke and "Doc" Severinsen Aug. 26, and the Osmonds, Aug. 27-28.

Sonny and Cher will perform Aug. 29 followed by the 5th Dimension Aug. 30, The Jackson 5 Aug. 31, Country western singer Charley Pride Sept. 1 and Al Green Sept. 2.

The Grand Ole Opry Show will conclude the entertainment on the final day of the fair, Labor Day, Sept. 3. The show will feature Tex Ritter, Ernest Tubb, Jan Howard, Jimmy Dickens and the Cloggers, Minnie Pearl, Skeeter Davis and Earl Scruggs.

New mounted police must watch greenery

SEATTLE, Wash (AP) — The city's new mounted police squad is to attend horticultural class before beginning patrols next week in the University of Washington Arboretum.

Citizens' groups have expressed concern that the horses' hooves might trample valuable greenery.

Opinion And Comment

Both in the spotlight

Thus far there has been surprisingly little indication of partisan tensions among members of the Senate committee investigating the Watergate affair and related matters.

A few rather gentle sparks did fly after the chairman, Sen. Sam Ervin, bore down heavily on the Republicans' alleged practice of converting large campaign gifts to cash to "circumvent" the gift tax.

The committee's Republican vice chairman, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., promptly urged a sort of even-Stephen inquiry into the matter. "If we are going into this," he said, "I suggest the committee subpoena the records of the Democratic National Committee and all candidates of either major party for a reasonable period up to April 7 (the date in 1972 when the disclosure requirement changed) in order to study this."

Ervin as promptly agreed to this, observing that he would sign a subpoena to command the appearance of any witness requested by any member of the committee. That, to mix metaphors, diluted whatever racy partisan flavor might have developed at the hearings.

Baker is quite right in proposing that if one party is to be called into question for the deceptive practice of breaking down big contributions into a number of smaller ones, both parties should be held accountable.

It appears that this will be done, and Democratic National Chairman Robert L. Strauss has already said that he welcomes inspection of his party's financial records.

The prospect of an inquiry into this is heartening. Both parties have to some extent been guilty of obeying the letter of the law while ignoring its spirit.

Spotlighting this at the committee hearings may sufficiently arouse the public to discourage such practices in the future.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Massachusetts may be redistricted

BOSTON — The forces of reform, led by the League of Women Voters, have just won a noble victory — or so they believe. After about five years of agitation and pressure plus a referendum, the Great and General Court — our legislature — has voted to decrease the size of the lower house from 240 members to 160.

This will go on the ballot in November for final approval, and one can predict that it will pass overwhelmingly. However, before you cheer too loudly for the enlightened Massachusetts electorate, it is worth noting the suspicion that a referendum entirely to abolish the Great and General Court would probably receive public endorsement.

The League of Women Voters has argued persuasively that a small house will be much more efficient. Possibly this is true, though I doubt it. The "inefficiency" of the legislature has not been a function of its size, but of the chaotic state of Massachusetts politics.

The New York State Legislature, for example, is roughly the same size as ours, but Gov. Nelson Rockefeller runs it like a Marine boot camp.

MASSACHUSETTS simply has no organized political parties. Every time an election looms up, the clans gather and coalitions form only to vanish the day after election. As the 1972 election amply demonstrated, there are no coattails and the notion that the Kennedys controlled the Democrats was nonsense (as they were aware) — their strength was and still is limited to a veto power. They can't elect anybody, but they can block an undesirable nominee.

At any rate the League is jubilant and in political terms it has a right to be. To get a legislature to purge itself is quite a trick. But there is a joker in the deck which the League simply refuses to recognize.

Assuming for purposes of discussion that the League is right in suggesting that the smaller body will be more efficient, it is equally true that it will be less representative. In concrete terms, the state will be carved into 160 house districts rather than 240. Does anyone want to put any money on who will bet the axe?

In our legislature we have some of the best map manipulators in the business. Just recently, for example, they put on a display that should have made national news. It began when the blacks, backed by the liberals, indicated their desire for a seat in the lily-white state Senate.

Among the strong supporters of this move — as of other egalitarian causes — were the Boston Jewish community and Jewish members of the General Court. So, chuckling with glee, the map-makers retired to their basement room and returned with a redistricting plan for the Senate which put the black sections in the same senatorial district as predominantly Jewish Brookline!

"Let the Jews and blacks fight it out!" observed one cheerful lawmaker. This, however, was a little too much and, as of this writing, the map-makers are back at their board.

THE POINT that the League stubbornly refused to acknowledge is that the map-makers will be a noble group of senior legislators who will devote themselves to preserving their ilk. The black caucus in the House, which has five members, blew the whistle immediately. They figure that the new map will dispose of at least three of their company and they don't eliminate the possibility that four could be mapped out.

Other groups, the Armenians in particular, feel the same way: a friend of mine from that community observed sourly that the new house would contain 80 Irish, 79 Italians, and one black, but that fortunately many Irish and Italians had Armenian wives.

Well, wondrous are the ways of reform. My guess is that the League of Women Voters will live to regret its abstract commitment to efficiency when it sees how the old pols carve up that new map.

Connally seeks graceful way to bow out

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Connally's first mission as a Republican isn't working out the way he had hoped and he apparently is finding it difficult to bow out gracefully.

Consequently, the political future of the most prominent Democrat-turned Republican may be not good.

On May 1, when President Nixon announced that the former chairman of Democrats for Nixon was becoming a parttime White House advisor, Connally appeared to have come up with the ideal situation.

He could both establish himself as a credible Republican by aiding his party in its hour of need, and on the other hand, by not taking a more formal job with a title, he didn't get close enough to be tainted by Watergate.

But while denying a string of published reports that the job has turned sour for him, Connally said he hoped his news conference Wednesday would get the message to Nixon "that I hope we get through by the middle of the summer."

"He obviously wants to disassociate himself from the administration," one associate said. "He wants to put as much water between him and the President as possible."

Among the reports that have been leaking out about Connally are that he is at odds with White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, who he reportedly thinks should quit, and has called the White House operation "a screwed-up mess."

Rumblings too frequent, too forceful and too authoritative to be ignored despite public disclaimers say Connally feels frustrated and stifled, ignored and under-utilized.

Connally also is reported to have given Nixon some unwelcome advice about Watergate, which has cooled the once warm relations between the two. Other reports say he seldom gets to see Nixon privately and does not have the punch he did formerly as Secretary of the Treasury, which he held as a Democrat during Nixon's first term.

Eyebrows have arched over the fact that Connally works out of a hotel suite instead of an assigned office in the Executive Office Building and has been given no staff.

The job also has not produced the limelight that an aspiring politician needs. As a private advisor rather than the administration spokesman he was as a Cabinet member, Connally has gotten little or no publicity.

But Connally cannot afford the appearance of abandoning ship at this point, of having failed or chickened out of his mission as savior to an embattled president and healer to the party.

And Nixon equally as much does not need the embarrassment of having John Connally, who he is reported to have predicted will be the 1976 GOP presidential nominee, quit in a huff.

So, Wednesday, with Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren at his elbow, Connally said all the right things, denying all the published rumors--and then demolished the whole effort with several of his witticisms.

He denied he was not being adequately utilized, and then volunteered as how he has had a lot of time "for catching up on my reading." At another point he said: "I believe I've given all the advice that I have to give."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

After last week's council meeting I stopped and spoke to Chief Rodman Scott and he was telling me about the remodeling that he and his men did on the Police headquarters.

He invited me and also extended an invitation to Don Wood. So we took him up on his invitation.

To say the least I was amazed to see how much improved it looked to the old building. The police force should be given a big hand of gratitude from the people of Washington C.H. The best part is they did it on their own time.

Men like that must really like their jobs, only to be superseded by the love of their community.

I think these men did a wonderful job on remodeling plus the money they saved the tax payers.

I feel these men should have bouquets given them for their effort. I think they deserve orchids.

Find baby elephant male, not a female

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Portland zoo officials have discovered that a 3-day-old, 225- pound elephant is a male, not a female as they thought earlier.

The 13th member of the zoo's herd was born Sunday, bring the count to five males and eight females.

At the official weigh-in Wednesday, the 35-inch tall baby was found to have a 20- inch tail, 9-inch trunk and 44- inch chest.

High gasoline prices predicted for future

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — "I don't think you'll see it for a long time where $1 a gallon is a normally accepted price of gasoline," says the president of Gulf Oil Corp. "It will come, but it will be a long time before it comes," Bob Dorsey predicted at a press conference Tuesday.

He said the price of gasoline and other fuels "are going to be going up steadily as time goes by. I don't think it's going to be dramatic."

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without:

Half our problems.

Plastic wrapping on soup crackers that is stronger than steel.

College diplomas that don't qualify a guy to earn as much as a plumber's helper.

Any more gore-filled movies or television shows that threaten to exhaust the nation's supply of ketchup.

That tired feeling everyone seems to get from 20th century living.

Suburban trains that have standing room only.

Girls who tell you they dreamed about you last night but won't tell what happened in the dream.

Girls who say they aren't that kind of girl but act like they are.

Leftover pizza pie for breakfast.

Leftover party food of any kind.

Overly amiable guys who, no matter what the weather is, say it's the very kind of weather they like best.

Strangers at a bar who insist on telling everybody in the house what great football players they were in high school.

Any new breakfast food that claims it can do more for you than the new breakfast food that came out yesterday can.

Drivers who get completely lost while trying to take a short cut home in order to save time.

Anybody who says "God bless you" when neither you nor God is really on his mind.

From these and other nuisances of body and spirit, deliver us, Amen.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Confessing to affair would serve no purpose

DEAR ABBY: I am in the United States Air Force. I am a married man, but I have spent more time away from my wife than with her because I have been stationed overseas in places where dependents are not permitted.

I love my wife with all my heart and nothing could ever change that. We have had a good marriage in which we have always said that we would be absolutely truthful with each other. Well, that is my problem. I have failed in my part of the agreement.

I have told my wife that she was the only woman I have ever had an affair with. That's a lie. Before I was married, I had an affair with a married woman. While I was overseas I had two "one-night stands" with a different girl each time. They meant nothing to me. I can't even remember their names.

I have prayed for forgiveness and feel that Jesus has forgiven me, but I feel so guilty about lying to my wife. But if I told her the truth now she would never believe another world I said. believe another word I said.

Should I confess these lies to her or not? Abby, you are the only person to whom I've told this.

At the bottom of your column in the Stars and Stripes it says: "Write to Abby, you'll feel better if you get it off your chest."

I think I do. Now tell me, should I tell my wife?

OFF MY CHEST IN GUAM

DEAR OFF: No, no, no! Confessing to your wife would only make her unhappy. You've confessed to Jesus. That's enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is an unwritten code of ethics among hairdressers. One operator does not deliberately steal another operator's patron. If the customer herself decides to switch to her own accord, fine and dandy. But for an operator to try to lure away a co-workers best-paying or most interesting customers is unethical.

As a shop owner who is also a hairdresser I have seen some excellent operators fall victim to such piracy and consequently lose their self-confidence. By the time the owner of the shop becomes aware of what has happened, the offending operator have made themselves so valuable to the shop that the owner can't afford to fire them.

How are the victims to fight back?

NAMELESS OUT WEST

DEAR NAMELESS: It's conceivable that a salesperson might successfully lure away a co-worker's customer. But it's highly unlikely that a hairdresser could "steal" a satisfied patron from a co-worker. If the patron can be "lured away, she's not satisfied, in which case it's her privilege to switch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged woman with a problem I hope you won't think this is too silly to answer. Every summer I visit my sister in Omaha for a week. She has a lovely guest room, and I enjoy visiting her, but there is one annoyance.

In the hall just outside my bedroom door there is a grandfather clock which chimes on the half hour, and then again on the hour. These chimes keep me awake practically all night. I can't understand how my sister and her husband can sleep with that clock in the hall. When the chimes are silent, I am disturbed by the loud ticking.

I hate to complain to my sister, but I am dreading my next visit. Perhaps if you print this she'll get the hint.

"TICK, TOCK, AND BONG"

DEAR TICK: Here's your letter. And if that clock is still "ticktocking" and "bonging" when you arrive in Omaha, ask your sister to please stop the clock for the duration of your visit.

Fellowship Hall is Dedicated by Gregg Street Church of Christ

The Fellowship Hall of the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon, June 17. The hall is located on U.S. Rt. 35 at Jamison Rd. The spacious building is the hub of fellowship activities for the church.

Several of the leaders of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union were present, including Dr. W.L. Cozad, general superintendent of the churches of Christ in Christian Union, and the Rev. Joe Johnson, district superintendent.

The Rev. Charles Williams introduced the current church board and some members who were on the board when plans for the Fellowship hall was conceived. He stated that the vision for this building was born during the 1970 Revival which lasted four weeks. It began as a dream but now stands as a monument to those who worked so hard for its success. He said that his greatest satisfaction was that it was a place to honor our Senior Citizens. Each year the Gregg Street Church holds an appreciation day for the Senior Citizens of the church.

It has also become the custom to have a banquet each year for our graduating seniors. Wedding receptions for people from our church are held there, last winter we had 18 basket ball teams all formed from boys who are members of either our Sunday School or our church.

Class meetings of the various Sunday School Classes are also held in this building. There is seldom a day when it is not busy with some function or another. It has a large gymnasium type auditorium, a completely equipped kitchen, and a large living room-type lounge.

At the present time the Gregg Street Church is holding a tent revival on the grounds of the Fellowship Hall. The church owns 13 acres on this site, with the Rev. Mr. Williams, evangelist. The Kenny Parker Trio are the singers for the entire week and on Thursday, they will be joined by Dottie Rambo.

Services begin each evening at 7:30 p.m. In the event of high wind or seriously inclement weather the services will be held in the church on Gregg Street. Sunday School and Church will be held in the Gregg Street Church as usual but all evening services including Sunday will be held at the tent on the Fellowship Hall Grounds.

Churchmen become involved in strikes

By GEORLE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A bishop on a picket line...a priest beaten in a labor dispute . . . a sidewalk religious service for strikers.

These are among incidents marking an increasingly active role by American church leaders in behalf of various groups of striking workers.

The tactics are mostly new, often controversial.

Both Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders have sided with Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers union in its efforts to represent California grape workers, and a growing lineup of bishops are backing demands of strikers at an El Paso clothing plant for collective bargaining rights.

In both cases, the workers are mostly Mexican-Americans.

Although major religious bodies for years have voiced general support for principles of labor organizing rights, they usually haven't become directly involved in specific labor conflicts, as they now are doing.

But in "crisis situations," the confrontation method often is the "best way of delivering the message of Jesus,' says the Rev. Dennis J. Geaney, a Chicago priest-educator, after a stint on a picket line outside a supermarket, demanding it sell only UFW-picked grapes.

On the basis of a three-month inquiry by a special commission, the executive committee of the National Council of Churches also threw its support to Chavez' UFW, a stand taken previously by a U.S. Roman Catholic bishops' committee.

When its chairman, Bishop Joseph Donnelly, of Hartford, Conn., recently visited pickets at grape ranches in California's Coachella Valley, praying with them and blessing them, he was taunted by ranch guards.

"Go back to your churches!" some yelled. "Quit putting your nose in our business. Stick to religion! Stop supporting the Commie line!"

In El Paso, a drawn-out strike for union representation by workers at the big Farah Manufacturing Co., a maker of men's pants, has drawn backing of more than a dozen Catholic bishops in addition to El Paso's Bishop Sidney Metzger.

A boycott of the company's products, urged initially by Paso's Bishop Metzger and San Antonio's Bishop Patrick Flores, also drew support of four Arizona and New Mexico bishops.

The year-long strike against the company reportedly involves 2,000 of more than 8,000 employes.

In the California grape dispute, Chavez' UFW for three years had contracts with grape growers, but when contracts expired this spring, most growers — 30 of them — signed new contracts not with the UFW, but with the Teamsters Union.

Msgr. George Higgins, a veteran labor expert for the U.S. Catholic Conference, says surveys have shown field workers prefer by almost 10 to 1 to be presented by the UFW.

Meanwhile, in Coachella, Calif., the Rev. John Bank, a priest from Youngstown, Ohio, working with the UFW, was hospitalized after being beaten, allegedly by a guard from a ranch where Teamsters have a contract.

Taft with majority on land use measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, voted Thursday with the majority in approving a $1.06 billion bill to encourage proper planning for the use of land.

The vote in the Senate was 64-21. Ohio's other Republican senator, William Saxbe, did not vote.

the ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Samson Slays the Lion

Then went Samson down . . . and behold a young lion roared against him. And the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and (barehanded) he rent him as he would have rent a kid.

—Judges 14:5-6

Samson, son of Manoah, was the thirteenth Judge raised up to deliver the Israelites from the hands of the Philistines, under whom they had suffered for forty years. But it was the daughter of a Philistine whom he decided to marry—much against his parents' wishes. He persuaded them, nevertheless, to go with him to Timnath where she lived and arrange for the marriage. The Bible relates in its first of many tales of Samson's formidable strength, how along the road to Timnath, he encountered a lion and, without weapon of any kind, slew him with his bare hands.

MRS. GUY RICHARD GARDNER

Miss Fout is June bride

Miss Janet Lee Fout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fout, 329 Peabody Ave., was united in marriage in First Christian Church June 15 to Guy Richard Gardner, son of Charles Frank Gardner, 518 Peddicord. The Rev. Don Baker read the double-ring service at 7:30 p.m., following a musical interlude by Miss Elaine Stookey, organist, and Mrs. Phyllis Matthews, vocalist.

The church altar had vase arrangements of white gladioli, blue and yellow Killian daisies and baby's breath, with flanking candelabra, tied with yellow and blue bows, and greenery. A candle, with greenery, was in each window and the family pews were decorated with leather leaf and tied with bows.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Fout was attired in a formal-length gown of white silk organza, over bridal taffeta, with a square, laced neckline and sheer bishop sleeves. An arched empire waistline was encircled with chantilly daisies. Lace motifs were on the chapel-length train and pearls were scattered over the entire outfit. She had an arched crown double silk veil and carried a cascade bouquet of white cattleya orchids nested in white stephanotis, with satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Karen Estep, the bride's cousin, who wore a pale yellow dotted swiss frock, empire-waisted, with V-neck and short puffed sleeves. Miss Monica Jaeckels, bridesmaid, was similarily attired in pastel blue. Both wore picture hats with wide matching bows down the back. They carried concord bouquets of yellow carnations, blue and yellow daisies and streamers.

Tom Jones was best man and Darrell Gardner, groomsman, for his brother. Jeff Estep and Chris Alspaugh, cousins, were ushers. All had white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Fout wore a rose polyester knit street-length frock for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother had a pink polyester knit, also street-length. Both had corsages of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Jeff Estep, Mrs. Debbie Snyder and Mrs. Sue Johnson, hostesses for the reception held in the church social room, had white carnation corsages, as did Mrs. Judy Hagler at the guest book. The punch bowl and wedding cake were encircled with blue and yellow daisies and carnations, entwined with greenery.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Washington High School and Mr. Gardner has been an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for 4 years as a foreman. They are living on Rt. 1, Bloomingburg.

Country Club bridge winners

Twenty-two members played bridge at the Washington Country Club Thursday afternoon, following a noon luncheon of the Ladies Bridge Club. The tables were centered with arrangements of spring flowers.

Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer was 'high' winner in bridge play, Mrs. N. M. Reiff, second and Mrs. Howard Wright, third.

Hostesses were Mrs. B. M. Slagle, Mrs. C. D. Young and Mrs. Hazel Smathers.

Caplingers attend a wedding, see the country

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caplinger, of Rt. 1, have returned home, following a trip west which ultimately reached San Jose, Calif., where they attended the wedding of their son, St. Sgt. John Caplinger to Miss Stephanie Eatherton, of San Jose. Sgt. Caplinger, who has been stationed at Wiesbaden, Germany, met Miss Eatherton there and they will return to his base, following a visit here with the Caplingers next week.

Enroute to California, accompanying their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond and son, Nathan, of Mount Sterling, the Caplingers visited many of the interesting and scenic locations, including Pike's Peak, the Gateway Arch, Grand Canyon, Hoover Dam, the Painted Dessert, Death Valley, the Air Force Academy, at Colorado Springs, Yosemite, Mesa Verde, San Francisco's Chinatown and many other attractions.

They came home by plane, the Drummonds to follow later by car.

Economics Club partakes of oriental culture

The Fayette County Professional Home Economics Club enjoyed an afternoon of Japanese culture Tuesday. They and their guests had lunch at the Betty Crocker Tree House, in Columbus, before going to Westerville, where the Kyoto Tea House is located.

George Hendren, owner of the tea house and a former resident of Japan, has assembled authentic replicas of a Shinto shrine, a Japanese home, including gardens, and a Japanese street of store fronts.

Many parts of the buildings and works of art have come directly from Japan and the descriptions the group heard,along with the atmosphere made it a truly 'oriental' experience.

Grandmothers have a picnic

Fayette Grandmothers Club found the patio a delightful place Thursday noon as they picnicked at the home of Mrs. Harold Holland, on Beaver Creek. Mrs. Arthur Fricke assisted Mrs. Holland.

Mrs. Fred Feldman, president, had the brief meeting, during which the group had prayer and pledges and Mrs. Lee Cleland gave devotions. A silent auction was fun and 'funds' simultaneously.

Attending were Mrs. Marvine Deskins, Mrs. Robert Harper, Mrs. Fricke, Mrs. Cleland, Mrs. Feldman, Mrs. Walter Taylor, Mrs. Charles Herman and the hostess.

School leaders feud in Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati School Supt. Donald Waldrip said he will ask the school board not to renew his assistant's contract Monday after Dr. Robert P. Curry refused to retire.

The announcement Thursday night followed an exchange of memos between Waldrip and Curry, 61, deputy superintendent. Waldrip told Curry to retire or be fired. Curry, with the system since 1935, refused.

Curry was acting superintendent from September, 1971, until Waldrip's appointment in August, 1972.

Neither would discuss the matter. Waldrip said he would make his recommendation to the school board Monday morning.

Myckki Callender weds Thomas R. Parsley

The Rev. Donald Baker read the double-ring service uniting Miss Myckki L. Callender and Thomas Ray Parsley, in the First Christian Church, at 2:30 p.m., May 12.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Callender, 1550 Dennis St. and he is the son of Mrs. Walter C. Parsley, 505 Van Deman St.

The church altar was decorated with vases of white gladioli and daisies. Family pews were indicated by bows and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Wayne Spengler, organist, played nuptial music, prior to the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white angel skin satin gown with hand-beaded lace. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place with a camelot cap, also beaded. The gown and headpiece were made by the bride. Her bouquet was of white and yellow daisies, with baby's breath and satin streamers.

Maid of honor for Miss Callender was Miss Cathy Ann Massie. Bridesmaids were Miss Jery Lynn Maust, Takoma Park, Md., Mrs. Terry Kelso, the groom's sister, from Canonsburg, Pa., Miss Rebecca Joy Callender, sister of the bride, and Miss Robin Page Brakeall, cousin. Samantha Jayne Bennett and Stacy Beth Kelso were flower girls.

The bride's attendants were similarly attired in frocks with empire bodices, sheer butterfly sleeves and gathered skirts. They wore garden hats with scarf banding matching their dresses. The maid of honor was was in mint green, two of the bridesmaids in lavendar and two in yellow. The flower girls had white dresses with ribbon cummerbunds of yellow, lavendar and green.

The attendants all wore hand-beaded chokers to match their dresses, the chokers made by the bride's mother, and carried baskets of colorful daisies and baby's breath. All outfits were designed by the bride and her mother.

The Rev. Walter Parsley, the groom's brother, served as best man. He is from Indianapolis. Ushers were Terry Kelso, of Canonsburg, Dennis Caplinger, of Columbus, and Douglas Allen White.

Mrs. Callender wore a red and white polyester knit for her daughter's wedding and the groom's mother wore an A-line lavender knit.

A reception in the church social room after the service featured a three-tiered cake, decorated in spring-type flowers. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Maust, Mrs. Buckner Burbage, Mrs. Douglas Williams and Mrs. Walter Parsley. Assisting were Mrs. Tom Hixon, of Greenfield, Miss Joyce Armintrout and Miss Terri Wright. Miss Jane Callendar was at the guest book.

The bride, a 1971 Miami Trace graduate, attended Columbus Business Technical Institute and is employed at Agrico as a posting clerk. Mr. Parsley, who graduated from Washington High School in 1972, is a machine operator at Avoset.

Famed jogger, 106, runs 6 miles daily

John F. Richardson, regional social security commissioner, presented Lewis with a sweat shirt inscribed "Larry Lewis, Social Security's Oldest Jogger—106."

MR. AND MRS. PAUL GOOKEN BARGER

Miss Janet King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert King, of 1208 Paint St., and Paul W. Gookenbarger, son of Mr. and Mrs. P.W. Gookenbarger, of Rt. 3, were married Saturday in the South Side Church of Christ. The Rev. Charles J. Richmond read the service in the presence of only the family and close friends.

Miss Kathy Duncan was maid of honor for Miss King and Kenneth Pierson, of Jamestown, served as best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Paul's sister, Mrs. Wilma Lower, Jeffersonville.

June is Dairy Month - drink milk

June is the month when the dairy industry focuses attention on its many products through advertising. It's a good thing, too. Surveys conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture show that in the spring and summer months, there is an increase in the number of diets in our country which are deficient in calcium; and milk is an excellent source of this important nutrient.

Why do we have this summertime deficiency of calcium, expecially among children? Part of the reason is that they are not drinking the same amount of milk they drink during the school year as a part of the school lunch program. With the coming of warm weather, it is so easy to slip into the habit of drinking iced drinks and neglecting milk. This is also true for adults. Let's remember that we never grow too old to need milk.

Just how much milk do we need each day? Children under 9 need 2 - 3 cups, and children 9 to 12 need 3 or more. Teenagers need 4 cups or more, while adults need at least 2 cups.

Milk does not necessarily have to be served in a glass. Milk can be used in cream soups, sauces, puddings, in baked goods, and on cereal. Cheese and ice cream are also good sources of milk. If our families drink 2 per cent milk or skim milk, the calcium content is still the same — only the amount of fat has been changed.

Here is a recipe that is especially timely, since in addition to milk and ice cream, it also contains strawberries. Why not plan to prepare this for a meeting sometime soon? The recipe can be reduced down easily for a family size amount also.

STRAWBERRY MILK PUNCH

Mix: 6 cups mashed strawberries; 1 to 2 cups sugar, according to taste; dash salt

Add: 4 quarts cold milk; 2 quarts softened strawberry ice cream; 2 quarts softened mint ice cream

Method: Stir to mix well, and serve. Makes about 24 servings of average size. (Vanilla ice cream may be substituted for the mint if desired).

Progress Club hears about AFS program

The Jeffersonville Progress Club, meeting at the Wardell Party Home for their June Social, enjoyed a noon luncheon and an afternoon of pleasure with American Field Service student Miss Claudia Becht and Mrs. Wayne Dowler, who gave the group an insight into the history of the AFS.

The luncheon tables were gay with floral arrangements of the season's roses, with miniature corsages marking place settings. Mrs. Robert Owens, club president, welcomed members and guests and Mrs. Charles Seibert gave the invocation.

Mrs. Dowler's presentation of the AFS project at Miami Trace High School interested the group in the method of choosing students and the homes in which they are placed. She reviewed the students who have attended Miami Trace and the ones from the school who have participated in the Americans Abroad Summer Program.

Miss Becht, who cames from Aachen, Germany, and has spent the school year in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Duff and family, showed pictures of her home, related interesting stories and data and told the group what her year in the United States had meant to her. She will be leaving here June 30.

Hostesses for the pleasant party were Mrs. G. Max Morrow, chairman, Miss Helen Fultz, Mrs. Russell Hall and Mrs. Seibert.

Other members present included Mrs. John Cummins, Mrs. Otho Fent, Mrs. Carl Janes, Mrs. Joe Lanum, Mrs. Justin Owens, Mrs. John Sheeley, Mrs. Kenneth Spahr, Mrs. Darlene Wagner and Mrs. Ruth Williams.

DAYP Club eats and swims

Do As You Please Club did their own thing as they met at the home of Mrs. Carl Wilt for their annual picnic and swim party. They picnicked at noon and spent the afternoon swimming and chatting and doing what they pleased.

Enjoying the relaxing time were Mrs. Howard Williams, Mrs. Margaret Frederick, Mrs. Orris Mallow, Mrs. Charles Burke, Mrs. LaVerne Morgan, Mrs. Charles Curtin, Mrs. Ella Speakman, Mrs. Carrie Wilt, Mrs. Ruth Smith and their hostess, Mrs. Wilt, joined by Mr. Wilt, their sons, Jerry and Carl Jr. and Donnie Curtin.

Don't throw away those large outer leaves of lettuce. Wash and dry them, then shred them fine. Use as a base for salads.

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's temper is on the edge of flaring these days as he tries to move an immovable object, Senate Minority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland.

For the second time in two years, Gilligan and his Democratic leader in the Senate— who, incidentally, was not the governor's choice —have tangled over the budget.

After the latest showdown, Calabrese and two of his followers voted with Republicans to pass the GOP version of the budget for the next two years. Calabrese freed the Democrats to "vote your conscience."

It hasn't helped the relationship between the two, described by most legislative leaders as strained at its best.

Gilligan, the former college professor, is at home with theories. Calabrese, the Italian immigrant who came off the sidewalks of Cleveland, deals in practicalities.

Calabrese said the governor was "impractical" in trying to get more out of the Senate, controlled by Republicans 17-16.

"Let this go to conference committee," said Calabrese. "That's where you work to get a compromise on these things."

The governor, he said, was surrounded by "those kids" who, he indicated, didn't understand the practical aspects of the situation.

Calabrese was one of the first to notice that the GOP version of the House-passed budget actually appropriated more money.

The governor's chief objections, when meeting with Calabrese and his assistant, Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, was about cutbacks in pet spending projects, such as the Environmental Protection Agency.

Democrats have a 58-41 edge in the House, which Calabrese believes is the "muscle." The conference committee to work out differences is divided 3-3 among the parties.

Gilligan's aides, however, admit the governor wanted to prove his services budget in the Senate. He would like to embarass Republicans.

"How can you embarass anybody for giving you more money than you asked, even if he didn't split it the way you liked?" asked a Democratic Senator who didn't back Calabrese on his budget vote but admittedly admired his stand.

TV Viewing

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The ABC Television network tonight is giving us a one-hour advance taste of what satirists Jack Burns and Avery Schreiber will do in their new Saturday night summer series on ABC.

The series officially starts June 30.

Burns and Schreiber are two very funny guys who've been kicking around for years without much national recognition of their talents.

Their new comedy-variety show probably will rectify this matter. Tonight's offering is a good start, even though it may not always leave you rolling on the floor.

Several skits don't come off — particularly one about a pretentious suburban couple — but the entire hour generally is heads and shoulders above most comedy-variety shows on TV, both in pace and writing.

Things commence with Burns and Schreiber arriving on stage clad in tuxedoes. They obviously are uneasy about wearing such duds.

From there it's on to a plush night club, where Burns tries to give his pal lessons in suave and how to pick up girls. He's promptly rejected by one lady — Valerie Harper — who says: "Look at his hair — he's trying to prove the wet look isn't dead."

Their show promises to brighten a television summer that previously threatened to be as lively as a barbiturate souffle.

Turning to international affairs, the CBS, NBC and ABC networks all say they'll carry Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's address to the United States at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The videotaped speech, which lasts 30 minutes, will include a simultaneous English translation.

Will there by any "instant analysis" of Brezhnev's speech? No way, say ABC and CBS. NBC says there might be a little bit.

Oldsters: Take Care of Feet!

It is astonishing how careless many people are about the protection of their feet.

In the young, when the blood supply is active, the problems are not nearly so severe as they are in the elderly. When arteriosclerotic changes begin in the arteries of the legs and the feet, particular care is imperative.

When the blood vessels are normal and do not have calcium plaques within them, they are elastic and bring blood and oxygen to the tiniest blood vessels at the tips of the feet. Injury or infection is easily controlled.

In the elderly, however, the blood supply is diminished because of the narrowing of the arteries. A cut, a bruise, or an infection of the foot may become complicated because there is not sufficient blood and oxygen in the areas of these tissues.

For the elderly, therefore, the care of the feet is particularly important. People with diabetes and chronic circulatory problems must keep their feet in a constant state of cleanliness. Washing them with a mild soap and thoroughly drying them can keep the skin from becoming irritated and open to infection.

Gentle lotions help to keep the toes and feet soft and lubricated.

Tight garters must be avoided, for they tend to diminish the circulation of the blood.

Fungus infections and athlete's foot are common in the elderly, even though the victims are not necessarily active in sports. These infections must be controlled with special drugs and powders so that secondary infections will not occur.

Tobacco further constricts the blood vessels and should be scrupulously avoided.

Many ulcers of the toes and feet fail to heal because of the spasm caused by tobacco.

Toenails should always be cut straight across. Whenever possible this should be done by someone else, to be sure that there is no injury with the scissors. Cutting down in the corners is a dangerous procedure.

Corns and calluses on the toes, the heels and bottom of the feet should never, but never, be cut by anyone other than a trained podiatrist or chiropodist. This is an excellent investment in foot health.

Far too many limbs have been sacrificed because of the injuries people inflict on themselves by their own razor blade surgery.

A slight cut with the razor blade in people with poor circulation opens the avenue for infection and invites the possibility of gangrene.

Well-fitting shoes made of a soft light leather can prevent the blisters, the corns, the infections and complications.

Rubbing the feet occasionally with lanolin or cocoa butter keeps them soft and prevents cracking of the skin.

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦
2 ♠	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥

North leads the three of spades. South takes the ace and returns the nine of diamonds. You win in dummy and lead a heart, South producing the three. How would you play the hand?

West	East
♠ Q	♠ 10 4 2
♥ A J 10 9 8 7	♥ 6 5 2
♦ K 7 4 3	♦ A Q J 5 3
♣ Q 2	♣ A 7

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the queen of hearts, South plays the king, and you duck. When South returns the eight of hearts, you win and cash the A-K of diamonds, learning that South started with three to the jack. How do you proceed:

West	East
♠ A J 10 9	♠ Q 6
♥ A 3	♥ 6 5 4 2
♦ 10 9 7 6	♦ A K Q 5 2
♣ A K 7	♣ 8 3

1. The diamond return is obviously a singleton; otherwise, South's play makes no sense. The question is whether to finesse the heart or go up with the ace to forestall the impending ruff.

Oddly enough, the finesse is the right play. The danger of a ruff is more imaginary than real. True, it may occur, but if it does, you make the contract.

Let's say you finesse and lose the trick to North, who returns a diamond that South ruffs. That is the third trick for the defense, but also their last. Whatever South returns, you score the rest of the tricks.

♠ AJ9865 ♥ KQ3 ♦ 9 ♣ 986

In that case, going up with the ace would cost you the contract because the defenders would score two trumps, a spade and a club.

2. It would be wrong to attempt a spade finesse because, if it lost, you could go down, losing four hearts and a spade. The only way to nail down the contract is to lead a heart and discard a diamond on it. This permits you to cash the remaining diamonds later on — which you can't do currently because the suit is blocked.

The first two tricks disclosed that North had, at most, five hearts. On the recommended method of play you can lose four heart tricks, but nothing else.

SOHIO STATIONS RETURNING TO NORMAL OPERATIONS

We are glad to tell you that Sohio stations are returning to normal hours of operation and can fill your gasoline needs without purchase restrictions.

Our Lima refinery resumed full operations on June 3, enabling us to rebuild gasoline inventories to acceptable operating levels. Effective June 20, we were able to lift the gasoline allocation to service stations that was announced on May 24. We can now provide all of our service stations with the equivalent of last year's volume plus some allowance for growth.

Most Sohio stations will again be operating on normal daily schedules, and will be open Sundays beginning June 24.

It is possible that a few dealer stations may be temporarily out of gasoline during late June because they did not control their sales to the previous allocation level.

However, in the great majority of cases Ohio motorists should find it as convenient as ever to purchase gasoline from Sohio stations.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation and expect to continue to merit your patronage.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A good day! Go "behind the scenes" if you have important business to transact. This could be the factor that insures success.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Mercury, favorable, will help you to capitalize on your ideas instead of keeping them in the thought stage. An original approach will pay off.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

A special way of saying the right thing at the right time will be rewarding. Be cognizant of "tricky" situations and handle as required.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You may profit by working with another on an idea he has, but which he may be having difficulty in launching. Don't hesitate.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If you have gained a point or two, do not press for more too soon. Ease your way along so as not to upset the applecart.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your stars warn against undue exertion, scattering energies, unwisely attempting to handle the unfamiliar. In general, stick to routine.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Avoid extremes. There's a tendency now to make mountains of molehills, to lose control of temper, emotions generally. Forewarned is forearmed!

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Be careful in handling personal affairs; there may be some tricky areas, some kinks to iron out before taking action. Some conflict of interests indicated.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

A fine project begun recently will bog down unless you keep it in mind, mull over details, plan a tighter fitting of its "jigsaw" pieces.

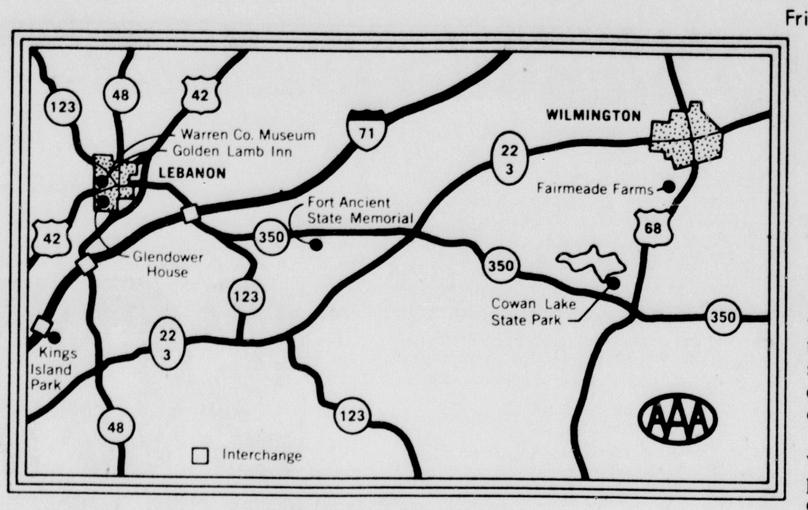
AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Do not let the unfamiliar keep you from accepting it on that basis alone. Where you carefully check for flaws and find none, invite the innovation.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your artistry and creativity stimulated. A time to "dress up" old ideas and methods and make them more practical.

YOU BORN TODAY are a combination of the tenacious and persuasive, the affectionate and the obstinate; are hard-working and practical, but also genial and sociable. You lack confidence in yourself at times, however, and are inclined to worry. Once you shed fears and doubts, you can forge ahead with unusual success. You are innately reserved and dignified but, on the other hand, are always ready to discard the ordinary bounds and limitations of prescribed codes and make your own — may be downright unconventional, in fact. Fields in which you could especially excel: medicine, teaching, writing, acting, business.



Let's tour Ohio

Kings Island Popular

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by the Fayette County Automobile Club for The Record-Herald.

Southwestern Ohio offers much in the way of entertainment and relaxation for the weekend or one day tourist and is the suggested AAA tour this week.

One of the big attractions is the new Kings Island amusement park, now in its second year and located off I-71 at the Kings Mills exit near Cincinnati. It will be open through Labor Day.

Recreation facilities include boating, swimming, golf, a playground area for the kiddies and an indoor game room in the main lodge.

This amusement center features five themed areas. Oktoberfest casts a German Flavor, while Rivertown takes you back to an Ohio River town of the mid 1800's.

LONG a famous gathering place in Lebanon is the Golden Lamb Inn. It's Ohio's oldest, dating back to 1803, the year Ohio was admitted to the Union and today is more popularly known for its fine restaurant.

Situated on the old stagecoach route between Cincinnati and Dayton, the Inn has served such distinguished guests as author Charles Dickens, statesman Henry Clay and 10 U.S. Presidents from William Henry Harrison to William Howard Taft.

Glendower Memorial, built in the first half of the 1800's, is an outstanding example of Greek Revival architecture. This Lebanon mansion reflects Ohio homelife of the 19th Century. It is furnished with personal and household items from more than 400 pioneer families in the community.

Other area attractions include the Warren County Museum, Cowan Lake State Park, and Fairmeads-Green Acres Farm, where standard bred horses are raised.

The AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Washington C.H. take I-71 south, continuing to the Lebanon exit (Rt. 123). Return to I-71 and go south to the Kings Mills exit for Kings Island. Return by I-71 north to Rt. 350 exit. Go east on this route to Cuba and north on Rt. U.S. 68 back to I-71. Continue north back to Washington C.H.

4-H Round-up

'I'm Ok, You're OK' is theme of program

By JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Last week's Ohio 4-H Club Congress was a worthwhile event, and one that the delegates should remember for some time. I was priviledged to serve on the staff at Congress and enjoyed every moment.

The Theme "I'm OK - You're OK" was carried in all activities and provided delegates many excellent experiences. Kirby Brumfield, KATO-TV personality and former 4-H'er from Portland, Ore., headlined the event with his multi-media presentation "Child of the Universe." He related through film, slides, liquid light and speech the problems and opportunities in life.

After an exciting day of recreation and job tours we visited the State House for a mock legislative session on the Equal Rights Amendment. In addition to learning about the legislative process and listening to Ohio Gov. John Gilligan, the delegates toured downtown Columbus on their own. Delegates took in the sights and attractions of Columbus including German Village, the Center of Science and Industry, the State House, the Art Gallery, the stores, and seeing the bustling city in action.

Fayette County's own Anne Craig Droste added music to the program as song leader. The delegates were awed at the Ohio State University Diving Show and listened carefully as Woody Hayes spoke to them on drugs, citizenship and the importance of strong family ties.

The final night was a sight to behold as the delegates in all their finery were feted at a banquet and concert by the Columbus Youth Symphony. Donald Jansen, director of the Community Contact Program for deliquent boys, provided the caption for the conference. His talk "I'm OK - You're OK" stirred the delegates as he related the effects of showing another that he's "OK".

An impressive candlelighting ceremony at Ohio State University's Mirror Lake provided the final activity of the event, giving the delegates a moment to ponder the events and new found friendship of the Congress.

The delegates from Fayette County were selected from the Junior Leadership Club on the basis of their National Report Form. They included Sandy McCoy, Bill Schaefer, Bret Taylor, Jomi Warner, Reggie Roush, Cindy Davis, Kim Fleming and John Pendleton.

4-H'ers need to keep in mind that the deadline for applications to Junior 4-H Camp is Friday, June 22. We still have room for several campers. It promises to be an exciting, fun filled week for 4-H'ers who have just finished the 5th, 6th, 7th or 8th grade.

Trading by institutions comes under study

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost nobody denies any more that the big institution have created serious problems for the stock markets. One of them is to scare the wits out of small stockholders and send them scurrying for cover.

Instinct tells the little investor that he risks serious injury participating in the sporting events of the elephant without first insisting that a spirit of civilized restraint and equality be agreed upon.

So he has been popping up now and then, but only to watch the behemoths—some with assets of a billion dollars or more—knocking prices about like a ball.

There is a lot more to the institutional problem, of course. One particular negative is the tendency of these funds and trusts and insurers to concentrate on certain companies, ignoring the shares of others and leaving them fearing their ability to raise capital.

But any solution must have a beginning, and Paul Kolton, American Stock Exchange president, has been telling congressmen and regulatory officials and institution managers that they must institute rules of civilized competition.

During the past month he has repeatedly urged steps in four areas, avoiding the specifics so as not to distract from the principles involved, but insisting that his ideas are not just suggestions but proposals for action.

TRADING: Institutions must develop guidelines for trading, because the demands they make on markets are often greater than the markets can supply.

For example, when an institution has spent months acquiring a large position, is it reasonable to expect the public, the specialists or other block traders to absorb the entire position in a few minutes or hours?

That's where the big price swings often occur. And so Kolton suggests that the institutions consider limiting themselves to disposal of only a certain amount of stock within a specified time period.

VALUING PORTFOLIOS: In sympathy with commissions in some other sports, Kolton is advising some of the players to take a haircut. By this he means that institutions should consider trimming the stated value of their holdings.

Very often the holder of 200,000 shares in a company prices them at market value, at the same price per share you see in the newspaper, even though it is unlikely they could dispose of such large holdings at these prices.

Kolton suggests, in the interests of reality, that institutions adopt measures similar to those used by exchange examiners when they study the financial condition of member firms.

"When our examiners look at our own firms," Kolton said, "they might decide that if the firm had to sell a big block held in its own name they would get less than market value.

"In that case, a $50 stock might be assigned a hypothetical value of $45 or $40. And if it is an over-the-counter stock, where the market is apt to be less liquid, the price could be even lower."

Wouldn't it make sense, he asks, for institutions also to take haircuts based on a criteria that includes the amount of stock in relation to shares outstanding, the amount of public trading, and holdings by other institutions?

DISCLOSURE: Some institutions, mainly mutual funds, currently make public their portfolios. If other institutions were to act similarly, this fact alone might make them more concerned about the way they use the markets.

USE OF INFORMATION: Institutional investors might consider establishing clear guidelines, publicly articulated, concerning their handling of corporate information for trading purposes.

Such guidelines, relating to the kind of nonpublic material information that might be used as a basis for trading, would go a long way toward convincing the individual investors that he can achieve a fair shake in the market.

Kolton hopes to obtain voluntary action. "When you can get voluntary agreement instead of government action it is more effective and efficient."

But if that isn't forthcoming he suggests that the Securities and Exchange Commission act, "and if it is not in their ambit, then Congress should act."

Second death linked to nasal spray abuse

The death of a 5-year-old Cleveland girl has been linked to a widely distributed medicated vapor spray which was also blamed for the death of Karen Peyton, 17, of 427 W. Elm St., in May.

According to Associated Press, the death of Marcia Overfield who died Apr. 18, was blamed on "cardiorespiratory arrest following inhalation of Pertussin Night-Time Medicated Vaporizer."

The death has prompted a full acale Food and Drug Administration on nasal sprays. The FDA said that "at least eight deaths show clear evidence of abuse such as spraying the drug into a bag from which it was deliberately inhaled."

The spray is the same compound which was linked directly to the death of Miss Peyton on May 24. Police Chief Rodman Scott said she had been inhaling the spray through a flashlight stuffed with tissue.

The manufacturer of the product, Cheseborough Ponds Inc., of Greenwich, Conn., said that in 12 years of marketing Pertussin Medicated Vaporizer, the Cleveland girl "appears to be the first death through accidental misuse."

They suggested that the girl died after abuse of the product.

Girls Staters discuss women, state's courts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Panel discussions on Ohio courts and the status of women were scheduled today at Girls State at Capital University.

Judges Alba L. Whiteside of the Franklin County District Court of Appeals and Bruce Jenkins of Franklin County Municipal Court were to discuss operation of courts in the state.

State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey, State Rep. Ethel Swanbeck of Huron and Supt. Martha Wheeler of the Marysville Reformatory for Women planned to focus on the status of women in state government.

Girls State is a week-long program conducted by the American Legion Auxiliary to give Ohio high school students experience in operating a mock government. The program for 1,500 girls will end Saturday night.

Cherryl A. Krieger, 186 Eastview Dr., has been appointed to the legislative commission of the House of Representatives at the 27th annual session of Buckeye Girls' State being held at Capital University, Columbus.

Other Fayette County girls attending the event are: Cynthia Lu Fields, 332 N. Hinde St.; Kim Gail Fleming, Rt. 5, Washington C. H.; Marianne Arnold, 832 Knollwood Circle, and Mary Jo Thornton, Rt. 4, Washington C. H.

Physician speaks to TOPS group

His subject was "Obesity and Related Problems", as he stressed that exercising is essential to good health, combined with a balanced diet, and variety in foods served, along with calorie restrictions.

He urged his listeners not to overfeed their children and explained the dangers and side effects of fad dieting, urging a doctor's supervision for safe dieting. His closing admonition was "No matter how old you are, obesity is not befitting."

Mrs. Beryl Smith conducted the meeting, with Mrs. Robert Alkire in charge of weigh-ins. Miss Betty McNeil was the week's best loser and queen. Mrs. Smith said eight members plan to attend the International Recognition Day Convention in Milwaukee, Wis. next week.

Mrs. Robert Satchell introduced the speaker.

Masons to attend services Sunday

Members of Fayette Lodge No. 107, F&AM, will attend morning worship services at the First Presbyterian Church in a body Sunday as an observance of St. John's Day.

All Masons are asked to meet at the church at 10 a.m., according to Lester L. Bower, master of the lodge. The service will begin at 10:15.

St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist are patron saints of Masonry.

Soviet police grab 12 Jewish activists

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet police have rounded up 12 more Jewish activists, Jewish sources reported.

They were held several hours Wednesday and then released.

It was the fifth time in recent days that some of the Jews had been picked up, apparently because Soviet authorities fear embarrassing demonstrations during Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's summit talks in Washington.

Plan visitor center

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill to authorize appropriation of $8,680,00 for converion of Union Station in Washington into a National Visitor Center.

High water closes Deer Creek beach

High waters at Deer Creek Reservoir have forced the closing of the park beach and made boating very dangerous.

The Ohio Department of Natural resources has warned that persons with boats docked on Deer Creek to protect their craft from the flooding that is imminent. The departments said owners should either remove their craft from the reservoir or make sure boats are properly tied.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has begun to close the floodgates on the reservoir to prevent flooding downstream. The reservoir was reported to be 6½ feet over the normal level Friday morning and is still rising.

A spokesman for the Corps said it will not be known exactly how long the flood gates will be closed until word is received from Huntington Corps of Engineers headquarters.

The beach will be closed through the weekend.

Watergate coverage set

NEW YORK — The CBS, ABC and NBC television networks all will carry live coverage Monday of former White House counsel John Dean's appearance before the Senate Watergate committee, the networks said today.

Good Hope Lions Club installs new officers

The new officers are: Jack Alkire, president; Howard Barney, first vice president; John Noble, second vice president; Joe Barton, third vice president; Dean Yahn, secretary-treasurer; Nelson Whaley, assistant secretary-treasurer; Orville Weidinger, Lion tamer; Earl Rea, tail twister, and Ora Fitzpatrick, assistant tail twister.

Directors are John Ely and Harold Gorman, two years, and John Grice, one year. Raymond Bishop will again serve as zone chairman. The officers and directors were installed by John Reese, past district governor.

Noble reported that the chicken barbecue held at the fairgrounds appears to be successful. A complete report will not be made until the board meeting on Monday.

President R. B. McCoy reviewed the events which occurred during his term of office and reported that the club will be represented at the national convention to be held at Miami Beach, Fla., June 27 through 30.

Mark King, program chairman, gave a report on an article which appeared in the Lions Magazine. Guests at the meeting were Reese and Albert Watson of Jamestown.

The dinner was prepared and served by the youth group of the Good Hope United Methodist Church.

Fayette County's tax collection record among best in Ohio

Fayette County ranks 77th in the state in tax delinquencies for 1972, according to figures compiled by the Ohio Public Expenditures Council.

Delinquencies total $122,563 in Fayette County, up $18,226 or 17.5 per cent from 1971. The amount of delinquency per capita in the county is $4.81.

Only 11 counties have a better record of tax payments.

Real estate and public utility taxes, $55,562 for 1972, and $31,236 for former years; tangible personal property taxes, $6,391 for 1972, and $21,065 for former years; intangible personal property taxes, $570; special assessments, $7,740.

The Council points out that delinquent taxes and special assessments on real and public utility property become prior liens on the property taxes. Such taxes, except where they have been permitted to accumulate to the place where the delinquency exceeds the sale value of the property, may be collected.

Delinquent taxes on tangible and intangible personal property are more difficult to collect, according to the Council. They do not become a prior lien on the property taxed.

The Council also points out that a portion of the delinquencies may have been collected since final tax settlements in 1972.

"Once tax levies or assessments have been imposed, failure to collect them can result in financial difficulties within the various taxing units," said Charles A. Calhoun, executive director of the Council.

"Subsequently this can lead to deficit financing or the imposition of higher levies in the future to offset the tax delinquencies and continue the necessary services of schools and local governments in Ohio," Calhoun said.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

By SYD KRONISH

American poet Robinson Jeffers will be honored on a new 8-cent stamp in the American Arts Series on Aug. 13. First day ceremonies will be in his home town, Carmel, Calif., where he wrote many of his poems and where he died in 1962.

The American Arts Series this year consists of four stamps. Previously issued were adhesives in tribute to composer George Gershwin and novelist Willa Cather. After the Jeffers stamp there will be one for artist Henry Ossawa Tanner.

This new U.S. item will feature a large profile portrait of Jeffers at the right. The left side shows three inhabitants of the Carmel area and a burro. His name, in large letters, appears beneath the main design. Across the top is "U.S. 8 cents American Poet."

Jeffers was born in Pittsburgh in 1887, the son of a theology teacher. A profound influence on his poetry was the California coast, near Carmel, where he built a house and a tower.

Collectors desiring first day cancellation may address requests to "Jeffers Stamp, Postmaster, Carmel, Calif. 93921." Enclose the proper remittance (in money order or certified check) and send prior to Aug. 13.

THE U.S. Postal Service says that its 1973 Mini-Album will contain the same number of commemorative and special issue stamps as last year plus two memorial stamps. It will be available late this year for the same price of $3.

The Mini-Album souvenir mint set will include all of the year's special stamps and commemoratives, including the complete Postal People issue.

The album will contain 33 stamps plus a colorful folder which provides acetate mounting strips and brief background information on each stamp.

The 1973 album will be available in most post offices. We will notify you as soon as the release date is provided.

Collectors can still get the 1971 and 1972 mini-albums at $3 each, plus 50c per order for handling charge, directly from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C. 20036.

CACHET COLLECTORS can purchase the few remaining covers from Stamp Expo '73. Each of the three standard size covers in the set carry the gold and silver foil United Nations Officials First Day of Issue cachet with embossed rendition of the U.N. headquarters.

The covers also have a different U.S. Postal Service Stamp Expo pictorial cancellation on appropriate U.S. stamps commemorating different U.S. anniversaires — the 50th anniversary of the first non-stop coast-to-coast flight, 100th anniversary of the first U.S. post card, and the 200th anniversary of the Boston Tea Party.

The complete set of three covers costs $4.95 and can be obtained from World Wide Cachet Covers, P.O. Box 46695, Los Angeles, Calif. 90046.

THE Republic of Indonesia will issue three new stamps in its annual "Salute to Tourism." The subjects on the stamps are ceremonial masks from Java, Kalimanta and Bali. These adhesives will be available at your local stamp dealer.

Fair, mild weather seen over nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and mild weather held sway over most of the nation early today, marred only by thundershowers on the Gulf and East coasts and a heat wave in Southern California.

The heaviest storm activity Thursday occurred in the Atlantic states. Thunderstorms dampened the Gulf Coast and a few thundershowers sprinkled the Pacific Northwest and Midwest.

A tornado was sighted in east-central Georgia, but there were no reports of injuries.

Locally heavy rains caused flash flooding in New England and rock slides and washed out roads in Maine and Vermont.

The mercury hit a high of 105 in Los Angeles Thursday, topping the previous record of 98 for June 21 set in 1929.

For the first time in four years, the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District issued a first-stage smog alert when the ozone count reached .50 parts per million downtown. The ozone reading peaked at .57 p.p.m.

Some other reports: Anchorage 63 cloudy, Atlanta 69 partly cloudy, Boston 70 cloudy, Buffalo 62 clear, Chicago 64 clear, Cincinnati 64 partly cloudy, Cleveland 67 cloudy, Dallas 75 partly cloudy, Denver 56 clear, Detroit 62 partly cloudy, Honolulu 78 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 65 partly cloudy, Kansas City 63 clear, Los Angeles 66 clear, Louisville 66 clear, Miami 77 cloudy, MinneapolisSt. Paul 52 clear, Nashville 68 partly cloudy, New York 70 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 73 partly cloudy, Phoenix 83 clear, Pittsburgh 65 partly cloudy, St. Louis 64 clear, San Francisco 53 clear, Seattle 69 clear, Washington 73 partly cloudy.

Dogs disdain morning nip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dogs sometimes get drunk in laboratory studies of alcoholism, but they disdain the "hair of the dog" hangover remedy of humans, a doctor reported Wednesday.

Dr. Donald W. Goodwin of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, said so in declaring that there appears to be no known surefire "animal model for alcoholism as it occurs in man."

He told a government-sponsored conference on alcoholism:

"It is rare...for rodents to drink spontaneously to intoxication, whereas in dogs studied in our laboratory this occurs at least occasionally.

"After several days of 'heavy' drinking, however, dogs spontaneously stop drinking and, despite what appear to be mild withdrawal symptoms or 'hangover,' the dogs do not continue drinking to relieve their presumed distress.

"They avoid, in short, the 'hair of the dog' remedy for hangover..."

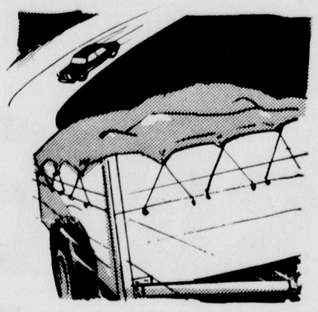
THE FAMILY LAWYER

Runaway Trailer

To move some household goods to the country, Watson hitched up his trailer and set out along the highway. But as he was climbing a hill the trailer broke loose, veered across the center line, and slammed into a car coming the other way.

The other driver was seriously injured, an in due course brought suit for damages. At the trial, Watson insisted that he was not to blame because "it all happened so suddenly."

But the evidence showed that the trailer hitch had a faulty weld, and that the defect had been plainly visible before the accident. Result: Watson was held liable.



Anyone who undertakes to haul a trailer on the public roads must also undertake reasonable precautions. He must exercise a degree of care commensurate with the size and speed of this extra vehicle.

EVEN IF a trailer does not actually break loose, it may still be dangerous because of swaying. Another driver incurred liability because his trailer, swinging from side to side, knocked down a woman walking on the shoulder of the highway.

On the other hand, not every injury inflicted by a trailer is the driver's fault. Consider another case in which a runaway trailer caused a collision. This time, the trailer came loose as a result of the shearing off of a pin in the hitching mechanism.

Accordingly, a court refused to make him pay damages.

"The collision," said the judge, "was the result of an unavoidable accident."

Extension sought on sulfur oxide rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's environmental chief spent Thursday trying to get federal officials to extend the state's deadline for meeting regulations on sulfur oxide emissions.

Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, asked that the deadline be changed from July 1, 1975, to July 1, 1977.

He said, "Some plants in Ohio can meet the original 1975 deadline, but we are concerned with the ones that may not be able to meet the regulations by that time."

There was no immediate word on what action the federal environmental officials would take on the request.

First Holiday Inn sold-aged 21 years

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Holiday Inn that was the granddaddy of them all has been sold, according to an announcement from the giant Memphis corporation.

The inn, which opened on the city's east side in 1952, was the first in the Holiday Inn chain, now the world's largest.

Even boaters on Lake Erie may find gasoline is short

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Marina owners along Lake Erie say weather and high water are bigger problems than lack of fuel.

But many of them expect fuel supply problems and price increases later.

Shell Oil Co. is allotting 100 per cent of last year's gasoline sales, but Van Snider, manager of Boat Harbor Marina in Sandusky, says "last year was a bad year since it was so wet."

"If good weather breaks this year, we may run out," Snider says.

Many dealers are anticipating fuel problems if the weather improves. Gary Ontko, store manager at Cedar Point Marina, said that Gulf Oil Co. is allotting fuel according to last year's purchases plus a small increase.

Ontko says that "we have no gas problems because many people just aren't boating yet and may not boat all year."

Andy Dietrich, owner of Vacationland Marina in Sandusky, says he hasn't been affected "as yet." He is also being rationed but says the extreme high water has kept the marina from exceeding its supply limit.

Many pumps have been ruined in floods or knocked out by storms, and several marinas have closed in the Port Clinton and Sandusky areas.

BUBBLING OVER — Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has some trouble with his champagne as he and President Nixon drank toasts following signings of Soviet-U.S. agreements at the State Department in Washington.

All found dead in Mexican crash

They all lay in a tropical rain forest among the smoldering wreckage of an Aeromexico DC9 that smashed into a mountainside only about two minutes before it was to land at this Pacific coast resort Wednesday night. All 27 persons aboard died, including 11 believed to be Americans.

The pilot apparently pulled the nose of the plane up when he was about to crash, causing the tail section to hit first. The plane then appeared to have been carried a short distance up the mountain by the momentum. Most of the bodies were on the uphill end of the wreckage.

Capt. Augusto Ramirez Altamirano, a regional inspection chief for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, said the plane was too far south and not within the approach pattern for an instrument landing. Its 2,000 to 2,200-foot altitude was correct for where it should have been, he added.

At the time of the crash there was a heavy cloud cover at about 1,000 feet.

Rescuers also found the aircraft's flight recorder, which will reveal to investigators the plane's last moves and position when the crash occurred. But Ramirez Altamirano said it will have to be analyzed before any conclusion can be drawn about possible causes of the disaster.

The plane left Houston, Tex., earlier in the day and stopped in Monterrey, where foreign passengers went through Mexican immigration and customs. It was scheduled to fly from Puerto Vallarta to Acapulco and Mexico City.

Rescuers started their trek to the crash scene with a boat trip to Chimo. No roads connect the village with the outside world and it has no electricity, telephones or streets. From Chimo to the wreckage, about 2,200 feet above sea level and about two miles inland, they wound their way, many on hands and knees, up and around mountains and through steamy jungles for 2½ hours.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Tentative agreement was reached early today on a new contract between the strikebound Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers.

The new, three-year agreement, which covers nearly 18,000 Firestone workers in 13 plants around the country, was announced jointly by URW International President Peter Bommarito and Joseph V. Cairns, vice president of labor relations for Firestone.

Wage terms of the new settlement were not disclosed, although the two sides did reveal terms of a pension program, which reportedly was a major issue in negotiations.

The new agreement would allow Firestone workers retiring at age 55 with 30 years or more of service to receive an unreduced early pension. The pension changes are retroactive to April 20, when the old contract expired.

Reiber hurls four-hitter

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

A dramatic three-run homer from Paul England cinched a hard-fought 6-3 win for Washington C H.'s Post 25 American Legion baseball team in an extra-inning struggle with always-tough Miamisburg Thursday night at Beachler Field.

England, the sweet-hitting catcher who has now hit safely in all five of Post 25's games, poked the three-run blow deep to leftfield in the top of the ninth inning to erase a 3-3 extra-inning deadlock.

England's homer, which came after two were out in the ninth inning, lifted Washington C. H. to its second consecutive win of the season.

Reiber picked up the second straight complete game for Post 25's pitching staff as he hurled nine innings, scattering a meager four hits. Miamisburg touched Reiber for three runs after four innings, but the big righthander stiffened and did not allow a hit following the fifth inning. A second inning two-run homer by Tom Critzer got Reiber off to a rocky start while the other Miamisburg run was unearned.

The Post 25 twirler, who fanned a total of 11 Miamisburg hitters, retired 13 of the last 14 men he faced.

England keyed Post 25's eight-hit attack with three hits in five trips and four runs-batted-in. The husky catcher from Circleville cracked the winning home run, a double and a single to raise his season average to a sizzling .526 level. Hard-hitting Randy Rodgers contributed a pair of doubles and first-sacker Alan Coppock clubbed a triple, extending his hitting streak to four consecutive games.

Randy Ney, a curve-balling southpaw, worked four and one-third inning before Washington C. H. got to him for three runs in the fifth inning to knot the score and eventually send the game into extra innings.

Ney fanned eight hitters before being relieved by righthander Dan Ballard, who absorbed the pitching setback for Miamisburg, now 8-2 on the season. Haggard stymied the Post 25 batters as he whiffed seven of the first nine men he faced and wound up with a total of 11 strikeouts.

Ballard hurled three and two-thirds innings of hitless baseball, allowing only two runners to reach the basepaths, one via a walk and the other after being struck by a pitched ball, before Post 25's late comeback.

BACK-TO-BACK singles by Steve Haines and Scott Riddle in the ninth inning set the stage for England's game-winning hit after two outs.

The single by Riddle gave the former Westfall star at least one hit in all five of Washington C. H.'s games.

Post 25, now 2-3 on the season, will entertain Columbus Whitehall in a non-league contest tonight at the Washington Senior High School diamond. Manager Dennis Morris is expected to send Mark Johnson (0-1) or Jeff Green (0-0) to the mound for Post 25. Washington C. H. will travel to Cincinnati Bentley Saturday and to Chillicothe Post 757 Sunday.

Giants stagger Cincy, 7-1

Bradley snaps Frisco skid

"We have a lot of good arms—we just need consistency," said Bradley following a four-hit, eight-strikeout performance against the Reds Thursday, his 7-1 victory ending a four-game Giants' losing streak.

"Our pitching has been bad the last couple of weeks except for Ron Bryant," Bradley added. "But we know we're going to get runs, so all we have to do is hold the other club to three or four and we'll win a lot of games."

That's the chore awaiting Jim Barr tonight when he takes on Don Wilson in the opener of a four-game series with the Houston Astros. Following a single game Saturday, the series concludes with a Sunday doubleheader.

"I think we'll be in good shape—I hope a game like this picks me up," offered Bradley, who registered the Giants' first complete game since June 4, when he went the distance in stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-2.

"Bradley can be a super pitcher if he keeps the ball low—that's all there is to it," Manager Charlie Fox said. "His curve breaks so well, he can afford to make mistakes with it. But when that fast ball gets up, he's in trouble."

Thursday Bradley was the master. After Dave Concepcion belted his eighth homer, leading off the third, the Reds didn't collect their second hit until Tony Perez singled with one out in the seventh.

The Giants, meanwhile, jumped an old 'nemesis Jack Billingham, 9-4, for the tying run in the fourth, before erupting for six runs in the fifth. Billingham entered the game with a 7-2 career record against San Francisco.

Garry Maddox, snapping an 0-to-16 slump, singled with one out in the fourth and scored on Ed Goodson's double, following an intentional walk to Willie McCovey.

Bradley, now 6-5, triggered the winning rally with a one-out double in the fifth. Maddox contributed a two-run double to the inning, Goodson and Chris Speier, each cracked run-scoring doubles, and Gary Matthews added a two-run single.

"Our hitting has never worried me," said Fox. "That's why Bradley's complete game is the big game. In this league, if you get seven good innings from a pitcher, you're in good shape. Tom was super."

See the Oakland A's run.
See Bill North run.
See umpire Merle Anthony call Bert and Bill out.

See Oakland lose to the Chicago White Sox 2-0 despite 12 hits off Stan Bahnsen, two shy of the most hits ever allowed in a nine-inning shutout.

The A's base-running misadventures began right off the bat. Campaneris opened the game with a double but was trapped and run down at third on North's bunt back to the mound. North reached second on the play but he couldn't stand prosperity, either, and was thrown out by catcher Ed Herrmann trying to steal third.

Meanwhile, the White Sox, who had never beaten Ken Holtzman, broke through the Oakland southpaw for both their runs in the fifth inning on doubles by Herrmann and Jeter and Carlos May's single.

The victory enabled the White Sox to retain their halfgame lead over Minnesota in the AL West.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Minnesota Twins edge the California Angels 1-0, the New York Yankees trimmed the Detroit Tigers 5-1 in a rain-shortened six-inning contest, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Boston Red Sox 6-3 and the Cleveland Indians whacked the Milwaukee Brewers 9-1. Kansas City and Texas were not scheduled.

Pinch hitter Joe Lis bounced a run-scoring single up the middle with two out in the ninth to back Bert Blyleven's eight-hit pitching and give the Twins their win over California. Bobby Darwin, who singled off Clyde Wright with one out and stole second, scored the winning run.

Thurman Munson and Felipe Alou tagged Detroit ace Mickey Lolich for two-run homers, helping the Yankees defeat the Tigers. It was the fourth straight victory for the Yankees, leaders in the East.

Pat Dobson spaced five hits to earn the victory, his second in three decisions since being acquired from Atlanta. The only Detroit run came on Norm Cash's second-inning homer, the first by a Tiger player in Yankee Stadium since Sept. 4, 1971.

Paul Blair drove in three runs with a homer and single, leading the Orioles over the Red Sox. Blair drilled a two-run homer in the first inning off Luis Tiant and added an RBI-single in the third.

George Hendrick crashed a two-run homer, his 10th in 14 games and fifth in 10 times at bat, and Buddy Bell and John Ellis added solo shots to lead the Indians over the Brewers.

Willis, Girtons post hard-fought BR wins

Coach Jeff Blake's Willis Insurance team managed only three hits in scoring a 4-1 win over Bloomingburg on the losers diamond, while Girtons nipped Sabina 5-4 in a nine-inning struggle at Roszmann Field.

THE WIN was Willis Insurance's fifth in six outings and kept them atop the Babe Ruth League standings while Girtons are only one game off the pace as they notched their fourth win in five starts.

David Van Dyke picked up his third straight pitching victory for Willis Insurance as he gave up one run on four hits and fanned nine batters. Van Dyke locked horns with Darling in a fierce pitching duel. Darling was touched for four runs and three hits and also fanned nine hitters.

Rex Coe, Mark Heiny and David Stackhouse all singled in Willis' three-hit attack and Coe handled five chances at shortstop without an error.

Van Dyke loaded the bases in the sixth inning with one out, but pitched his way out of the jam without giving up a run. Willis took advantage of four walks and five stolen bases to put runners in scoring position in the first third and fifth innings.

Bloomingburg, which got doubles from Alan Fleming and Alan Conner, scored its only run in the first inning.

The minor league game between Willis and Bloomingburg was postponed so the diamond could be readied for the major league game.

Sabina came up with three runs in the top of the seventh inning to erase a 4-1 Girton advantage and send that contest into extra innings.

GIRTONS squeezed past the Clinton Countians in the ninth inning when with two outs, Jeff Elliott walked, advanced to third on a single by Jack James and scored on a single by Ted Mercer.

Howard Boggs, who suffered the pitching setback after fanning a total of 17 batters, slammed a solo home run in the fourth inning for Sabina and also had a double and a single.

James worked eight innings, whiffing 15 Sabina batters before he was relieved by Elliott who picked up the win. Mercer had a single and double for the Girtons and James contributed a pair of hits.

West authors no-hit gem for Lumberjacks

Wilson's Lumberjacks, behind the no-hit pitching performance of West, blanked the Washington Savings Bank Charge-A-Checks 4-0 in Little League Majors action Thursday night at Wilson Field.

West, in tossing the no-hit masterpiece, whiffed a total of 15 Charge-A-Check batters as the Lumberjacks raised their season record to a nifty 7-1 level and stay atop the LL Major heap.

In other action at Wilson Field, the Coca Cola Jets rode the one-hit pitching job of Cobb and Lee to a 3-0 victory over the Record-Herald Flashes.

IN MINOR league play at Armbrust Field, the Elks nudged the Eagles in a 13-10 struggle while Bumgarners routed Roller Haven by a 15-1 count.

The Lumberjacks garnered only four hits in their contest with the Savings Bank, but those proved to be enough for four runs. Bath belted a double, while Dunn, Shields and Wilson all contributed singles. Brickles was the losing pitcher, giving up only four hits and fanning six batters.

While Cobb and Lee combined to hurl a nifty one-hitter, Huffman sparked a five-hit attack for the Jets with a double and a single. Mickle provided plenty of support in the winners' attack with a pair of singles. Johnson managed the only hit off the two Jet pitchers, while Ingram and Porterfield shared the mound duties for the Flashes.

Miller still torrid, captures Akron lead

The lanky blond had just put together a three-under-par 67— including a hole in one—for his first competitive round since he won the United States Open Golf championship with a record 63 last Sunday.

Miller's 67 on the long, tough Firestone Country Club course Thursday gave him a share of the first round lead in the prestige-laden American Golf Classic.

"It was an easy 67," Miller said. "I've been getting the absolute most possible out of my rounds. This one wasn't like that. I feel like it could have been a lot better."

He was tied with 23-year-old Forrest Fezler, an on-rushing tour sophomore, who also clipped three strokes off par on the lush 7,180 yards of the Firestone layout.

Jack Nicklaus, who has collected a leading $190,000 and four titles already this season, topped a big group at 69. He reeled off one string of three consecutive birdies but dropped back with a bogey from a bunker on the final hole.

"That's not a bad opening round for me here," said Nicklaus. "I usually start off with 74 or 75. I played pretty well, but I'd feel better about it if I hadn't made that bogey on 18."

Bruce Crampton of Australia, winner of three titles this year, matched par 70 but streaking Tom Weiskopf took a far 74 and was well back in the field. Lee Trevino is not playing.

Secretariat will race at Arlington

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat, "the horse of the people" as jockey Ron Turcotte called him after the Belmont Stakes, will race at Arlington Park June 30 because trainer Lucien Laurin and owner Helen Tweedy agree with Turcotte.

"We want the public to see him," Laurin said Thursday of the decision to send the first Triple Crown champion in 25 years to Chicago for a threehorse match race.

The opposition for the 1⅛ race will be Our Native, third to Secretariat in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and probably Blue Chip Dan, and the purse will be $125,000, with $75,000 to the winner, $30,000 for second and $20,000 for third.

But Laurin emphasized the chance for more people, and people from a another section of the nation, to see Secretariat before he goes to stud later this year was the overriding reason for going to Arlington Park.

Secretariat is scheduled to leave for Chicago next Thursday.

Irish coach Frank Leahy dies at 65

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Leahy never wanted to be compared to his predecessor Knute Rockne. "They'll never be another Rockne," said Leahy who died in Portland Thursday at the age of 65.

But in memory, that's where he ended up, just a short step down from the Notre Dame football immortal of the late 1920s and 1930s.

"No question about it, he was quite a guy," said Red Blaik, former Army coach whose Army team battled Leahy's Irish to a scoreless tie in 1946. "He was one of the great coaches of the last 25-30 years. He was a fundamentalist in the finest order.

"He had a rapport with the men that is hardly describeable. They looked on him both as a great coach and as a character."

Leahy's 17-hour-a-day dedication to football gave him a record which fell only slightly short of Rockne's. He had a career mark of 107-13-9 as head coach at Boston College, and then at Notre Dame from 1941 through 1953. That's an .883 percentage, barely below Rockne's .897.

"Everyone here at Notre Dame and thousands of Frank Leahy's friends, teammates and players mourn his passing. We have all suffered a personal loss," said longtime Notre Dame athletic director Edward "Moose" Krause. "We all cherish his dedication, friendship and his love for Notre Dame."

NFL players eye problems

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of the National Football League Players Association begin today to tackle a myriad of problems including the possibility of an owner-endorsed urine analysis as a deterrent against drug abuse.

Twenty-six player representatives plus the association's executive committee open a three-day meeting to discuss, among other things, the installation of artificial turf, the NFL player contract which expires next year and the drug program pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle is to present to the owners Monday.

Rozelle is scheduled to appear at the meeting Saturday morning to explain the owners position on collective bargain demands of players and answer questions about the drug program he is to recommend.

A congressional committee recommended a month ago that the NFL institute a program to have the players undergo urine analyses to determine if they having been using drugs illegally.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, has called absolutely outrageous the suggestion that the players undergo a urine test.

Stumbling Mets reflect old days

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when the New York Mets used to be lovable, laughable losers?

They brought back the "good, old days" to Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Thursday night.

The Mets, who found a number of bizarre ways to lose baseball games in the early years of their existence, found another way while losing to the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

With the score tied 1-1, the Pirates had the bases loaded with nobody out when Bob Robertson hit a ground ball to second baseman Felix Millan. Are you ready, now?

Millan threw home to force Gene Clines and then New York catcher Duffy Dyer tried to complete a double play to first. But—wait a minute—the throw went into right field. It gets more complicated, so pay attention.

Right fielder Rusty Staub, playing in close, saved a wild throw and fired the ball to second base to nip Al Oliver, who was trying to duck back to second after over-running the bag.

By this time, Dave Cash, who started the inning on second base, had rounded third and came home with the winning run. Got that? In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Montreal Expos 4-3; the San Francisco Giants downed the Cincinnati Reds 71; the Houston Astros routed the San Diego Padres 12-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Atlanta Braves 5-0.

Bob Gibson scattered eight hits and slugged his 23rd career home run to lead St.Louis over Montreal. Gibson's homer gave the Cardinals a 4-0 lead and their eventual winning run.

Tom Bradley pitched a fourhitter and ignited a six-run rally in the fifth inning with a double to pace San Francisco over Cincinnati. The triumph snapped a four-game losing streak for the Giants, who had lost nine of their last 11 games to fall behind Los Angeles in the National League West.

Lee May slugged three home runs and drove in five runs to power Houston over San Diego.

Dave Winfield, the Padres' rookie sensation fresh out of college, collected three hits, including a bases-empty homer in the fifth. Winfield, a student at the University of Minnesota just a couple of weeks ago, was San Diego's No. 1 pick in the recent free agent draft.

Slo-pitch tourney attracts 18 teams

An open slo-pitch tournament, sponsored by the Fayette County Softball Association, has attracted 18 top teams for a two-day stand at Washington C. H.'s Eyman Park.

Don Fowler, president of the Fayette County Softball Association and tournament director, said the tourney will be the first played in Washington C. H. using the new restricted flight softball.

The ASA-sanctioned tournament will open at 10 a.m. Saturday with a hefty 10-game schedule and continue until Sunday night.

THE 18-TEAM field includes Dubois Chemical Co., of Columbus, the defending Class A state slo-pitch champions. Teams from Xenia, Springfield, Newark, Circleville, Chillicothe, Hillsboro and Russell, Ky. are also entered in the tourney.

Three teams from the Fayette County Softball Association's Class A league are entered. They are Colonial Stair, Jeffersonville Merchants and Bell-Dor-Lite.

Arcole, of Columbus, and Krazy Kat Bar, of Newark, will open the tourney at 10 a.m. Saturday followed by Twin Kay Cafe, Russell, Ky. vs. Spurlock Construction Co., of Circleville,11; La Dolce Vita, of Columbus, vs. Tre-Mac, of Xenia, 12; Wilson Freight Co., of Springfield, vs. Colonial Stair, 1; the Outlaws, of Hillsboro, vs. winner Arcole-Krazy Kat Bar game, 2; Dubois Chemical Co., of Columbus, vs. the Associates, of Chillicothe, 3; Shawnee Trophies, of Chillicothe, vs. Straubs, of Chillicothe, 4; Wasserstroms, of Columbus, vs. winner of Twin Kay Cafe-Spurlock Construction game, 5; Bell-Dor-Lite, of Washington C. H. vs. Jeff Merchants, 6; and Hillsboro Merchants vs. Knapp's Carry Out, of Columbus, 7.

Fayette Heating, Oldies cop outdoor cage league wins

Fayette Heating and Cooling and the Oldies but Goodies emerged with victories in the city recreation program's outdoor basketball league Thursday at the Eyman Park courts.

The Fayette Heating and Cooling team nudged Ridge Homes by a 50-49 count, while the Oldies but Goodies, with a roster dotted with Miami Trace basketball coaches, posted a 50-46 win over the Bush Road Bandits.

Scoring in the outdoor basketball league is determined by the number of baskets only since no free throws are taken.

An 18-bucket performance by Mike Henry paced the Oldies but Goodies win over the Bush Road Bandits. Vic Pontius had eight baskets and Jan Stauffer and Bob Lanman had six each. Kemmy Goodson popped in 18 buckets for the Bush Road Bandits.

In next Tuesday's action, the Sports Center will meet the Bush Road Bandits and the Whites will clash with Fayette Heating and Cooling.

Thinking about a new home?

Your Ridge dealer is putting out the welcome mat for you this weekend. You're invited to see how Ridge offers you more home than you thought you could afford, at less than you expected to pay.

Choose the home you want
Start with one of our 35 beautiful home models, all as functional and spacious on the inside as they are beautiful on the outside. Then custom-plan your kitchen, living room and bedrooms to meet the needs of your family.

In fact, Ridge makes it easy for you to make the whole house into the home of your dreams. Select the siding, make the rooms larger, choose your appliances, colors, fixtures . . . everything!

At a price you can afford
The price? Well, by doing some of the finishing yourself, you can save thousands of dollars. That means you can have the extras you want. It also helps to keep your mortgage payments low.

And while we're on the subject, Ridge has mortgage money! As one of the nation's largest homebuilders, we always have it available for our customers, even when money is tight at the banks.

See for yourself
Come out and see for yourself that a Ridge home is a better home and a far better value. Your Ridge dealer will be there to explain why you can stop saving for a new home and start building one — because you probably have all the cash you need right now.

Saturday and Sunday - 1 to 7 pm.

NEAR WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE:
To reach the Open House: Take Rt. 41 South six miles to Anderson Rd. (second road past Sugar Creek Stone Quarry). Turn right one mile on Anderson Rd. Look for Ridge Homes Open House signs.

Artist colonies set for Greece

By PAUL ANAST

ATHENS (AP) — Where the raw, untouched beauties of Greek nature — rocky mountains, pine trees, and the blue sea below — are still to be found in many parts of the country, small, graphic, coastal towns are slowly growing up and being occupied by artists, intellectuals and recluses.

Following the widespread trend toward the sale of the numerous, small uninhabited Greek islands to both Greek and foreign millionaires, increased activity in the sale of Greek untamed nature has surfaced again.

And the areas sold are scheduled to gradually develope into what can only be described as "well-to-do artists' colonies."

One such enterprising concern catering to the interests of the nature lover is the Artists International Residence Co. It began with the sale of a coastal expanse of 250 acres at Marmarion, Euboea, Eastern Greece, in 1970, at the very low price of $550 per quarter of an acre.

By February 1973 the wild, untouched, but exotically beautiful expanse was included in a town plan by the Ministry of Public Works, with each acre now valued at $6,666 — and still rising.

THE SECOND expanse only recently put on sale is 250 acres of 422 acres owned by the company near the world-renowned Theater of Epidaurus, the cradle of Ancient Greek tragedy. The area is pine-clad — one of the greenest in the Greek Peloponese — mountainous, and includes an untouched part of the Saronic coast.

"Most people who take a look and expect to find a ready-to-build laid out plot are wasting their time," said Christos Katsiyannis, director of the Artists International Residence and a former actor himself.

"But the mentality and expectations of the man in the street does not concern us," he added. "We mostly cater and depend on the tastes, indeed perhaps the eccentricities, of the artistic and intellectual world."

The director said he estimated it would cost buyers another $233-$266 per quarter of an acre in Epidaurus, to cover electrification, light, water, telephone and road tarring.

THE MOST important stage then follows — the go-ahead from the competent Greek Ministry for its inclusion with a town plan. For this to be achieved the owners of the land must guarantee room for roads, parks, sports grounds, a church, a cemetery, and so on.

The final stage is the construction of houses by the company, which will again be handed over to land-owners at cheap, instalment rates. The interesting condition, however, is that the houses will be built — externally at least, in the graphic, colorful style of nearby village residences, so as not to destroy the landscape with "architectural monstrosities."

Despite the company's title, the sale of the land on an international scale is still only a plan. Buyers so far are largely Greek actors — such as internationally reputed Irene Pappas—poets, critics, journalists, lawyers, retired officers, and even former politicians. The low prices have also attracted many ordinary buyers.

Reasons stated for purchase range from romanticism, to nature-love, to escapism, to sheer investment — to put their money on some real estate before it is swallowed up by galloping inflation.

Tourists like to sing

LEASBURG, Mo. (AP) — The stereo system at Onondaga Cave on U. S. 66 here, has the latest songs on it from the new film musical, "Tom Sawyer." The reason is that the musical shot several scenes at the cave.

Tourists are given the words from the song so they can sing as they tour the cave.

Pornography ruling brings fears of state witch hunts

By BERNARD COHEN
Associated Press Writer

Prosecutors and police officials are delighted by the Supreme Court's new ruling on obscenity and many say it is just what they needed to lower the boom on dirty books and movies.

"If I operated one of those stores, I'd close like two minutes ago," Florida Asst. Atty. Gen. Ray Marky said Thursday after hearing of the ruling. "I think they are out of business."

Similar optimism was voiced by law enforcement officials across the nation after the high court widened the definition of obscenity and said community standards should prevail.

The new guidelines will permit states to ban books, magazines, plays and motion pictures that offend local standards, even if they might be approved elsewhere.

Many officials felt the court had finally clarified the language of the law and they cited the difficulty and expense in the past of applying national standards of decency to local cases.

"I expect that in the immediate future local communities can determine for themselves what will and what will not be tolerated in the nature of explicit sexual material," said Larry Salmon, Floyd County district attorney and chairman of the criminal law section of the state bar of Georgia.

Arkansas Atty. Gen. Jim Guy Tucker concurred.

"What correlation is there between a block in the center of New York City and Bald Knob, Ark.?" he asked.

However, the 5-4 decision met with sharp criticism from civil libertarians, book and magazine publishers, movie theater and book store owners and patrons of the pornographic arts.

"That's no victory for civil liberties," said Melvin Wulf, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "That's a serious setback for freedom of speech and of the press."

Jack Frantz, executive chairman of the National Book Committee, said his group has always argued that community standards meant the American community at large.

"It's absurd on its face that a book is deemed obscene, say, in Binghamton, N.Y., and not in Carmel, Calif. It's patently unfair to the reader." Frantz said.

Tom Ferrell, managing editor of Esquire magazine, responded, "I think for a national publication, it's kind of scary. If it means that there are going to be 50 laws governing obscenity, rather than one, it's going to be very troublesome for everyone."

In Chicago, a spokesman for Charles Levy Circulating Co., which distributes Playboy, Penthouse and similar magazines, said the company does not consider them "pornographic in any way, shape or form" and he foresaw no problems with the new law.

Ralph G. Haddun, 76, owner of an adult movie theater in Charlotte, N.C., criticized the decision.

"We don't make 'em come in here. We don't go out with a shotgun. It's supposed to be a free country," he said.

After the ruling was announced Thursday, Stanley Marks, operator of three adult book stores in Cincinnati, closed his shops and hung out signs.

The signs said the shops will remain closed until "we learn how to interpret the decision." They added, "Thanks for your loyalty."

Johnson added, "The average juror drawn from registered voters has a good understanding of what this community would tolerate and the limits placed on this standard.

"Columbus is in the Midwest and has a middle-of-the road viewpoint in regard to obscenity. We're not ultra-liberal, but we're not bedrock conservative either."

He said the past practice of applying national standards to the local community has been cumbersome and expensive because it involves bringing in witnesses who have lived and studied nationally

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. said, "the problem with the former rules were that the people sitting in judgment (the courts) were judging by national standards. They couldn't understand that there were local standards."

He said he was very pleased with the high court's ruling.

Cincinnati attorney Allen Brown, who has defended adult book stores in court, called the decision "repression—meaning the American people cannot read what they want.

"This means if you are going to distribute a book or movie in the United State, you have better do it for the little old lady in Dubuque."

Benson Wolman, executive director of the Ohio chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said the ruling will permit local government prosecutors to have a field day taking accused pornographers to court.

But Wolman said the ACLU in Columbus will "seek to assure new local standards are better than those of the Supreme Court."

Marion girl killed

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Mary L. Hunt, 16, of Marion was killed Thursday when she was struck by a car as she and two companions were walking on Ohio 23 near here, the state highway patrol says.

Four suspects deny guilt in vendor break

Four Dayton area men, charged with breaking and entering a vending machine, entered not guilty pleas in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon and were ordered held under $1000 bond each by Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

The four, James T. Horm, 19, Gary L. Shock, 21, Michael I. Blanchard, 20, and David K. Burdett, 19, were arrested by sheriff's deputies Wednesday morning after they allegedly pried open a soft drink machine at Yeoman's Gulf, U.S. 35 and I-71, and made off with $2 in change. Shock later handed himself (see story page 2).

All four cases were continued to Monday morning for arraignment.

Robert L. Pope, 23, Rt. 3, was found guilty of giving false information to a police officer concerning a June 8 robbery at a U.S. 35 and I-71 service station, and was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Pope had reported to sheriff's deputies that he was robbed of $269 the night of June 8 by a man with a gun. He later admitted the story was untrue after officers began questioning him about discrepancies in his story.

Judge Winegardner suspended $100 of the fine and the jail term provided Pope repay the station owner the $269 and that he violate no laws for a period of one year.

Sheriff's deputies said they had not yet determined what happened to the missing money, or how it was taken.

Body of Hamilton man identified by charts

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A body found last Friday in the Great Miami River near Harrison, Ohio, has been identified as Adam Hasemeier, 75, of Hamilton, Ohio.

Police said identification was made through dental charts. Officials said the victim, dead about three weeks, had been in ill health.

Cyclist, 10, injured

A 10-year-old bicyclist was treated at Memorial Hospital after the bicycle he was riding collided with the side of a car on a Court Street sidewalk, just east of Circle Avenue, Thursday evening.

Police said William R. Immell, 10, of 1119 Leesburg Ave., rode his west-bound bicycle into the side of a car driven by Kathy L. Sexton, 17, of 543 Warren Ave. The Sexton car was pulling away from Bob's Sunoco Station at the time.

The boy was treated in the emergency room for lacerations and later released.

Investigating officers said the brakes on young Immell's bicycle were inoperative.

Cars driven by Don W. Baescher, 40, of New Vienna and Brenda K. Schleich, 22, Williamsport, collided on the Washington Square lot at 7:51 p.m. Damage was minor.

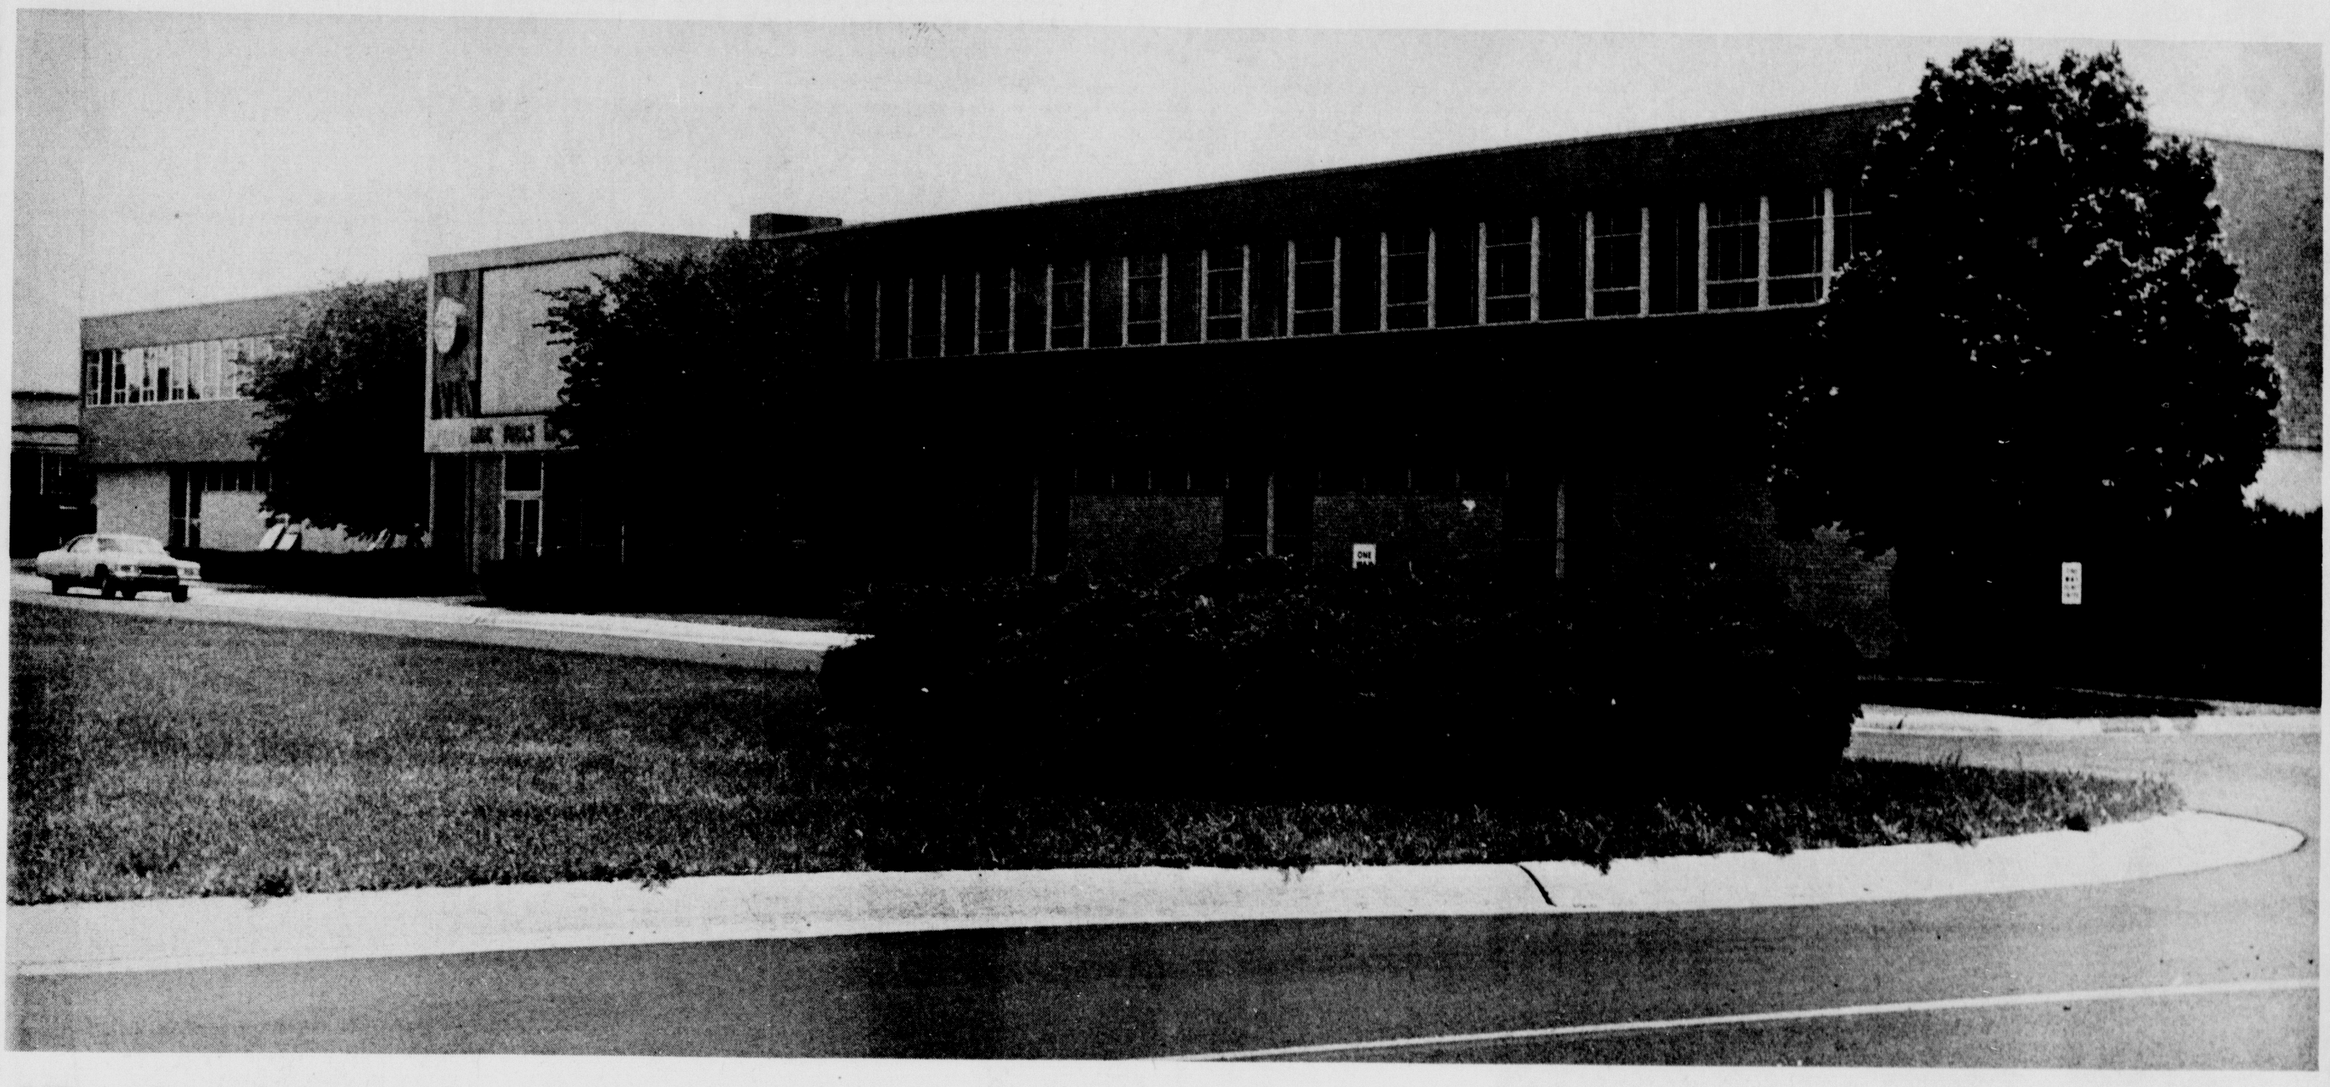
Mac Tools, Inc.

Welcome to Washington C.H.



Office and manufacturing facility of Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C. H.

35 years of progress

The operation of Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C.H. is now in full swing. The offices have been moved here as well as many phases of the manufacturing process.

The corporation, with distributors in all 50 states and Canada, is by no means a small company. It has a history of 35 years and is rapidly growing. Growth projections to 1977 show an almost doubling of the work force. Currently, there are about 400 employes at the Washington C.H. and Sabina facilities.

Mac Tools Inc., specializes in hand tools for mechanics. The 4,000 products manufactured here and in Sabina include wrenches, sockets, punches, chisels and screw drivers. The products are marketed by about 850 distributors who call on mechanics, service stations and automobile body shops.

The buildings in Washington C.H. were purchased by Mac Tools, Inc., about one year ago from the National Cash Register Co. Work started immediately to prepare the plant to Mac Tools' needs. Manufacturing started here last summer, and the offices and shipping department were moved to Washington C.H. within the past month.

The photographs and stories in this section show some of processes of tool making, and the personnel involved.

We welcome Mac Tools to Washington C.H. and believe the company will be an asset to the community.

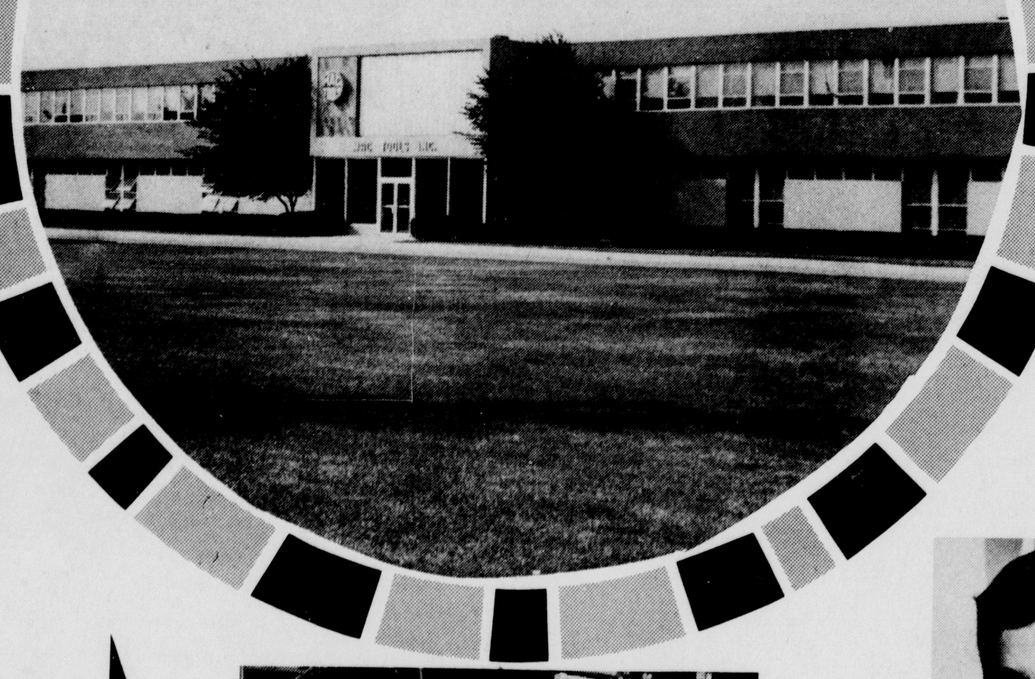
HI NEIGHBOR . . .



Being your neighbor for the past 35 years has been a rewarding and enjoyable experience. Mac Tools. . .now is no longer your neighbor but a part of your growing community.

Growth in any business or industry takes more than people and promises. . .it takes performance. There must be an ambition propelled by dedication and determination to exceed the "standards" of the industry. The happy consequence has been a sound, steady growth for our company and the necessity of our new building facilities in Washington Court House.

To the people of Fayette County. . .Thanks for your generous confidence.

Success attributed to marketing system

Much of the success of Mac Tools, Inc., has been attributed to its method of marketing: from manufacturer, to distributor, to actual consumer. This sytem has been used by the company throughout its 35-year history.

About 85 per cent of the company's production is devoted to hand tools for the automotive "after market" meaning the repair and servicing of automobiles and trucks.

Over 850 distributors are on the road calling on the consumers; service stations, mechanics and body shops. The distributors can be seen throughout the 50 states and Canada with their yellow vans with the red and white Mac Tools emblem.

Mac Tools' president, Paul W. Elrod, began his tool business career as a distributor, using the trunk of his automobile as a display area.

Today, the distributor virtually has a store on wheels. Many of the company's 8,000 products are neatly displayed in bins, on racks and on carpeted shelves in the van.

The sales department is headed by Thomas R. Sizer, of Wilmington, who serves as vice president of sales and assistant general manager. F. J. Kibbey, who joined Mac Tools about three years ago, is the assistant sales manager.

Sizer and Kibbey coordinate sales policies and assist the 50 district sales manager. They both travel extensively to meet with the district manager.

Each of the district managers supervise about 20 distributors. The district representatives coordinate the efforts of the distributors and conduct clinics and give assistance to the distributors.

New sales policies, including the leasing of the vans and point-of-purchase merchandising were established in 1969. Since that time sales have increased about 75 per cent.

About four new distributors are processed at the Washington C.H. facility each week. Most of these are in new territories since there is a very small turnover in distributors, according to Sizer.

A prospective distributor who has been assigned a territory can be processed in about two days after arriving at the factory here. The van is picked up in Wilmington, complete with display areas, the tools are added, paperwork is processed and the distributor is in business.

The district manager spends a week with the new businessman then he is on his own. From that point on the district manager serves as problem solver and provides additional training if it is needed.

The distributors order their merchandise from two sources — Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C.H., and Mac Allied Tools Corp. in Tallmadge. The 4,000 products manufactured by Mac Tools are shipped from Washington C.H.

Help the children stay safe this summer

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What to do about roaming children come summer?

In addition to all the dangers lurking about when children are footloose, their freedom is likely to be a happening for neighbors.

One woman insisted she isn't antichildren even though she is not a mother, but she considers children as big a problem in packs as dogs are. And why should she keep her big, obedient companion, Fido, penned in the house all day because he might knock down and hurt some uninvited little guest in HIS backyard?

Good question that only the mother of the little toddler might answer, maybe. But the ladies gave it a try as they listened to her complaints.

IN ADDITION to making the dog bark incessantly, children trample herbs and other plantings, she continued. And anything on the property not nailed down is picked up just because it is there.

She saw one child pick up a fireplace tool she had used at the outdoor barbecue, and nonchalantly toss it into her neighbor's yard as he walked up the road.

Why? He was probably equating the tool with a stick, she remarked.

She had complained to three mothers about their children and passed on their answers to the coffee group.

One had asked, "How can you tell a 6-year-old not to go on someone's property?" Another said, "You have my permission to chase him any time."

And a third replied, "You don't understand children because you don't have any . . ."

The ladies agreed that this is passing the buck, irresponsible-mother style.

IN FACT they decided that if dog wardens caution and fine people for letting dogs roam, similar measures should be applied to parents of children who are perennial nuisances.

More important, innocent people are often hurt when a child is hurt. Owners are punished if a dog nips a child. Drivers are often blamed if a child strays into the path of a car.

Everyone agreed you can't control a small child all the time. He might forget instructions. He might chase a ball or fly a kite or an airplane and wind up on another's property.

"But some women turn their children out of the house every morning as they do their dogs and cats," said one mother of four.

"They have no idea where they are going and they don't seem to care — as long as they are out of their hair. And when these kids grow up, they are still problems . . ."

THE WOMEN recalled a family who had always insisted they had "moved to the country to enjoy" and why shouldn't their children move about as they pleased? They are now teenagers and still challenging homeowners.

Two have been arrested for defacing property — one put graffiti over a garage and the other chopped down a valuable tree. They felt they'd be backed by their parents, but the law took over.

Summer is fraught with inherent dangers to unwary young people, a good enough reason to keep tabs on them, the group observed. In addition to the child molester there are the backyard swimming pool . . . automobiles . . . . lawn mowers.

One woman was appalled when she saw a barefooted youngster in her backyard fiddling with a lawn mower that she had left with motor running while she dashed into the house to treat a bee sting. Goodbye toes and fingers, she thought as she raced back in panic.

The group didn't limit their conversation to criticism — they had some constructive suggestions mainly based on methods used to control their own youngsters.

Inflation doesn't respect geography, survey indicates

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — It may be small comfort to Americans, but their inflation problems could be worse. They are in much of Western Europe.

Wage and price controls are not working well on this side of the Atlantic, an Associated Press survey shows. Often the controls have been less successful in Europe than in the United States.

The rate of inflation is still worse in Britain, France, Spain, Italy, Denmark and Finland than in America.

In Britain, for example, Prime Minister Edward Heath's government followed the Nixon lead last November and introduced the nation's toughest wage and price controls in its peacetime history. Inflation then was running at 9 per cent a year. It is still running now at 9.2 per cent a year.

Worse still, food prices have been rising faster in Britain under the controls than they were before. Last year food prices were rising at a rate of 3.4 per cent annually. This year they are rising at about 15 per cent a year.

Britain may be a special case. Much of the food price boost was caused by the nation's entry into the European Common Market on Jan. 1. Also, in this trading nation, imported food and raw materials are exempt from the price controls. And Britain must import 51 per cent of its food and raw materials.

But the pattern is not much different in other countries which don't have Britain's special problems.

In France, the controls are voluntary. The government has recommended a limit of 7 per cent a year on wage raises. But even Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing admits wages are now rising at a rate of 12 per cent annually.

Some countries have rejected wage and price controls as unworkable or as politically unacceptable. Spain and Italy are examples. In both nations inflation is now a worse problem.

In Italy the annual rate of inflation is nearly 14 per cent, up from 8 per cent last year. In Spain it is about 12 per cent, up from 8.7 per cent.

Belgium has compulsory price controls, yet inflation there is the country's worst since the Korean War, rising at about 8 per cent a year.

U.S. industry plans big outlay

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. industry will spend $3.16 billion to improve on-the-job health and safety in 1973, 26 per cent more than in 1972, McGraw-Hill Publications Co. reports.

According to its first health and safety spending survey, the company also noted that preliminary plans for 1976 call for $3.56 billion to be spent in this area.

Business investment for employe health and safety in 1972 totaled $2.5 billion, or 2.5 per cent of all capital investment. This will rise to 3 per cent of total capital spending in 1973 and continue at that level through 1976.

"The heavy gain in health and safety spending is obviously a direct reflection of how the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act is affecting business," says Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill chief economist. Greenwald called the act "perhaps the most spectacular issue to be faced by American industry since the pollution problem hit the front page."

New chemical turbine seen threat to present engines

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A Dallas man has invented a chemical turbine which he believes could replace the internal combustion engine and at the same time solve the problem of auto pollution. Some engineers, however, are skeptical.

The turbine uses oxygen and hydrogen—two of the most abundant chemicals in the world—to produce a superheated steam that the inventor, W. W. Gray, believes could run turbines or send cars speeding down the highway.

Gray and his chief engineer, Dr. Gerald Wyatt, however, admit that most of the information on the system's potential is theoretical. A prototype, they said, has been run briefly on only one occasion, and even then it was not attached to a device to produce any measureable horsepower.

The Dallas men showed a film and slides on their engine Monday at an engineering seminar here, and experts attending expressed skepticism about the potential for the engine.

"It's very early in the development for them to be talking about it," said Dr. R. L. Savage of Ohio University. "We'd need more information with some performance data. They've got a hell of a lot of work to do yet. They should come back in six months and tell us what they've done."

This, he said, is the reason "most of us were rather skeptical," about the new engine.

Tool firm started business in 1938

It has been 35 years of progress for Mac Tools, Inc., one of the newest industries in Washington C.H., and more progress is planned for the future as plans are under way to double the capital outlay for additional production capacity.

The firm, with headquarters here and another plant in Sabina plus associate firms in Medina and Tallmadge, began operation in 1938 in a rented garage in Sabina.

First known as Mechanics' Tool and Forge Co., the corporation was formed July 11, 1938, by R. W. McPherson, H. E. Pendry and O. N. Tucker. Other shareholders in the original firm were R. E. Cantrill, H. W. Harcum, G. W. Martin and L. R. Lyons. The first officers of the firm were McPherson, president; Tucker, secretary, and Martin, treasurer. Manufacturing began in October, 1938, with two employes, the president and secretary as the labor force.

The first production, capitalized on $5,100 for purchase of machinery and equipment, was marketed through Mac-Huff Tool Co., also of Sabina, which added the line of three box wrenches to their own line of punches, chisels and screw drivers.

The Mac-Huff firm was damaged by fire in 1940, and Mechanics' Tool and Forge Co. purchased the salvageable Mac-Huff tools and added Mac-Huff's sales force, including G.E. Waddell who later became president of Mac Tools, to its organization. The Mac-Huff firm was acquired by Mac Tools about four years ago.

It was Waddell who set the stage for the growth of Mac Tools. He was one of the pioneers in sales organization. Paul W. Elrod, current president and general manager of Mac Tools, referred to Mr. Waddell as "Mr. Marketing and Mr. Sales." "It was Mr. Waddell who really built the sales force," Elrod said.

The firm received a boost in 1942 when it received a military contract to produce 72,000 special wrenches for the U.S. Air Force. The proceeds from the military order allowed the company to purchase the garage in which its equipment was located, and later that year begin construction of a new building to house the company. The company's first catalog was also issued in 1942.

A second corporation, Clinton Tool Co., was formed in 1944 to manufacture sockets. Both firms occupied the same buildings and had the same stockholders. Mac Tools and the Clinton Tool Co. merged into one corporation in 1963.

A third firm, Mac Allied Tools Corp., was formed in 1946 to manufacture or acquire and distribute the items in the Mac Tools' line which were not manufactured by the parent firm. Mac Allied is located in Tallmadge.

Although the products were marketed as Mac Tools, the firm carried the Mechanics' name until 1961 when the name of Mechanics' Tool & Forge Co. was officially changed to Mac Tools, Inc.

New offices and a stockroom were constructed in 1963 in Sabina.

In May, 1972, the firm acquired the buildings in Washington C.H. formerly occupied by National Cash Register Co. Work began immediately to adapt the Washington C.H. buildings to Mac Tools' operation. Manufacturing began here in August, 1972, and the offices, finished goods and shipping department were moved from Sabina last month.

SECRETARY — Sandi Charles is secretary to Phillip Brewer, director of industrial relations and general superintendent of Mac Tools, Inc.

PAYROLL CLERK — Christine Snyder is the payroll clerk for Mac Tools, Inc. She prepares the payroll for the 400 employes in Washington C.H. and Sabina.

SECRETARY TO PRESIDENT — Karen Danes is secretary to Paul W. Elrod, president of Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C. H.

Not on porpoise, warns U.S. agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — You should know that it's illegal now to place radio transmitters on the backs of porpoises.

Who would want to do a thing like that? Tuna fishermen, that's who. They do it because porpoises chase tuna and if you can locate the porpoises easily, you can zero in easily on the tuna.

Since the Marine Animals Protection Act is intended to guard such beasts as porpoises, the National Marine Fisheries Service has slapped on the regulation, hoping that fewer porpoises will be entangled in fishnets.

British visitors gain in numbers

LONDON (AP) — Britain had 5,375,000 foreign visitors in 1972, excluding citizens of the British Commonwealth and visitors from the Irish Republic.

A report from the Department of Trade and Industry and the British Tourist Authority said this was an increase of about 8 per cent over 1971. The number of visitors from the United States, at 1.6 million, showed an increase of 4 per cent over 1971.

Driving in rain? use extra caution

NEW YORK (AP) — Driving too fast in rain can put your car out of commission in other ways in addition to the obvious danger of skidding, the Clark Equipment Trailer Division says professional truck drivers report.

First, the deluge from large puddles of water can soak wiring and other vital parts, causing your car to stall. Second, wet brake linings will cause uneven braking and maybe complete loss of stopping power. Third, mist droplets thrown off by vehicle wheels can become hazardous at 35 mph and positively blinding at 55 mph to following and passing vehicles.

Approximately 65 persons make up the office staff and provide the leadership for Mac Tools, Inc., in Washington C. H. and Sabina.

The seven-member board of directors includes three men who are actively engaged in the day-to-day operation of the corporation. These are: Paul W. Elrod of Rt. 5, president of Mac Tools; John Petty of Wilmington, vice president-manufacturing of Mac Tools, and T. R. Sizer of Wilmington, vice president-marketing and assistant general manager of Mac Tools.

Other board members are: Edward A. Huwaldt of Columbus, executive vice president of Huntington Bank Shares, Inc.; Lawrence R. Lyons of Wilmington, attorney; James G. Townsley of Middletown, general superintendent of Armco Steel Corp. at Middletown, and George G. Wilcox of New Britain, Conn., retired vice president and general manager of the Tool Division of the New Britain Machine Tool Co.

The fourth officer of the corporation is Charles O. Moore, secretary-treasurer, who serves as the financial controler and is in charge of the accounting department.

Elrod joined Mac Tools in 1948 as a distributor, and later was district sales manager and special sales representative. He joined the office staff in 1961 as assistant sales manager. He was appointed sales manager in 1962 and was named executive vice president in 1965. He has been president of the firm since 1968.

Sizer joined the firm in 1962 and was named vice president in 1969. He is in charge of coordinating all departments with special emphasis on marketing.

Petty, manager of the former McPherson-Huff Tool Co. in Sabina, joined Mac Tools about four years ago. He is in charge of all production areas.

Karen Danes is secretary to Elrod, and Jeam Palmer, who has been with the firm about 25 years, is secretary to Sizer.

In the accounting department, headed by Moore, Phyllis J. Brackney is the senior accounts clerk. Jane Fitzwater is the accounts clerk, and Christine Snyder is the payroll clerk and prepares the payroll for the 400 employes in Washington C. H. and Sabina.

The billing department consists of Phyllis Luck, key punch leader; Bonnie Smith, key punch clerk, and Diane Woolridge, key punch operator. An IBM 360 computer in Cincinnati is used to process the billing records.

Phillip Brewer is the director of industrial relations and general superintendent. He is in charge of all hiring, and motivational programs for production employes. As general superintendent he works directly under Petty in the reorganization of the manufacturing area. Sandi Charles is secretary to Brewer.

Fred Feldman is the production control supervisor. He secures sales and inventory data from the computer and schedules production. Gary Armbrust is the cost administrator and reviews and records the cost information on all tools manufactured. Armbrust also is in charge of inventory audits. Gale Braden is the production order clerk, and Brenda Hoppess, cost clerk, is assistant to Armbrust.

The engineering department is headed by N. Les Hannon, director of manager services. He is in charge of all areas of engineering including new product development, and material flow problems in the manufacturing departments. Others in the engineering department are: Bob Siple, draftsman; Thomas Reese, industrial engineer, and Helen Thomas, clerk typist.

Ed Hartman is the purchasing supervisor and is in charge of buying the 200 to 250 supply items needed in Mac Tools' operation. Patty Kelley is the purchasing clerk stenographer.

In the manufacturing area, Chester Beverly is the assistant general superintendent. He has been in the tool making business for over 25 years.

The department superintendents are Louis H. Poole, socket forging; Robert Hodge, wrenches; William Howard, tool and die; Roy Haines, socket machining; James Reese, punch, chisel and screw driver superintendent. Tom Dowler is the maintenance superintendent, and Robert VanPelt is the shipping department foreman. Wally Hockett is chief of security and safety.

Louis Poole has been with Mac Tools about 25 years. Hodge also has over 25 years' experience in the manfacturing of wrenches.

Haines has over 25 years' experience in the tool making business and is in charge of machining sockets.

Dowler, a newcomer with Mac Tools, previously worked as maintenance superintendent for the National Cash Register Co. in Washington C. H.

HEADS SOCKET DEPARTMENT — Roy Haines is superintendent of the socket machining department for Mac Tools, Inc. The department is located in the Washington C. H. plant.
